

Women Only

A special supreme court of Texas, composed entirely of women, has been appointed by Gov. Pat Neff to try a case in which the regular court was disqualified. It is believed to be the first time that women only occupied all the seats on a state supreme bench. Mrs. Edith Williams (above), member of the last legislature from Dallas, Mrs. Hortense Ward (below), prominent lawyer and suffragist of Houston, and Miss Nellie Robertson of Granbury, comprise the court.

A Capital Slide

They call Camille Calvat the "Eva Tanguay of France." She is making the biggest hit of the current theatrical season in Paris with a new song entitled, "Never Mind My Face—Just Look at My Legs."

The Capitol steps make a fine slide for sleds and Senate pages are quick to take advantage of the first snow-fall.

Widow Drilling for Oil on Lot at Home

It's against the law to drill an oil well on a little tract of ground like Mrs. F. J. Patterson's town lot at Wortham, Tex. But she's doing it. When big oil companies leased land all around the aged widow's tiny homestead, folk said they were trying to "squeeze her out." So Mrs. Patterson begged an opportunity to seek oil on her property, too. She told the railroad commission of her 30-year struggle to give her only son proper medical attention. And the commission had a heart.

They're "Perfect" Twins!

San Antonio, Tex., boasts about its "perfect twins"—Isabella and Dorothea Peters. And really you can't blame it, for here they are. But don't ask us to tell you which is which. The only way their mother, Mrs. Otto Peters, wealthy rancher, can distinguish one from the other is by a peculiarly designed ring one wears. They're athletic—lovers of nearly every sport. They swim even in winter—but that's not so hard to do in San Antonio.

Pick Out the King

Can you recognize royalty at a glance? If you can, here's where you can prove it, for one of the four gentlemen in the above photo is a king. He on the right is King Christian X of Denmark, busily engaged in his favorite winter sport, ice yachting.

The Fury of the Gale

The above photo graphically portrays the fury of the gales that sweep the British coast in winter. It shows an enormous wave breaking over the Longships Lighthouse off the Cornish coast at Penzance. The size of the wave can be estimated from the fact that the lighthouse stands 117 feet high on the highest rock of the cluster at Land's End.
