FILE BRIEF IN O'CONNOR CASE

Maintains Its Right To $125,000 Estate of Hastings Cobbler

Lincoln, Neb., April . (Special)-A brief of 165 pages has been filed with the supreme court by the special attorney for the state, which is seeking to escheat the estate of John O'Connor, Hastings cobbler, whose estate of $125,000 has been claimed by 150 different persons during the 12 years that have elapsed since his death without any will.

The state won in the lower court, and three sets of heirs are contesting this decision in the high court. The state takes the position that it has been established beyond dispute that never during O'Connor's residence in Hastings did any relative ever visit him and that he had told at least nine persons he had none on earth. It maintains that the verdict of the jury being sustained by sufficient evidence ought to be permitted to stand and a finish put to the litigation.

The law makes these percentages the minimum. It granted the Comstock Telephone company permission to charge 25 per cent, on outgoing messages handled for the Sargent company. The commission says this will not be used as a precedent, but that each case will be considered on its merits, with due reference to the cost of handling messages.

WITNESS IN DIVORCE

CASE HELD FOR PERJURY Beatrice, Neb., April - (Special)-Joseph Appleton is in county jail pending formal charges of perjury and District Judge William Moss is considering the calling of a grand jury in an effort to "clean up" Beatrice as the result of testimony introduced in the Grabher divorce case.

The Grabher case, which was sensational, reached a climax when Judge Moss interrupted Appleton on the stand, declaring that the witness' testimony constituted a clear cut case of perjury, ordered his arrest and instructed the county attorney to file formal charges immediately.

Appleton was called to the stand to tell what he knew of a box of candy, property of Martha Grabher, principal in the divorce action, which was delivered at the county jail just before Christmas, while Merton Richardson was confined there. Appleton first testified that Mrs. Grabher's conduct had been good while staying at a rooming house here. Appleton and Richardson were also

CHURCH FIGHT TO HIGH COURT

Factions of Congregation at Meadow Grove Not Agreed

Lincoln, Neb., April (Special))-Briefs filed in the supreme court show that a sharp division exists in the congregation of the Norwegian Lutheran church at Meadow Grove, Madison county, the epposing elements, generally speaking, being the younger and older members.

The case involves the question of which of two groups are the legal trustees of the church and the strife is not lessened by the fact that 80 acres of land located next to the townsite and valuable is owned by the church.

The church was one of a number established in America by the Hauge reformers. Hauge was a Norwegian who created a large following in his rebellion in Norway against the established church. Later Meadow Grove joined the Norwegian Lutheran church of America the national synodical body, and still later a vote was taken whether to remain in it or to join the Lutheran Free church. Questions of discipline and faith are also presented in the effort to determine in which group the legal title rests. It is claimed by one side that a majority never voted to join the Lutheran Free church.

Lincoln, Neb., April -- The Union Pacific railroad has taken the preliminary steps to go into the federal supreme court with its private crossing case. It filed a petition with the state supreme court asking for a rehearing, claiming that the court erred in holding that the state has the power to order that any of its property be used for the private convenience of another.

The case is a test one, and if the railroad loses, will mean the construction of a large number of crossings on farms that are bisected by its tracks. The difference between this case and the ordinary one where it has been well established that the land owner has a right to compel the railroad to build a crossing so that he may go from one part of the farm to another, is that usually the railroad is built over the farm lands, whereas in the case of the Union Pacific, it owned the land first.

A great deal of government landwas given the railroad when it was first built, and across a large part of this the road was built. Afterwards it sold the remainder of each quarter section to a farmer.

THESE BROTHERS SETTLE CONTROVERSY OUT OF COURT

Hartington, Neb., April cial)-The eight Gartner brothers of Coleridge, settled their case out of court, after seven of them sued one of their number, Gust, who was renting the home place. They alleged he had not paid his rent, as provided for in an agreement, and had paid no heed to a notice to move. They have now agreed to allow Gust Gartner to remain on the farm another year. They settled the case before Judge Bryant had time to make a ruling.

The brothers, George W., Henry, Jr., Nick, Edward, Oscar, Fred, Gust and William, control a quarter section of land near Coleridge. They leased the land to Gust in 1920 for five years, beginning March 1, 1921. The lease provided he should pay $1,500 yearly rent and if this was not paid promptly the lease could be terminated and on a written notice, he should vacate in 10 days. They claim the rent due October 1, 1924, was not paid.

LIFE TERMER

Judge Who Pronounced Sentence on Nick Kolios Makes Recommendation

Lincoln, Neb., April - - (Special) -Nick Kolias, who has served 11 years of a life sentence for murder, has been ordered released by the state board of pardons and paroles next August. This, with good time, means wiping out 16 years.

Kolias got into a fight with a section foreman near Chadron in 1914, and killed him.

Kolias pleaded guilty on the understanding, he says, that he was to he given a short sentence, although he had a defense that the foreman drew a knife on him. It was not until after he was in prison for six months that he learned he had been given a life sentence. He said the interpreter never told him that. For weeks the man acted like an insane man, but calmed down in time. Judge Westover, who sentenced him, recommended that he be given a commutation. Prominent Greeks of the state also interested themselves in his behalf.

ATTORNEYS HAVE UNUSUAL

CLAIM FOR CASH Lincoln, Neb., April - - (Special) -C. L. Waldron and L. T Magney, two Omaha attorneys, are in supreme court asking that they be given an order on the state deposit guaranty fund for $1,700 . They were defending J. T. Mathews, an Omaha doctor, charged with causing the death of Loretta McDermott of Bassett by performing an illegal operation. After Mathews had been convicted they heard of two women in Fremont who would testify that the girl had stopped at their house on her way and had there sought to relieve herself of her condition. The attorneys went to Fremont, but before the women would consent to be mixed up in the case they insisted that the lawyers put up in the hands of C. E. Negus, banker at Nickerson, money sufficient to insure them payment for loss of time and expenses in going to Omaha. Negus gave them a certificate of deposit in his bank.

Meanwhile the courts refused to set aside the conviction on the showing made as to the new evidence disclosed, and also meanwhile the Negus bank went on the rocks. The banking department contested the validity of the claim for the amount of the certificate of deposit. Judge Button first held that it was on illegal contract because it was virtuallly buying the testimony of the witnesses, but later exonerated the lawyers from any wrong intent or wrong doing, but refused to order the return of the money on the ground that it was merely a wager and that Negus was stakeholder. The lawyers appeal, declaring they don't want their reputation sullied by even a suggestion of improper conduct.
