WHY MILK REMAINS SWEET

I have just installed a new Reid Milk Cooler and Areator. The milk passes over the coils and cold water passes through them. The milk is cooled from 98 degrees to 55 degrees as fast as it is milked. The milk looses all the animal heat before being bottled and will remain sweet much longer. Due to the rapid increase in business since installing the cooler I believe it is a great help to

I have also built a large cooler holding 1200 pounds of ice for storing our butter and other dairy products. This insures you receiving them in the best of shape.
