MRS. WM. OVERTON.

(Atkinson Graphic.)

Mrs. William Overton died at 7:30 o'clock Thursday morning, June 16, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Andrus southeast of Atkinson, after a brief illness.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 this (Friday) afternoon at the Presbyterian church in Atkinson.

The Stuart and O'Neill ball teams are playing ball at the O'Neill ball park this afternoon.

MRS. FANNIE HORTON.

(Stuart Advocate)

Fannie (Lane) Horton was born at Chalton Abbotts, England, November 4th, 1854, the youngest daughter of Albert and Harriet Lane.

She was united in marriage to George William Horton, March 21, 1878.

They came to Illinois and resided there three months. Then came to Nebraska, August 2nd, 1878, and lived near Exter for four years.

In 1882 they moved to Holt County, where they resided on a homestead until Mr. Horton's death in April of this year.

Mrs. Horton departed this life at Fremont, July 12th, 1925, at the age of seventy-one years, nine months and three days.

Nine children were born to this union, of whom five are left to mourn this loss; William George Horton, of Stuart; Mrs. Ethel Mae Root of Niobrara; Mrs. Belle Lane of Shawnee, Wyoming; Ernest Albert Horton and Arthur Christopher Horton, also of Shawnee, Wyoming, and five grand children.

The remains were brought to Stuart Monday night and funeral services, conducted by Rev. Beers, were held at the Methodist church at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon. Interment was made in the Stuart cemetery, resting beside her husband who had just preceded her.

THE WONDER OF THE WORLD.

(By Holt County's Poet Laureate.)

Where is there such another spot?
I challenge any man!
To find in all this whole wide world
An equal if he can—
Why! Any other place but this Opportunity flees before
But here she sits right close at hand
With an ever open door.

You view in skies at night-time
The beauties of a star
And tho you use a good night-glass
It still remains afar
But here among our wonders
Less than three short miles away
We have a Star that's visible
To us in broadest day.

You read and imagine characters
In books you call the rage
But we have real live people
That live within our Page
Who are so very generous
To tourists who stop there
That they have long had up a sign
"Free Water and Free Air."

We have an Orchard of south-east
Where one may get his bread
Or candies for the kiddies dear
Or clothing, too, 'tis said.
And well I know when snow is deep
Or one gets caught in storm
There's places in the midst of it
That's almost summer warm.

Tho we have as yet no flying machines
We can take our motor cars
And in an hour be at Venus
Or dead and darkened Mars
And homeward bound amid oaken trees
If we should lack on gas
We fill up at the Middle-Branch
Thus simple matters pass.

A twelve mile run of northward hills
Reveals another sight,
A Red-Bird nestles in the dell
Which stays there day and night
And sings a song all thru each day
Yet hearers n'er get nervous
For its a song most beautiful
'Tis service, service, service.

Then westward we've a region
With enchantment in the air
You have the queerest feeling
When ever you near there
For tho no word is spoken
You seem to hear and feel
As tho 'twere being called aloud
The cryptic word O'Neill.

Now all these bear upon the life
In manners (so to speak)
That we have whole communities
Known as Joy and Meek,
Which add unto our wonders so
That now the facts unfurled
We ask you where's another spot
Its equal in the world.

—F. O. HAZEN.

WEST-ENDERS DEFEAT O'NEILL AT STUART SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The going is even at present in the new series between the O'Neill and Stuart baseball aggregations. O'Neill Thursday of last week defeated Stuart by a score of 9 to 3, on the local diamond, and Sunday at Stuart the west-enders trimmed the home boys to the tune of 5 to 1. The Sunday game was witnessed by the largest crowd ever attending such a dispute at Stuart and it seemed as though about all O'Neill was there. Ed Allen did the serving for O'Neill and Miller for Stuart. Allen didn't get to going good until after the second inning and it was in these that Stuart secured its damaging lead. Miller's pitching was a considerable improvement over last Thursday, perhaps because he had just become a benedict, and it may be that the O'Neill sluggers refrained from pounding him rather than to cloud the honeymoon. The game after the first two innings was a most exciting one and remarkably free from errors. Following are the details:

BERTHA HULL FALLS ON KNIFE

Red Bird, Neb., July 20: When she accidentally ran a paring knife in her right eye, Bertha Hull, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hull, living southwest of Red Bird, is believed to have destroyed the sight in that eye.

The little girl was playing outside with other children of the family and while running with the knife in her hand she fell and the point of the blade entered her eye.

She was taken to a hospital at Lynch, where it was feared the eye would have to be removed.

FORMER HOLT COUNTY RESIDENT REVIEWS CONDITIONS IN IRELAND

A personal letter just received by T. V. Golden from M. J. Garrett, a former resident of Holt county, now visiting in England and Ireland, tells so interestingly of present conditions in Ireland, as Mr. Garrett sees them, that it is herewith reproduced for the perusal of the readers of The Frontier. Mr. Garrett homesteaded in Iowa township more than thirty years ago and later taught school at various points in the county. He resides in El Paso, Texas, and at present is visiting his son, a Rhodes scholar at Oxford university, England. Mr. Garrett is not an Irishman and so far as Mr. Golden knows is not aware of Mr. Golden's views on the Irish Free State and the Irish question. He is writing as one friend to another.

"During our five days in Dublin we have visited the Postal Department Building, Phoenix Park, and other scenes of violence and tragedy and monuments to Griffith, Collins, and others, who have paid the full measure of devotion and who have not lived to see any of the fruits of their labors.

On the other hand we have visited the Supreme court, sitting under authority of the Free State created by vote of the Irish people and deliberating very fairly, it seemed to us, to give justice to an Irish citizen under condemnation to death; we have seen the Dail, elected by votes of Irish citizens, men and women, and of the Seanad, appointed, but seemingly well and satisfactorily chosen, (and soon to be succeeded by senators chosen by popular vote); and we have noted the careful, conscientious and fair deliberations of these two houses, laboring to build wisely, and to promote the welfare and happiness of the people.

It is true there are innumerable rocks and shoals, and that much of Henry Waterson Tomlinson, leading chicken fancier of Beaver Flats, is minus a flock of fine thoroughbred fowls because he recently succumbed to the wiles of several city chaps who are summering in the Calamas Valley and joined the newly organized golf club promoted and instigated by them.

Tomlinson's flock for years have been the talk of the valley and The Flats. Each member has been raised under the personal supervision of the rancher and as a consequence such an affection had sprung up between chickens and owner, until Tomlinson took up golf, that the birds would fly up and perch on his arms and shoulders when he strolled about the place. Early morning when he entered the pens the flock would flutter about him, cackling and clucking their greetings.

The chicken rancher was one of the first to take up golf when the Beaver Flats club was organized this spring, but only recently did he consider himself proficient enough to justify a full set of golfer's togs. The latter were kept in his locker at the clubhouse until Tuesday of last week, when Tomlinson was designated as one of the team to represent the Beaver Flats club at the Calamas Valley invitation tournament. The night before he brought the uniform home and donned it immediately on arriving Tuesday, as play was to start early.

The chickens still were in their coops as Tomlinson made his entrance into the yard, but promptly rushed out at the signal of the clicking of the gate latch to greet him. The apparition of the rancher in cap and Scotch plaid stockings proved so terrifying to the chickens, however, that uttering squawks of terror, they followed the cock of the flocks in a wild flight over the fence and into the brush beyond. Tomlinson, unaware of the real cause of the panic, attempted to round them up, but only added to their fright in his efforts. He finally desisted to avoid being taken to the tournament.

The chickens, still unstrung and nervous, ventured back to the pens during his absence, but again took to the brush upon his return in the evening, and ever since has been unable to locate them.

the sea upon which the Free State must sail is yet uncharted. But from Civil War there seems to be by implication a truce, giving the pilots and crew a little time to work out plans and give them a trial.

The horrors of civil war, with its accompaniment of treachery, its division of families, parishes, and societies, pitting brother against brother, father against son, Catholic against Catholic, Protestant against Protestant, have brought a reaction, a revulsion of feeling, and a cessation of active opposition to the present authorities.

"True forty-eight elected members of the Dail hold aloof and refuse to cooperate with the Free State members in the work of legislation, but it seems to be a policy of watchful waiting and not of resistance or obstruction.

"There are, however, so many things to do, so many policies to formulate, so many problems to solve, so many divergent views, hopes and demands to satisfy that there must be many disappointments, and much opposition aroused by the impossibility of pleasing all.

"The difficulties arise from differences in the people,—racial, linguistic, religious, financial, occupational, experiential, and temperamental.

"The members of the Oireachtas seem to be men and women of fair ability and intelligence, patriotic, honest, and appreciative of their responsibilities. But they are in nearly every case inexperienced in legislation or in methods of parliamentary procedure, and not well informed in regard to methods tried and proven in other countries.

"Everything is to do, and little time to study, deliberate, and qualify themselves for action.

"I have no further time at present. Perhaps I may write you again.

"If you think any thing in this may be of interest to the many people of Irish blood in the vicinity of O'Neill, you are at liberty to publish any part of this you think advisable. Sincerely yours,
M. J. GARRETT."

WHY MILK REMAINS SWEET
I have just installed a new Reid Milk Cooler and Aerator. The milk passes over the coils and cold water passes through them. The milk is cooled from 98 degrees to 55 degrees as fast as it is milked. The milk loses all the animal heat before being bottled and will remain sweet much longer. Due to the rapid increase in business since installing the cooler I believe it is a great help to my customers.
I have also built a large cooler holding 1200 pounds of ice for storing our butter and other dairy products. This insures you receiving them in the best of shape.
All the leading dealers in town handle our butter! When buying, ask them for it.
