O'NEILL WALLOPS ROYAL AND TWO UMPIRES AT ROYAL SUNDAY

The O'Neill champions, accompanied by a large number of super-fans and admirers, journeyed down to Royal last Sunday over roads that were none too good, and walloped the Royal baseball aggregation and two umpires by a score of 11 to 4, which is to say that a pleasant time was had by all. Joy was added to the occasion by the appearance in the box for O'Neill in the ninth inning of Fred Doyle, who can and has played every other position on the diamond well when not holding down the first sack, which he plays the best. This last is in no manner intended as a slam at Mr. Doyle's abilities as a pitcher, for not a hit was scored on him and he only hit one batter. The game was witnessed by an immense throng, perched on the mountain crags which surrounded the diamond at Dykesman's park where the contest took place.

The O'Neill team and managers found the umpires already selected on their arrival, but raised no objections, and immediately on going to bat set about the business of winning the game, with Emmet Doyle making his usual home run in the first inning. Kane, playing short for O'Neill, hit a two-bagger in the fourth and later scored, and then the boys didn't get any more until the seventh, Royal in the meantime having accumulated one run in the second and two in the third. The boys proceeded to salt the game away in the seventh by going out and getting nine more runs, batting through the list and two on the second round in doing so. Person, playing right field for O'Neill, established a unique record in baseball by scoring two runs in this inning.

Pitcher Ed. Allen as usual covered himself with glory in the game, holding the Royal men to only four hits and striking out ten men, in spite of the efforts of the strike and ball umpire. Kane, playing short for O'Neill, was one of the sensations of the game. He accepted every chance that came his way and also in five times at bat made two three-base hits, and two two-base hits. Reeve, who opened the game for Royal, was taken out of the box after the first third of the seventh inning, being replaced by V. Johnson. Twelve hits were scored off Mr. Reeve in his 6 1-3 innings and five off Johnson in 2 2-3 innings. Immediately after the conclusion of the seventh inning the vast throng realized that something was about to happen, when Cecil W. Conklin donned a catcher's mitt and began warming up Fred Doyle. He soon succumbed to Fred's terrific fast ones and was relieved by Emmet Doyle, who with mitt reinforced with six bits worth of beefsteak successfully resisted the bombardment until the side went out to field in the last half of the eighth. During this latter period Fred kept himself "hot up" by climbing the cliffs back of first base, so that he was in perfect condition when he traded places with Allen in the last half of the ninth and stepped into the pitcher's box for the first time. The stunt was not because Allen needed relieving, for he never does and the game already was safely stowed away, but that Fritz might realize his ambition of having played every position on the O'Neill team. It will be several years before Mr. Doyle is as good a pitcher as Mr. Allen, and may be more, but he officiated ably and with plaudits from the crowd, all of whom were with him to the finish. MRS. D. A. DOYLE.

Thomas Griffith received a telegram last Monday announcing the death on Sunday of Mrs. D. A. Doyle at her home in Rockford, Michigan, a suburb of Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Doyle and family were residents of O'Neill for many years, leaving here a few years ago for their present home. Her many O'Neill friends will learn of her death with sorrow.

The funeral services were held at Grattan, Michigan, near their home. The cause of her death is thought to have been heart failure.

No details of her deaths have been received at this date.

BRAKEMAN, IN AUTO, HEADS OFF TRAIN MENACED BY BROKEN BEAM

Fremont, Neb., Aug. 12.—Floyd Bracken, Northwestern brakeman, didn't jerk the red cloth off the dining room table, rush out and flag the 'Midnight Express' from running into a wreck like the woman in the storybook, but he almost duplicated her feat.

Bracken was standing in the Brunswick restaurant last night, opposite the Northwestern depot, as passenger train No. 3, bound for Norfolk, pulled out. He saw a broken brake beam hanging.

There was no time to lose. The train was making speed. The broken beam might cause a wreck. Bracken's mind worked fast. He remembered that the train made a sweeping circle half around Fremont, in leaving the city. There might be time before it reached the Broad street road crossing, nearly three miles out of town.

No. 3 is the passenger train that reaches O'Neill at 11:30 p. m.

EMMET PICNIC.

The Catholic Picnic at Emmet on August 5th, was a great success. The two ball games brought together the largest crowd ever seen at a ball game in Emmet. Shields township defeated Emmet second team 7 to 5. The second game between the O'Neill Champions and Emmet was a real battle. O'Neill had its best team in the field with Allen pitching. Emmet had five of Stuart's paid players and had Tomlinson of Lynch in the box. O'Neill won 8 to 5.

The Catholic Ladies served supper to 500 people. The O'Neill Concert band entertained the crowd during supper from six to eight with a splendid assortment of up-to-date music.

The big bowery seventy-four by sixty-four was filled with a happy crowd of dancers from eight until two. The Hutton Orchestra of six pieces, from Newport and Long Pine, satisfied everyone with their selections.

The crowd was the largest ever seen in Emmet. It was an orderly crowd and there was not an accident. The whole affair was a great success socially and financially. Those in charge of the picnic have good reason to congratulate themselves and be proud of their success as managers.

In connection with this grand pageant will be staged the annual Frontier Days Exposition presenting the best riders of the world. NO OUSTER PROCEEDINGS.

(State Journal, Aug. 8.)
Attorney General Has Prepared None Against City Attorney Boyle of Norfolk.

Attorney General Spillman said Friday he had not prepared papers for the purpose of filing ouster proceedings against City Attorney Hugh Boyle of Norfolk. He did not reply when asked if Governor McMullen had directed him to file proceedings of that nature.

"Complaints have been received at this office charging Mr. Boyle with defending persons charged with bootlegging," said Mr. Spillman. "Whether a city attorney can be suspended or removed from office on such a charge is doubtful. The statute does not specifically make it the duty of a city official to enforce laws of the state in every particular, including the liquor laws, but when any official takes an office it is inferred that he will stand for law enforcement. I would not advise city attorneys to defend persons charged with bootlegging, though the statute does not prohibit them from doing so."

TWO MEN BACK TO THE REFORMATORY

(State Journal, August 8th.)
Paroles Revoked For Pair Who Stole From Leather Store—Took More Than $500 Worth of Goods.

Harvey Cromwell, twenty-one, white, and Eddie Heubanks, thirty, colored, were taken back to the reformatory Friday afternoon following their arrest Thursday and the confession of Cromwell that he had taken more than $500 worth of leather and similar supplies from the Edward E. Gustin store, 934 P, where he was employed. He was aided in disposing of the loot by the colored man, he said.

Both men had been paroled from the reformatory and in another week

Cromwell would have been free. He was paroled to Mr. Gustin who, gave him a job in his store, although he said he did it out of sympathy and had no need for another man.

Cromwell said Friday that a third man, who worked at Harpham leather goods company participated in the leather stealing scheme. He took goods amounting to several hundred dollars from that place. Mr. Gustin recovered Thursday evening about $500 from the loot taken by Cromwell.

Cromwell replied that he did not get enough pay, when his employer asked him why he had committed the thefts. He was paroled several months ago and since then had met a girl of good family to whom he had become engaged, taken to shows and riding in rented cars. A slicker and a valuable pocketbook which he had stolen and presented to her were recovered by police.

Heubanks acted as a go-between in the leather theft scheme, Cromwell said, and kept the loot at the barber shop, 1019 P, where he worked; also disposing of the contraband goods for a share in the proceeds. He denied Cromwell's accusation.

The pair was apprehended when the colored man sold fifty pounds of leather, stolen from the Gustin shop by Cromwell, for $16 to a shoemaker Thursday afternoon. He declared that he sold the leather at Cromwell's orders and knew nothing about its being stolen. The latter insisted that Heubanks sold the goods without his knowledge and that he had merely given the package to the colored man to hold for a while.

Heubanks was paroled three months ago, having been sent up from Lincoln for burglarizing a store at Havelock. He was picked up by police December 1, 1923, and sentenced to one to ten years. He had been in similar trouble before.

Cromwell was sent up for the same offense from O'Neill, and served twenty-five months prior to his parole to Mr. Gustin. He had done time in Kearney before that, he said. He was rearrested at O'Neill. His home in Lincoln was at Arlington.
