

When Food Sours

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal.

Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

Next time a hearty meal, or too rich a diet has brought on the least discomfort, try—

The Liberal Church

Rev. Charles F. Potter, who was one of the pillars of the Scopes defense in the Dayton evolution trial, is about to found a new kind of church, a Liberal church, in New York.

Doctor Potter in a recent interview threw a light on his new church's cheerful philosophy by means of an epigram.

"All the animals but man," he said, "know that the principal business of life is to enjoy it."—Detroit Free Press.

Students Organize Parish

Two hundred and eighty Catholic students at the University of Oklahoma have organized a parish, the only one composed of and controlled entirely by students in the United States and probably in the world. The letter of incorporation was granted by Bishop Francis C. Kelley, of the diocese of Oklahoma.

Mystery of Life

"It's strange to think of how a tad pole eventually turns into a frog." "Huh!" growled the husband of the tartar. "It's stranger to think how the little duck I married turned into such a wildcat."

You Will See These With The First Robin In The Spring

PRINTS in various types will tell the story of next Spring's fashion news. Already the clothes designed for Winter resort wear are on display, with prints in the form of frocks and short jacket ensembles predominating. All sorts of cotton prints, too, seem destined for popularity, as well as light wool crepes, and so it ought to be a simple and delightful task to choose a becoming dress for every type and taste next season.

Net gains in popularity, both for afternoon and evening frocks, in many instances it is combined with a solid fabric such as crepe or transparent velvet. Many ankles must be kicking at their concealment, because lots of the new dance frocks show deep transparent hems of tulle, lace or chiffon, thus allowing our ankles at least a certain amount of publicity. The full long all-around skirt graces the ballroom floor, but walking suits and dresses remain at a sensible and comfortable length for walking. Many women who allowed themselves to be persuaded into buying long skirted dresses for practical daytime wear have quickly repented their surrender to fashion.

Dresses and coats will be caped next Spring, and it is thought that the cape will make a come-back in ensemble form. For wear later in the year, many caped coats will be sleeveless, as will most of the one-piece sports dresses. Of course, it is always rash to prophesy, especially so when dealing with the vagaries and whims of the mode, but caped coats and dresses, printed dresses with short jackets to match and bright colors such as red in all shades, bright blues and greens, would seem to assure a colorful future at any rate.

Old Mother Goose Battles for Life In Columbia Row

New York—Mother Goose is on trial for her life in this witch-ridden city and a lot of women professors are throwing adjectives at one another with reckless abandon up in the sacred precincts of Columbia university teachers college.

Today it looks as if New York had grown too literal minded for the foolish philosophy of the poor old lady and that the present generation of children, so far as Columbia educators can see to it, will have to give up Peter Piper, the Old Lady in the Shoe, Simon and the Pieman and as a crowd of companions from the animal world

WOMEN SPEND BIG SUMS FOR BEAUTY AIDS, FIGURES SHOW

Minneapolis—Milady's face is not only her fortune, but her cosmetician's as well. A Minneapolis millinery authority asserts that out of $1,000 spent by the average woman, $138 is for cosmetics, and the beautician follows the cosmetician and gets $100. Meanwhile the millinician gets only $48 of the $1,000, he says, and the bootician gets $40.

If the figures are correct, they show, among other things, that the

as ever romped their way through the tattered pages of a nursery book.

Bans Jingles

These are sad days for poor old Mother Goose and the wee fairy folks, for Miss Mary Duggan of the bureau of educational service at teachers' college has declared that nursery jingles and fairy tales must go. The Moo of the Moo Cow, the bear that walked and talked like a man, Red Riding Hood and the Hungry Wolf, Goldy Locks, the Little Red Hen, Jack the Giant Killer and even frightened little Peter Rabbit are taboo.

In place of these old friends who have made their homes in a million nurseries for more years than a grandfather can count, the thousands of teachers being graduated from teachers' college each year, if Miss Duggan has her way, must put the stories of truth—tales of good boys and girls who eat their cereal and spinach and become strong men persons who deal with the face have outsmarted those who deal with the feet and even those whose commodity is headgear. It would appear, too, that shoes and hats wear better than faces, but this observation is more superficial than superficial.

Even so, Minnesota's feminine millinery output is rated at $1,100,000. It sounds better in the large than when stated on a per capita basis which would be only about 50 cents a head, whereas everyone knows there is hardly a head in Minnesota that is hatted for so little.

There are items under other heads omitted by this disclosure of milady's and women. Other Columbia brand nursery stories tell of children who brush their teeth three times a day and never have to go to the dentist more than twice a year.

Mother Goose Finds Friends

Teachers headed by Professor Annie Moore and Joan Betzner of the children's literature course and Miss Alice Dealglash, teacher of story telling for young children, holds a different opinion. They would not put Mother Goose to death, but they would take her broomstick away and give her a vacuum cleaner. They advocate retaining the best features of the old lady's work as well as those of Grimm and Hans Christian Andersen fairy tales and adding to them the better modern children's tales. The new trend in fairy tales is moderation, they say.

ills—which might be revealing, though it is easy to see that he is following the mode trend of the moment, which operates against revealing quite as much as formerly was in the open. He says silk hosiery is the next largest item after shoes, but he omits mention of the figure, possibly because the figure is not going to be revealed this winter, at least not so definitely as heretofore.

Of course, these are data for periods lately passed. The coverage for the winter of 1929-30 will be more extensive.

Recover Silver From

Films of the "Movies"

How one of the large Hollywood motion picture laboratories has turned its tanks of old developing solutions into a silver mine yielding $6,000 a month is told by the government bureau of standards. The emulsion on undeveloped film consists largely of silver, associated with bromine to form silver bromide. When developed, the silver bromide that has been exposed to light changes to metallic silver. In the fixing bath, the unchanged silver bromide is dissolved out, leaving clear spaces where the film was in darkness. Every pound of silver bromide contains more than nine ounces of silver. Though miles of film are run through the solutions weekly, and they contain large quantities of silver, they were formerly thrown into the sewer when their power was exhausted. Now, by a simple chemical process, the silver is recovered, and sold to the United States mint at San Francisco. Old film is also burned to recover the silver and sometimes yields as much as $1,000 worth of silver a month in addition.

Turtle Centuries Old

A giant sea turtle, five feet long and estimated to be not less than five hundred years old, has been taken alive by Dr. W. J. Kent, curator of the Hastings (Neb.) college museum. The turtle was caught in the Bahama Islands. The reptile will be shipped to Hastings and placed in a tank of running water at the museum. "When Columbus visited the islands on his voyage of discovery," a letter from Kent said, "this turtle was probably fifty or seventy-five years old, and measured six or seven inches."

Scots in High Place

The Scotch appear to have a strong hold on the British premiership. J. Ramsay MacDonald is the fifth prime minister from Scotland in thirty years. The others were Lord Roseberry, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, Earl Balfour and Bonar Law. During the same period the Welsh have had one premier, David Lloyd George, and the English two, Lord Salisbury and Stanley Baldwin.

Natural enemies of pests that trouble man are being used in New Zealand. Tests with the cinnabar moth on ragwort proved successful and if the moth can adapt itself to the climate, large numbers will be liberated in infested areas in an effort to stamp out the ragwort.
