NORFOLK SEES BUILDING BOOM

No Vacant Homes or Store Buildings Makes New Ones Urgent

Norfolk, Neb .- (Special) -With house famine and not a vacant store building in Norfolk the city is facing another important building program this year. Local contractors' reports show that bids will be issued for several important new structures within the next few weeks. The recent fires which have played havoc with the business section of the city result in the reconstruction of several important buildings and the construction of a new bank building for the Nebraska State bank which was badly damaged by fire.

A new building on the state hospital grounds is also included in the local building program for this

Reports are persistent that the Catholics plan the construction of a hospital due to popular demand and also because of hospital congestion here. The General hospital recently closed and that leaves the city with but one hospital.

Half a dozen smaller business buildings and half a hundred new homes are planned for construction this year.

OFFICE HE HOLDS Lincoln, Neb .- (UP) -- Competition for public office is a wholesome thing, Attorney General C. A. Sorensen said in a statement "welcoming" Bert Hardenbrook, Ord attorney, as a candidate for attorney general on the republican ticket.

$10,000,000,000 Program. From Minneapolis Journal.

Secretary of Commerce Lamont estimates that more than $10,000,-000,000 will be spent on private and public construction in the United States during 1930. Since his esti-mate is based on complete data from 26 states and partial returns from all the others, it can probably be accepted as a fairly accurate index of the nation's reactions to Mr. Hoover's plea for an expansion of construction activities.

Present indications are that more than $7,000,000,000 will be spent on public buildings, public works and public utility construction. If all the contemplated programs materialize, it seems likely then that a peace-time record for this new type of construction will be established in the United States. According to reports now in the hands of Mr. Lamont, approximately $3,325,000,000 will be spent on public works of all sorts, and an outlay fully as large will be made by public utilities, railroads and telegraph companies. Class railroads alone will undertake construction involving the expenditure of well over $1,000,000,000; and electric, gas and street railway companies are to launch programs callfor an expenditure of nearly $500,000,000. Commercial and industrial structures which will be built or initiated during the year will account for about $3,000,000,000 of the $10,000,000,000, total it is esti-

What a program of the dimensions of this one can accomplish in the way of stabilizing and stimulating business we may only guess but it is certain to have a very potent influence. When $10,000,000,000,000 is poured into construction, scores of industries must react to the demand for materials. Steel and lumber, glass and cement are more obvious items which come to mind when an attempt is made to visualize construction on such a vast and diversified scale. As a matter of fact, program of this sort makes itself felt throughout the entire economic structure. It means more jobs, heightened buying power and increased production all along the

Q. For what purpose was the gyroscope invented? P. D.

A. When first invented, the gyroscope then called rotascope used as a scientific toy to illustrate the dynamics of rotating bodies, the composition of retations, etc. A delice ely mounted form of the above apparatus invented by M. Foncault, is used to render visible the rotation of the earth on account of the tendency of the rotating wheel to preserve a constant plane of rotaon, independent of earth's motion. This same principle is made use of in an instrument invented by Dr. H. Auschutz-Kanpie, designed to replace the mariner's compass or to serve as a check upon its accuracy.

OLD DESERTER CLEARS RECORD

Other Enlistment Periods and Good Service Overbalance Bad Step

Omaha, Neb .- (UP)-Twenty seven years after he had deserted from United States army at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., John C. Gillepsie, 54 years old, surrendered himself to military authorities here.

Gillespie's service in three wars will over-balance his one fall from grace and he undoubtedly will be restored to citizenship and be made eligible for pension and compensation, Maj. H. J. Lindt of the Seventh corps area said. "My conscience bothered me for 27 years and finally I could stand it no longer," Gillespie told Major Lindt when he gave himself up.

Gillespie served in the Spanish-American war, the Filipino insurrection and the World war. It was during peace time that he "went over the hill," induced to make the jump, he said, because he could not stand discipline of one of the "hardest boiled" captains in army history.

He began his military career as a private in the Seventh Ohio in 1998. His home was at Marietta, Ohio, and he enlisted in Columbus. His regiment did not get out of the United States.

Upon his discharge he enlisted in the Seventeenth infantry and went to the Philippines where he fought against Aguinaldo. Returning to this country he was discharged, but re-enlisted almost immediately and was sent to Fort Leavenworth, where suffering mental anguish because of malaria fever he contracted in the Philippines, he deserted. He enlisted in the World war under name of Joseph G. Wade and saw service in France as a corporal in the Fifty Seventh engineers.

Herman Elke, young famer near here, was a member of hospital unit No. 40, and shortly before the signing of the armistice his company was stationed in the Argonne sector. One day while he was on duty picking up and caring for wounded, Elke found the testament close to a machine gun nest and pile of old clothes. On the fly-leaf was the following name and address: Charles M. Drennen, 1701 Boundary street, Aliquippa, Pa. Supposing the owner to be among the dead, Mr. Elke placed it among his things and forgot about it. A few weeks ago he happened to run across the little book and write to the address. To his surprise back came an answer from Mr. Drennen, who said in part:

"I received your letter and it was nice of you to write and tell me about the testament. I don't know where I lost it unless it was near Reson farm, along the Vesle river, where I was wounded by machine gun fire, in the shoulder. There were five brothers of us in France and we all came back so I think we were lucky."

Mr. Elke returned the testament. TRAP SET FOR BURGLAR

DEPOSITORS' SPOKESMAN

LAMBASTS CHARLES BRYA. Lincoln, Neb. - (UP)- Characterizing Charles W. Bryan's "last minute rush to the aid of the depositors" as a foolish and inconsistent political gesture," R. T. Jones, manager of the Nebraska depositors' league, has issued a statement challenging the former governor's record. "Analysis of Investigator Shallenberger's report shows that the guaranty law failed because of improper administration," Jones said, and continued to point out that during Bryan's administration, his appointee "Mr. Knudtzsen conducted bank examinations more or less as a farce rather than as a reality."

"It was during your administration," Jones charged ,"that a considerable portion of the excessive loans in Nebraska were made by incompetent and dishonest bankersand $5,000,000 worth of preferences were created. "Finally," Jones declared, "it was during your administration that the guaranty fund commission law was passed, the saddest story any state can tell." Jones asked the former governor to explain where he was during the special session of the legislature and why he did not then come forward with some constructive plan

rather than now attacking the plan set up as a solution for the banking situation.
