O'NEILL'S ROAD PROGRAM

It was only after considerable observation and waiting and after consultation with several responsible people that I have decided in the name of the O'Neill Commercial Club to express some opinions in regard to our road problems.

It is over four years since the business people got together and decided that the completion of Federal Road No. 13, to the south, was the most important project we had to consider. State Engineer Cochran has cooperated with the county board to further that project. Men have given of their time and money to help along. These men have given their time freely to bring to a close a boulevard to the south. In a measure they have met success. But just here is where observation teaches us we have left something undone. A letting of the road contract was thought feasible in March, then that was postponed until April, now it is to May. We wonder if that highway will really be considered this year. It has been hanging fire for ten years. Another year or two may change our geographical importance and when, then, will the road be built, if ever?

Thousands of communities just like ours, are clamoring for aid now. What ones are receiving cognizance? It is those who are cooperating with all their might with the Federal and State authorities. There are enough of these and more to fill the quota of those who will receive aid.

Now, I wish to consider what is probably the stumbling block of our failure. It is the condition of the streets of O'Neill over which these Federal aid projects pass. I refer to Douglas Street, and to that part of Federal Highway No. 13 from the town square to the city limits, south, principally, however, to Douglas Street. For several years the Federal government has presented an aid of from $15,000 to $17,000 to cities for each mile of paving built. This means that the Federal government is offering to O'Neill, a present of approximately $16,000 for the paving of Douglas Street. Still there is no paving. The latest estimate places the costs of this paving in the residential district at $65.00 per 32 feet lot—spread out over ten years, about $6.00 or $7.00 per year. It is my opinion that the reason Douglas Street has not been paved is because the people thought it would cost five times that figure.

It is reasonable to expect that no advance will be made in highways until O'Neill says it will pave at this figure. It is reasonable to expect delay in the letting of the highway south, and it is reasonable to expect re-routing of No. 20, one mile north of O'Neill. I don't know why it has not happened before. The traveling public are demanding that a change be made.

We have been told quite plainly that in all probability this state aid would be withdrawn from cities entirely very shortly. There is such a demand for hard-surfaced roads that this aid will be used in the country.

The people in the south have never had such poor roads as now. They expect No. 13 to be finished and neglected their "hayed" trails. It is reasonable to expect that we will not be helped if we do not help ourselves.

This thing requires very serious thought. Unless something is done this year not only will No. 20 be routed to the north of O'Neill, but No. 13 will be delayed indefinitely. This is not a threat. No one wishes to threaten us. It is a reasoning arrived at after observation in other localities as well as here. Just as sure as the sun goes down, those things are going to happen. Nebraska almost lost No. 20 last year to South Dakota just because of the carelessness of the citizens in the towns between O'Neill and Sioux City, and if it were not for quick action and plenty of building, No. 20 would now be up in South Dakota.

I am asking that you give this serious attention now. The figures on the work are in the office of Mr. J. A.
