WIFE AWARDED MORE ALIMONY

Nebraska Supreme Court Takes Hand in Knox County Case

Lincoln, Neb. — (Special) — The supreme court has affirmed the action of the district court of Knox county which awarded Mrs. Julia D. Nohr a divorce from her husband whom she sued on a charge of extreme cruelty, but reversed the action which awarded her $1,250 alimony and orders Nohr to pay her $3,000 alimony in yearly installments of $1,000 each.

The court says Nohr had no basis for her accusations of misconduct and that neither equity nor justice was done when the district court limited alimony to $1,250.

The five children were awarded the father by the lower court, and the supreme court holds that these are assets rather than liabilities. Mrs. Nohr also was awarded $150 attorney's fees.

The court held that besides attending to her household tasks and bearing five children, Mrs. Nohr had worked in the fields and picked corn and was therefore entitled to more than the lower court granted.

ONE ELOPER MUST FACE STATUTORY CHARGE

Chadron, Neb. — An elopement of two Chadron girls, Dorothy Frazz and Gladys Berg, each 19 years old, was halted at Crawford, with their arrest in a hotel where they were found registered as wives of William D. Crowe and W. J. Weekly, according to evidence given in county court here before Judge James H. Stewart.

Crowe was held on a statutory charge on the testimony of Dorothy Frazz. Miss Frazz said that Crowe lured her into a room with him after he had registered "W. D. Crowe and wife," without her knowledge it, and on a promise of marriage.

Crowe is being held in the county jail pending the judge's ruling next week on whether or not he will be bound over to the district court for trial before Judge Earl L. Meyer.

No charge was brought against Weekly, who planned an alleged elopement with Miss Berg.

Crowe and Weekly met the two girls shortly prior to the arrest, when, according to both of the girls, Crowe proposed marriage to Miss Frazz.

In a letter written to Crowe by Miss Frazz, the next day, she urged the return of Crowe and Weekly and "tipped" Crowe that Miss Berg would consider marrying Weekly, making reference to plans for a double elopement. This letter was admitted as evidence.

Lincoln, Neb. — (Special) — The supreme court has affirmed the action of the district court of Wayne county in refusing to dismiss a guardian appointed for Robert Fenske. Fenske, a wealthy farmer, was addicted to the liquor habit and his children asked that a guardian be appointed to prevent his wasting his estate. Fenske appealed on the ground that he had given up drinking and was competent to look after his affairs. The supreme court says, "It is elementary that the burden is placed on one who pleads the existence of a material fact as the basis of his action to prove that fact. The petitioner was under guardianship by virtue of the judgment of a competent court. That judgment had never been appealed from. It was a question of fact and the burden was on the petitioner, who alleged it, to prove that he could safely be freed. The court is of the opinion that the evidence falls short of proof that the ward has permanently ceased to use intoxicating liquor to excess."

INCREASED PRODUCTION OF CREAMERY BUTTER

Lincoln, Neb. — (UP) — Nebraska creamery butter production increased 2.3 per cent during the first quarter of 1931, according to the state and federal division of agricultural statistics. For the entire United States there was an increase of 6.9 per cent.

Statistics on production of creamery butter indicate that dairying is being carried on a slightly larger scale this year, than last, the statisticians conclude.

Production for Nebraska for the first quarter approximated 17,581,000 pounds as compared with 17,165,000 pounds for the first quarter of 1930. Creamery butter production for the United States as a whole totaled 340,988,000 pounds against 318,878,000 pounds for the first quarter of 1930.

Cold storage holdings for creamery butter on April 1 totaled 13,025,000 pounds as compared with 30,556,000 pounds a year ago, and the five-year average of 12,448,000 pounds. Cold storage holdings decreased heavily from March 1 to April 1 but were still 50 per cent above the average for April 1.

BIG INCREASE IN FEED CROP

Neb. Farmers Cut The Wheat Acreage and Economize Generally

Lincoln, Neb. — (UP) — Nebraska farmers are resorting to livestock feeding and reduction of production costs as a means of weathering the period of low prices for farm products, according to the state and federal divisions of agricultural statistics.

Wheat acreage has been sharply reduced by Nebraska farmers and increased acreage is being planted to feed grains, the division of statistics reports.

Farmers generally are seeking to meet depression through economizing on hired labor and other cash expenditures. Many are resorting to production of food stuffs for home consumption, while others are attempting to increase production to meet decreased prices.

Nebraska farmers have increased cattle feeding approximately 15 per cent over a year ago, the statistics report. Wheat acreages are giving way to corn and other feed grains this year. Increase in corn acreage of approximately 5 per cent is expected and similar increases are expected for barley and other feed grains.

SENATOR NORRIS NOT PLEASUED WITH EDITORIAL

McCook, Neb. — United States Senator George W. Norris, after reading the newspaper editorial for which Charles S. Ryckman, of the Fremont, Neb., Tribune, was awarded the 1930 Pulitzer prize, Wednesday night characterized it as "an insult to the patriotism and intelligence of every Nebraska citizen."

The editorial, The Gentleman from Nebraska, was a comment on circumstances which had to do with Norris' re-election to the United States Senate in 1930. It said, "George Norris is the burr Nebraska delights in putting under the eastern saddle."

Norris said, "It is a sad commentary on the intelligence of any committee that finds in it (the editorial) any literary merit."

The editorial further said that Nebraskans "send Norris to the Senate year after year solely to make himself obnoxious and express the Nebraska grouch against the east, against the federal government and against Wall street."

SIGNS BILL TO PREVENT MIXUP IN NAMES

Lincoln, Neb. — A legislative act devised to prevent confusion in Nebraska primary election contests such as that which involved Senator George W. Norris a year ago, was made law by Gov. Charles W. Bryan's signature.

The direct outcome of the contest in which the senior Nebraska senator was opposed by George W. Norris, a Broken Bow grocery clerk, the act provides for the identification of primary candidates when two or more persons by the same or similar surnames file for the same office.

To designate the candidates, the primary ballots will carry when dual filings of this nature are made, the occupation and the postoffice address of each aspirant.

FILES CLAIM FOR KEEP OF PRISONERS

Lincoln, Neb. — (Special) — A claim has been filed with State Auditor Marsh by Frank P. Podhalsky, Cedar county jailer, for $64.69 for 30 days' board for two prisoners of the state. Seventy cents a day is the basis of the claim with extra charges for fuel, laundry and a suit of underclothing.

"BLACK AND TAN" SPOTS TO BE WIPED OUT

Omaha, Neb. — (UP) — Sgt. Joe Potach, head of the police morals squad has decreed that "black and tan" resorts, which cater to both white and Negro trade must close. Joe issued his ultimatum a week ago and all proprietors of such places immediately began barring white people, with the exception of Harry Norman, who operates the Plantation Gardens in South Omaha.

Potach raided the place Saturday night, arresting 20 white men, 26 Negroes and seven Negroesses. Norman was fined $50 as keeper of a disorderly house and most of the inmates jumped their bonds.

"These resorts are breeding places for racial difficulties," Potach said. "We're going to keep the whites out of them or close them up."

Norman complained that he will lose $250 a week if he obeys orders. He makes every effort to preserve order, he said. He maintains a "check" room where guests are forced to park their firearms and drinking whisky before entering the gardens proper.

TO GROW 80 ACRES OF CANE FOR SORGHUM

Tekamah, Neb. — (Special) — A sorghum factory owned by L. E. Colson, living along the bank of the Missouri near here, has been running for 25 years. He will grow 80 acres of cane this year. From the 1930 crop he made 3,200 gallons of sorghum. It averaged 150 gallons to the acre. The cane also produced 80 bushels of seed.

Colson has had repeated offers to move his plant into Tekamah or other towns, but he prefers to keep it on his farm where he also cares for other farm crops and livestock.

St. Helena, Neb., Woman's Estate Largely to Odd Fellows' Institution

St. Helena, Neb. — (Special) — The will of the late Bertha Ebinger, 65 years old, who was found dead in her home here where she had lived alone for some years, provided that most of the estate go to charity. Henrietta Slater of Butte, Mont., an old friend, is to receive $150; Samuel T. Solverson, also an old friend in Butte, $250; village school at Engwellien, Canton Turgeau, Switzerland, $100; $50 each to the most aged poor man and the most aged poor woman in Engwellien (the last two bequests requested by Miss Ebinger's father); German consul in Chicago for benefit of poor and needy in Weildberg, Wurttemberg, Germany, $200 (by request of her mother). All the rest goes to the trustees of the home for dependent Odd Fellows, Rebekehans and their children at York, Neb.

Miss Ebinger was born in Illinois and came with her parents to Cedar county when a child. She took special training in music and art in which she was especially talented. Part of her education was received in Europe. She conducted a music and art school at Butte, Mont., but came home to care for her parents. The mother died in 1915 and the father in 1919.

She had difficulty in following her profession of late years because of failing sight but still continued to teach classes on stringed instruments until a few months ago. Her father, the late Thomas Ebinger, came to St. Helena in 1870 with his wife and child. He was elected treasurer of Cedar county in 1882. The county seat was then at St. Helena. Later he acted as deputy under Otto Hoese.

GETS PAY FOR HIS SHIPMENT OF HOGS

Lincoln, Neb. — (Special) — The supreme court has granted Harry L. Kunkel of Boone county a preferred claim against the state banking department. Kunkel sued for $1,117 as the value of a shipment of hogs sent to Omaha. The Omaha bank sent the money received by the commission man to the Loretto State bank, which closed the same day the credit was received. The Loretto bank followed the custom of dividing money received on shipments in which members of a shipping association joined whenever it was in receipt of the proceeds of the entire shipment. The court rules that Kunkel made no deposit of the money and that the relation of debtor and creditor was not established in this case.

"Now, you kids get out of here," the judge said, as he dismissed the charges against Joseph Gauber, 78 years old, and J. A. Nachtlebe, 71.

Nachtnebe said he had been stabbed by Gauber; Gauber said his nose had been punched. Gauber and the woman had walked past Nachtnebe's home, witnesses said, and when the latter invited her to visit him a fight followed.

Got Away With House

Theft of a two-and-a-half-story frame house and its brick foundation was reported to the police in Newark, N. J., by Joseph A. Fuerstman, who said he had bought the house in January and built a fence around it. When he went over to look at it two months later, all he found was a vacant lot. Police suspect that the house was used for kindling by poor families during the winter.

Turkey Refuses to Part With Old Royal Galley

Turkey's precious royal pleasure galley, dating from the reign of Sultan Mohammed IV, will never be sold no matter how many flattering offers are made, according to the director of the naval museum at Istanbul, Turkey. A British enterprise recently offered the government a large sum for this unique craft, proposing to take it to the United States for exhibition purposes. The offer was rejected.

The galley, believed to date back to 1650, is 40 meters long, 5 1/2 meters wide, 2 1/2 meters deep and weighs 150 tons. It was manned by 144 men, three to each oar. The paint used at that period was so good that even now it is almost as fresh as when new, particularly the blue. The gilded prow is long and sharp, but the remainder of the galley is curiously overhung after the fashion of ancient Venetian craft. In the stern is the imperial cabin with a triple cupola supported by columns and completely overlaid with mother-of-pearl and tortoise-shell mosaic, studded with garnet glass. The cabin is flanked by two gilded gryphons and entered through a balustrade adorned with four large balls of cloudy crystal.

In addition to this masterpiece of medieval boat-builders' art, there are 13 other caiques in the same building—graceful craft once propelled with gilded oars, scores of which are stacked in the half-forgotten naval museum beside the Golden horn.

High Cost of Research

The high cost of research is shown by a statistical summary which indicates that more than 30,000 scientists and engineers are now employed at a cost of $200,000,000 annually in scientific experimentation.

They are employed, Collier's Weekly states, by the United States government and about 1,000 industrial corporations, one of the largest being the Bell Telephone laboratories, which have 5,400 research workers and a yearly expenditure of $19,000,000.

One of the recent results of their enterprise is a telephone cable only 2 3/4 inches in diameter, which contains 3,600 wires capable of transmitting 18,000 conversations simultaneously.

"CLINKER" gasoline or CLEAN BURNING gasoline?

The gasoline your motor actually burns measures the power and mileage you get per gallon. If it is "near kerosene" doctored up with casing-head gasoline, your motor cannot and does not completely burn all of the heavier elements — the "clinker" part.

That's why much of the cut quality gasoline sold, turns out to be an expensive fuel — when you check its actual power and mileage performance against full quality, full price gasoline.

Balanced RED CROWN GASOLINE contains no "clinkers." It burns up completely — gives you all the power and all the mileage your passenger car, truck or tractor can get from completely refined gasoline. It gives you less dilution of crankcase oil. It is free from sulphur compounds which attack metals and from tar which sticks valves and piston rings and otherwise reduces the mechanical efficiency and power of the motor.

For dependable power and economy, use clean burning, high power balanced Red Crown Gasoline.
