ROBERT SMITH INJURED WHEN TRUCK TURNS TURTLE

The large truck owned and driven by Robert Smith turned over into the ditch near the town hall eight miles north of O'Neill on Highway No. 13, last Tuesday afternoon; Mr. Smith suffered a badly lacerated right hand which required more than twenty stitches to close the wounds, and a cut on a knee; Gene Kilpatrick, who was riding with Mr. Smith was uninjured. The truck was loaded with young pigs; when it turned over the pigs were thrown out and uninjured; the truck was completely destroyed by fire.

It seems that Mr. Smith was coming from the west onto the highway and as he came down the incline toward the corner he discovered that the pin had come out of the brake-rod so that he had no brake; he realized that he would have to turn one way or the other or go headlong into the ditch. So he decided to try and turn to the right; the load of pigs naturally jostled to the left side of the truck and as a consequence the load turned over.

THE TWENTY MILLIONTH FORD SHOWN IN O'NEILL

The Twenty Millionth Ford car, now on a transcontinental tour, spent last night in O'Neill, the outstanding feature of an exhibition portraying the history of the automotive industry.

In addition to the famous car itself displayed in an elaborate setting in the Mellor Motor Co. salesroom, motion pictures tracing the history of the Ford car and of the Ford Motor Company from the first "gasoline buggy" down to the Twenty Millionth Ford, held the interest of crowds until a late hour.

Earlier in the evening, following its arrival at the city limits, the Twenty Millionth Ford was escorted to the Mellor Motor Co., where Mayor C. E. Stout officially welcomed the car and its driver and inscribed his name in the log of "The Twenty Millionth Ford" which is to be preserved with the car in Greenfield Village, Henry Ford's reproduction, near Dearborn, Michigan, of an early American village.

The Twenty Millionth Ford was assembled in the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company in Dearborn, on April 14, 1931, in the presence of Henry Ford and Edsel Ford.

Colonel Hilton, of Detroit, Michigan, is in charge of the tour of the Twenty Millionth Ford and has accompanied it throughout the tour which began four and one-half months ago; other prominent men of the party were Mr. Nixon, who is in charge of the schedule of the tour; G. A. Liles, branch manager of the Ford Motor Company, of Omaha; C. M. Pfeiffer, wholesale manager, Omaha; there were thirty-five men in the party including those in charge of the motion picture machines. Mr. Himes, the road man for this territory, was also included in the party.
