Argentine Paper Urges Use of Wheat for Fuel

Present prices for wheat and corn have become so low that it is being seriously considered to use a large part of the available crops for fuel in power plants and factories. Much of this produce is already being used thus around Rosario for domestic purposes. In some parts of the country planters cannot afford to harvest their grain, inasmuch as the prices obtainable for it would not pay for the labor involved.

Corn now is quoted on most of the Argentine markets at 3.60 paper pesos a quintal (100 kilograms, or 220.5 pounds) and at this rate is a cheaper fuel than wood or coal, besides being almost equally satisfactory for the generation of heat and power.—La Nacion, Buenos Aires.

WHEN FOOD SOURS

ABOUT two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

Retirement Frequently Speeds Death Of Average Successful Person

ACTIVE MAN GIVES TOO MUCH ATTENTION TO TRIFLING ILLS IF NOT OCCUPIED

BY DR. MORRIS FISHEIN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Before giving advice to the aged as to the conduct of their lives it may be well to recognize somewhat their economic conditions. It is estimated by Dublin, statistician of a famous life insurance company, that 1,250,000 persons in the United States who have reached the age of 65 are in want and are supported by charity, public and private. This means that 28 per cent or more than one out of every four are dependant.

It has long been known that retirement not infrequently has hastened the death of the aged. A successful business man, when relieved of the usual life and caused to resort to idle luxury, tends to degenerate rapidly. Every trifling ailment begins to receive his undivided attention. The mental attitude is important. Sir Humphrey Rolleston says that "a well-occupied mind, a happy disposition, that thinketh no evil, naturally smiles instead of frowning on a stranger or a new idea, free from anger and hatred and jealousy, the vice that gives no pleasure to any one, and an attitude of charity in its original and best sense to all, tend to prolong life and make it a happy healthy prelude to crossing the bar." Thus one may point out that dignitaries of the church, chief justices on supreme court benches, prime ministers, and those of similar professions whose activities are prolonged tend to live longer than others.

Apparently the most important advice for attaining and prolonging old age has to do with the diet. A half-dozen proverbs attest the manner in which men have accepted this fact. "You dig your grave with your teeth"; "Man does not die, he kills himself"; and best of all Hoosier former: "Pigs would live a lot longer if they didn't make hogs of themselves." An investigation made by one life insurance company revealed that 13 per cent of some thousands of policyholders beyond the age of 40 were more than 20 per cent overweight. Persons at this age have usually stopped taking even the physical exercise of walking.

Since it is impossible for us to choose our parents, all that we can do toward the prolongation of life is to avoid preventable diseases by the usual sanitary and hygienic precautions and by having physical examinations at least once each year to detect the presence of the diseases of middle life that come on insiduously. Avoid worry since it is of the greatest importance in using up the inherent vitality. Moderation in all things, a certain amount of mental and physical exercise, some time in the open air, and a reasonable amount of happiness—these constitute the prescription for a long life and a useful one.

forced support of armies of soldiers, it might object to the financial strain of boarding and rooming the army of American diplomats and bankers.

At any rate revolutionary psychology has negotiated a transatlantic flight. Complaints, petitions and objections now emanate from London, and if the Daily Mail is correct, the orders are given, and not received, on this side the water. A cargo of American wheat dumped into the harbor at Liverpool would complete the setting. It is to be hoped that Wall Street will deal with its "colonies" more skillfully than did King George III.

Belgians Are Short. From the Pathfinder. Statistics prepared by the Brussels government show that the Belgian people are short in stature. The figures reveal that 29 per cent of the population of Belgium ranges in height from 4 feet 3 inches to 5 feet 2. The next 69 per cent are also short, their heights ranging up to a maximum of 5 feet 7 inches. Only 2 per cent of the population is taller than that.

MOON DOES NOT RULE WEATHER

Paris —(UP)— The Abbe Moreau, director of the Observatory of Bourges, and famous as a prophet of good and evil days, has declared that the influence of the moon was practically negligible in its effects on the weather.

"The moon" has no connection with changes in the atmosphere, which cause areas of depression, winds, rain and the extremes of temperature," the Abbe said; "all that it affects on earth is the rising and falling tides."

The venerable Abbe asserted, however, that both the ancients and not a few modern students believe that there are indications given by the moon which bear a close relation to weather prediction.

"We only have to cite the words of General Bugeaud, the conqueror of Isley, contained in one of his letters dated Nov. 29, 1841," the Abbe pointed out. "General Bugeaud wrote, 'Eleven times out of twelve the weather during any lunar month can be judged by the 5th day; that is, if the 6th day resembles the 5th, and it being clear, the rest of the month will be more or less the same. If the 6th day is compared to the 4th day, the prediction comes true nine times out of twelve.'"

The Abbe Moreau observed, however, that not only General Bugeaud wrote of this prediction, but said that it was known to the ancients, particularly to Virgil, who had mentioned it in the First Book of his Georgics.

The ancients believed that the 4th day of the new moon was indicative, and they believed it was an infallible sign, based on long observation.

Pliny the Elder wrote, according to Abbe Moreau, "In Egypt it is observed that the 4th day of the new moon must be taken as an indication. If the lunar body shows itself clear on the fourth day, fine weather will continue throughout the month."

Cupid's Aide Declares Gin Marriage Law Works

San Francisco —(UP)— California's "gin marriage" law has achieved its purpose, in this city at least, according to Grant (Cupid) Munson, license clerk, who has been smoothing the path of love for 25 years.

Designed to prevent hasty marriages, through the influence of gin, or otherwise, by enforcing a three-day delay between application and issuance of marriage licenses, the law has enabled many to chanke their minds, Munson said.

He disclosed that there is a wide discrepancy between the number of applications made and the number of licenses called for and issued. Not all of these, however, are due to a change of heart, according to Munson. Some, he said, are due to a misunderstanding of the law, couples believing they can obtain a license here and be married in another county.

Dorothy's Mother Proves Claim

Children don't ordinarily take to medicines but here's one that all of them love. Perhaps it shouldn't be called a medicine at all. It's more like a rich, concentrated food. It's pure, wholesome, sweet to the taste and sweet in your child's little stomach. It builds up and strengthens weak, puny, underweight children, makes them eat heartily, brings the roses back to their cheeks, makes them playful, energetic, full of life. And no bilious, headachy, constipated, feverish, fretful baby or child ever failed to respond to the gentle influence of California Fig Syrup on their little bowels. It starts lazy bowels quick, cleans them out thoroughly, tones and strengthens them so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

Millions of mothers know about California Fig Syrup from experience. A Western mother, Mrs. J. G. Moore, 119 Cliff Ave., San Antonio, Texas, says: "California Fig Syrup is certainly all that's claimed for it. I have proved that with my little Dorothy. She was a bottle baby and very delicate. Her bowels were weak. I started her on Fig Syrup when she was a few months old and it regulated her, quick. I have used it with her ever since for colds and every little set-back and her wonderful condition tells better than words how it helps."

Don't be imposed on. See that the Fig Syrup you buy bears the name, "California" so you'll get the genuine, famous for 50 years.
