EASTERN HOLT Harold Blain returned to South Dakota to take up his ministerial work. The fine rain Saturday and Sunday was worth a lot of dollars to the farmers.

A large crowd attended the Wasner sale at Page. Prices were good considering the conditions. Born to Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Summers, a eleven and one-half pound boy, April 23. All doing fine.

Mr. W. Clyde moved from the C. Blain farm to the Cassem farm. He intends to raise garden vegetables for the market. All small grain is in the ground and looks fine. Rye fields promise a big crop.

Very few received garden seeds from the Red Cross. It seems Page and Middle Branch are out of range for such and we surely need it as well as others. Why so much partiality? Look out for your car boys or it will get tagged. The state man is on the round. Got to get your license whether you have the money to spare or not.

Mr. Poor old Dobbin can't go on the road and plow too. He did well to live on short rations, sometimes so short there were none. We over heard a party say why taxes are just as bad as if we had a big crop. The other replied of course we have to take care of all those fine roads, feed the paupers and educate the children (they don't diminish), etc., why how could the taxes be cut? We think if we could buy a farm to care for the poor and help themselves, some would find another way. "They go over the hill to the poor house."

The following is a clipping from a Blair, Neb., paper: "In grading examination papers there are usually some very queer answers. In grading examination papers there given. This is borne out in the examination just given by County Sup't Belford. These answers given are no worse nor no more ridiculous than are given over and over again. 1. Benedict Arnold made the flag of the United States. 2. Alexander Hamilton wrote the dictionary. 3. Abraham Lincoln gave the Battle of Gettysburg. 4. Ft. Sumter—A fort located on the ocean. 5. Woodrow Wilson put us into war with Germany. 6. An important route to India was by the Mississippi River. 7. 1607—Arbor Day. 8. Benedict Arnold betrayed Arbor Day. 9. Battle of Gettysburg was a battle where 1000 men were killed and they later turned it into a grave yard. 10. Two types of cattle are dairy and butterfat. 11. The Panama Canal is a place dug out between North and South America."

Ottawa, Kans., Herald: Occasionally some well meaning reader drops in to take the responsible editor of this rag of freedom to task for filling the paper with items about Joe Dokes giving his barn a new coat of red paint, or the bridge parties that Mrs. Oscar Smilch gives with the complete list of her guests. "You shouldn't," say such critics, "do that." The New York Times, they assure us, doesn't "It's small town stuff," they said. And so it is. But as Speaker Barney or Reconstructionist Daves would say, what the hell. This is a small town newspaper, and far from being ashamed of it, we're proud of it. If there's an unrecorded coat of barn paint, it's not because it's too trivial and undignified to mention, but because someone how the enterprising reporters haven't found out about it.
