

Where Instructor and Pupil Died

These scattered fragments are all that remained of the plane in which Dan Probat, veteran pilot of the A. E. F., and his pupil, William Fitze, 27, hurtled to death near the Newark, N. J., airport while making an instruction flight. It is believed that Fitze "froze" to the controls and sent the ship into her death dive. Both victims are from Newark, where a horrified baseball crowd saw the tragedy.

To Light Largest Theatre

Weighing 6½ tons and measuring 25 feet in diameter, this giant chandelier, said to be the largest in the world, is being made ready for installation in the International Music Hall of Rockefeller City. An idea of the size of the big lamp may be gauged by comparison with that of the men working on it.

Wrote Happy Ending

Having taken a dose of deadly poison, Cuthbert Rieveley of Modesto, Cal. (above), set about recording his experiences as he lay dying. But thanks to the development of a new antidote by Dr. J. C. Greiger of San Francisco, for the poison he had taken, Rieveley was enabled to write a happy ending. He said he "just seemed to float back to life."

A Royal Apple-Bobber

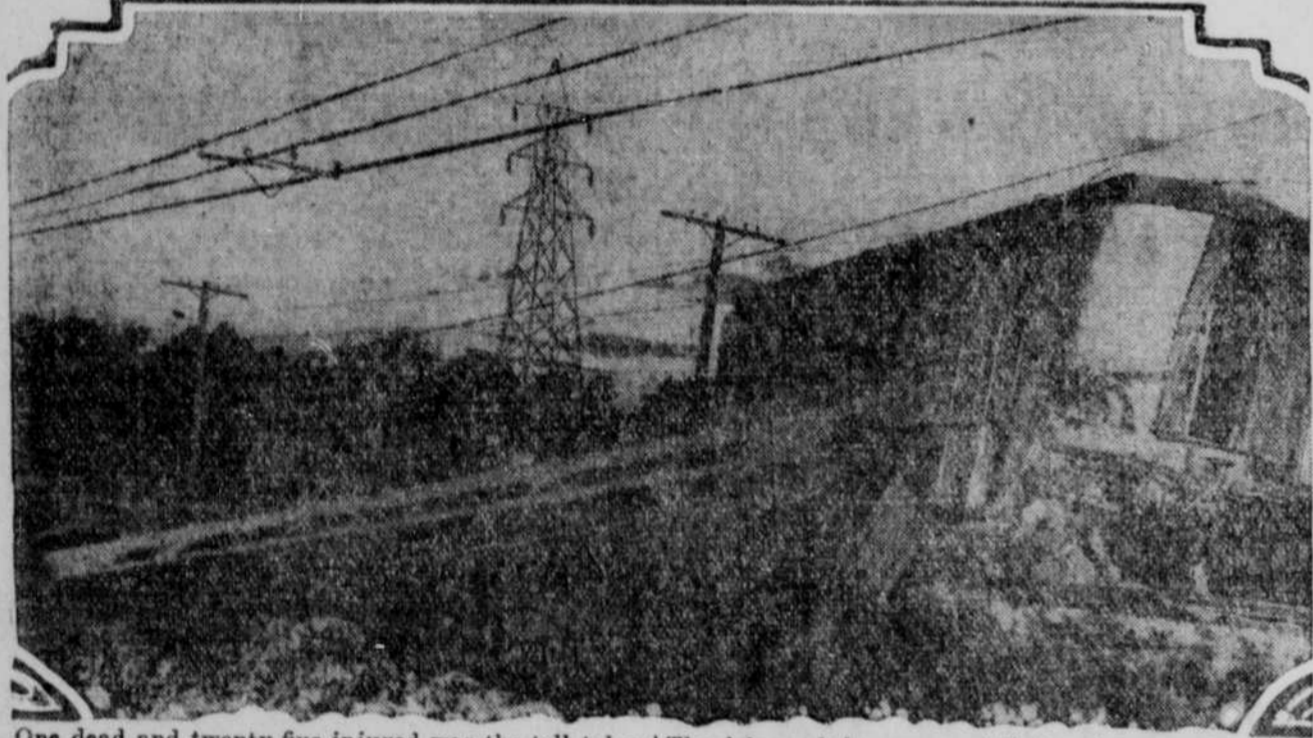

Following in the footsteps of his royal uncle, the Prince of Wales, but not emulating the latter's method of dismounting, young Viscount Lascelles, son of Princess Mary of England, is a keen horseman. Here he is shown with his head in a water pail bobbing for the apple after racing on horseback to the finish line during a recent gymkhana at Harewood, England.

Survived Flames

Of the six Theriault children who lived near Bangor, Me., only these three were spared by flames that swept their home recently. They are Lazine, Jr., Raymon and Emily, and are shown as they endeavored to console each other. Their father, imprisoned for a minor offense, claims he could have saved his little ones had he been at home.

Scene of Fatal Train-Auto Collision

One dead and twenty-five injured was the toll taken when a speeding east-bound train crashed into an automobile at a grade crossing near Milwaukee, Wis. The driver of the car was killed and twenty-five passengers on the train were injured. Above is the wreckage that marked the spot.

Royalty at a Christening

An interesting photo, showing former King Alfonso of Spain holding the baby of Princess Ileana of Rumania, for which the ex-ruler acted as godfather. With Alfonso is Queen Marie of Rumania, mother of Princess Ileana. Photo was made on the occasion of the baby's christening at Vienna, Austria. Princess Ileana is the wife of Arch Duke Anton of Hapsburg. A fine close-up of the baby, who was named Stefan von Hapsburg, is shown in inset.

Indicted Eagle

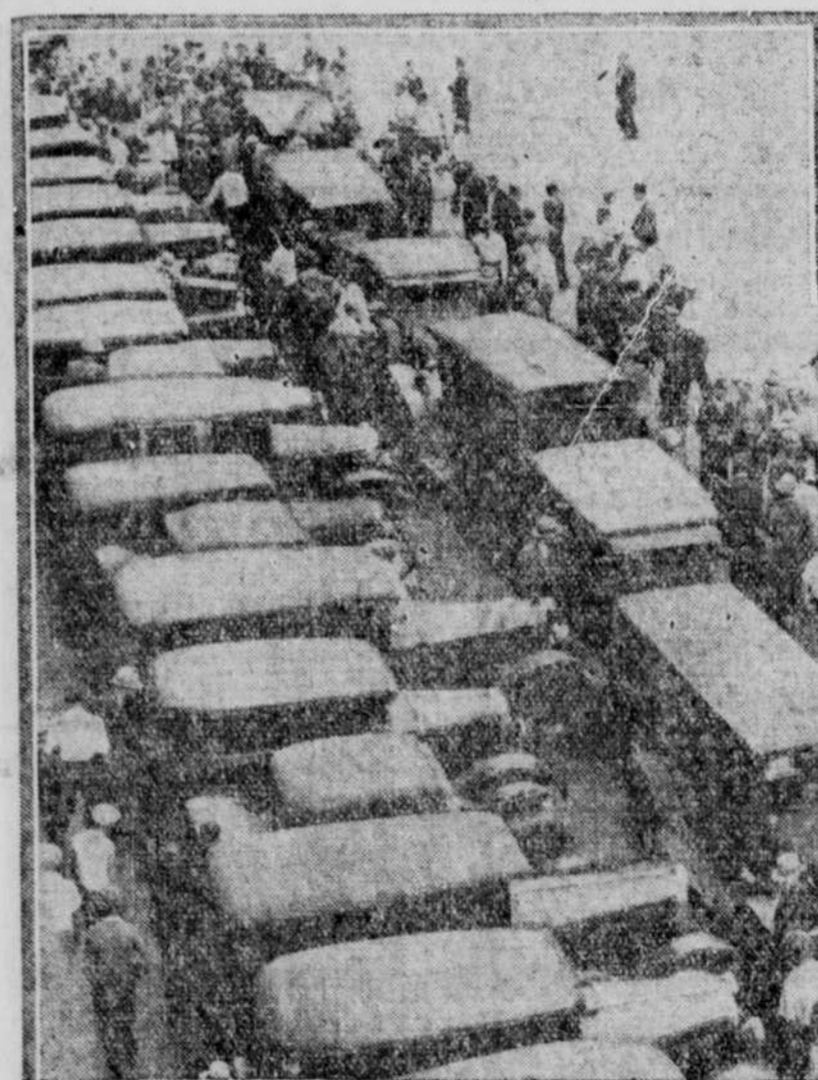

Conrad H. Mann, well-known Kansas City business man and a member of President Hoover's unemployment committee, who is one of the six prominent men indicted by the Federal Grand Jury at New York in connection with the operation of lotteries in his fraternal order, the Eagles. Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, was also indicted.

Cowgirl at Sea

Cashing in on her victory as the "Sweetheart of the California Rodeo," pretty Emeryl McHale is taking a long sea voyage aboard the liner Santa Anna, where she is shown. She won the trip in contest at the annual Salinas round-up for personality and horsemanship.

Wet Cars on Dry Block

This lineup of cars and trucks, pictured in front of the Federal Building in Washington, D. C., is only part of the number seized by prohibition officers during the year. Many were auctioned off and there were some good bargains. Bidding was brisk, for a few of the autos once belonged to prominent bootleggers and were fitted to the king's taste.

Appropriate Role

Attired as befits royalty, Ethel Barrymore, famous member of the stage and screen "royal family," is shown as she appeared on the set during the making of the new film "Rasputin," in which she enacts the role of the Czarina. Her brothers, Lionel and John also play leading parts.

Returning to Her Orbit

Returning from a vacation abroad with her husband, Jules Brulatour, film magnate, Miss Hope Hampton, famous stage star, is shown as she arrived at New York on the S. S. Leviathan. She is holding her 17-ounce Pomeranian, "Ponzey," said to be the smallest of his breed in the world.

"Where's the Fire?"

Even the toughest gangster couldn't resist arrest by this "cop," recently designated by Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant as the youngest police officer in Atlanta, Ga. He is Bernard Blackwell and as this photo was made Officer Blackwell was making out a ticket for an infraction of traffic rules.
