PLEASANT DALE

Ralph Ernest marketed hogs in Emmet Monday morning.
Verne Beckwith converted an old organ into a much needed book case for the school house. It has twelve feet of shelf space and is finished in harmonizing colors. Mr. Beckwith did the work during noon hours and was assisted by the school children.
Several farmers in this vicinity lost cattle last week from corn stalk poison. Oscar Keisley lost four, William Grothe lost two, Joe Winkler two, and Cal Tenborg two.
Jake Ernst finished husking corn Saturday. Ralph Ernst started husking for John Kee Monday afternoon.
Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Keeney, of Norfolk, visited at the Gus Seger home Sunday.
Mr. and Mrs. Verne Beckwith purchased the Fox Variety store in O'Neill last week and took charge of the business Saturday. Dean Beckwith returned home from Scottsbluff Sunday evening and is going to operate the store until Verne finishes his term of teaching. Dean has been employed at the beet factory at Scottsbluff and he says the work at the factory was completed much earlier this year than usual due to the warm weather. The beets go through the cutters much faster when they are not frozen.
The Guy Beckwith family visited at Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hickman's Sunday afternoon.
George Pongratz and family visited at Irwin Givens' Friday evening.
Mr. and Mrs. William Ernst and daughter, Evelyn, William Schmohr and family, Carl Lorenz and family and Laverne Stahley spent Sunday evening at Gerald Dusatko's.
