

TRICKS of MAGIC EXPLAINED by Will L. Lindhorst

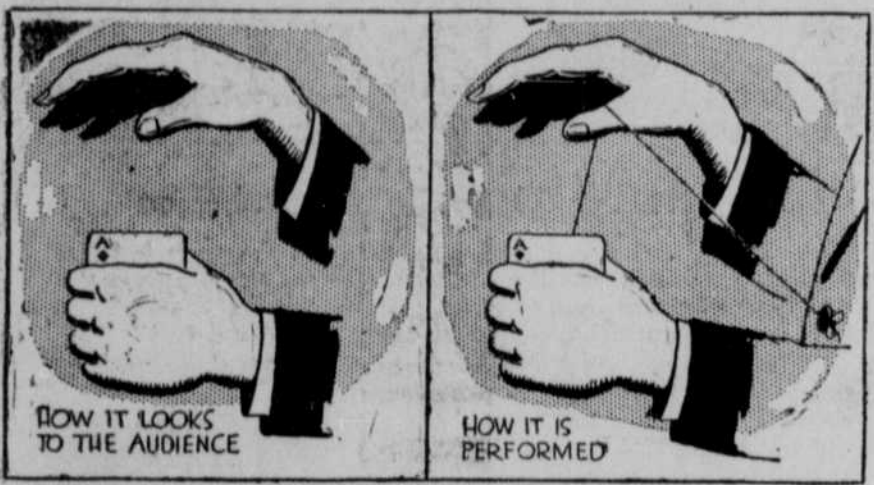

CLEVER TRICK WITH A KNOTTED HANDKERCHIEF

Have some one hold out an arm, then you take a handkerchief, twist it, and place it over the arm so the ends—A and B in the above drawing—hang beneath. Hold it there by placing your left hand on the arm with the fingers on top and the thumb beneath, as shown in No. 1. Then grasp B, twist it around your thumb beneath the arm, and double it back to the top, as shown in No. 2. Do the same with A, twisting it also around the thumb and doubling it back, as shown in No. 3. You then release the thumb, withdraw the hand, and the handkerchief will hold together beneath the arm. In the meanwhile you are holding both ends above the arm with your right hand. The ends lift a knot and grasping this knot, suddenly jerk it, and the handkerchief will come off the arm. If the operation beneath the arm is done quick enough, the audience will be unaware that the handkerchief has been doubled back on both sides, and will believe it has been twisted around the arm. It will prove baffling when the handkerchief is jerked off without untying the knot.

HOW TO MAKE A CARD RISE FROM YOUR HAND

Attach one end of a long hair or piece of silk thread to the back of a playing card with a piece of wax, and the other end to a button on your coat. Then stand before a dark background where the hair or silk cannot be seen by the audience. Hold the card in the left hand and loop the hair or silk over the thumb of the right, which is held above the card. Make hypnotic motions over the card with the right hand, at the same time pulling on the hair or silk with the thumb. The card will slowly rise from the hand and the audience, unable to see the material attached to the card, will believe it is moved by some mysterious force. Magicians do this trick by a different method, without the use of hair or thread.

FIX STATE SALARIES. State Journal: The senate Tuesday adopted the conference committee report on reduction of state officers' salaries, with the understanding that the cuts cannot go into effect during the terms of the present state officers, ranging from two to six years. Welsh and Boelts were the senators signing the report. No action was taken by the house.

The report was adopted in the senate by a vote of 24 to 6. Those voting against it were Halpine, Neubauer,

Peterson, Van Kirk, Peterson and Purdy. Halpine explained that he voted in the negative because the reductions cannot go into effect during terms of present officers and once changed the salaries cannot be re-adjusted for eight years.

The conference report increases the figures of the former conference committee in three instances, increasing the governor's proposed salary from $5,000 to $6,000; the attorney general from $3,600 to $4,000 and the board of control members from $3,000 to $3,200.

Copies of the report on S. F. 52, bill reducing salaries of the governor and other state officers, tax commissioner, railway commission, judiciary and board of control, appeared Tuesday on desks of house members.

The report carries notation of proposed annual saving of $75,619.88. The house rejected recently a quite similar report, one reason being that the tax commissioner had been lifted from the $3,600 class where he had been placed by the house and bracketed at $4,000. The current report also places the attorney general up with the tax commissioner, while the secretary of state, auditor, land commissioner, treasurer and superintendent are left where the house put them at $3,600.

Senate and house originally agreed that $5,000 was right for the governor in these times. The report adds $1,000. Supreme court judges are graded at $5,000 and there has been no dispute between the two branches on this item. District judges are listed at $4,000, which is $400 more than the house provided. The railway commission is rated at $3,200, while the house tilted this pay to $3,600 when it first had the bill. Members of the board of control are grouped at $3,200 in this report. They were down as low as $3,000 during former legislative consideration.

- The present and proposed salaries are: Governor, present salary, $7,500, proposed $6,000. Supreme court, present $7,500, proposed $6,000. Tax commissioner, present salary, $5,000, proposed $4,000. District judges, present salary, $5,000, proposed $4,000. Board of control, present salary, $4,000, proposed $3,200. Railway commission, present salary, $5,000, proposed $3,200. Secretary of state, present salary, $5,000, proposed $3,600. State auditor, present salary, $5,000, proposed $3,600. Commissioner public lands and buildings, present salary, $5,000, proposed $3,600. State treasurer, present salary, $5,000, proposed $3,600. Attorney general, present salary, $5,000, proposed $4,000. State superintendent, present salary, $5,000, proposed $3,600.

Legal beer for Nebraska was no closer to fulfillment Wednesday night following a lengthy hearing on the joint meeting of the house and senate judiciary committees, according to a special in Wednesday's Omaha Bee-News.

Although proponents of measures outnumbered opponents appearing before the committees, the chairman decided to delay action, giving as their chief reason the fact that all committee members were not present at the close of the hearing. Chairman Srb of the senate committee and Chairman Iodence of the house committee presided. The two groups probably will act individually on the measures with the house committee expected to make the first move Thursday or Friday. Identical beer bills have been introduced in each chamber as S. F. 333 and H. R. 585.

Mrs. Minnie Grinstead Himes, several times Candidate for Congress in the first district, was the only person to speak against the bills at Wednesday's hearing. Arrayed against her were James H. Hanley of Omaha, representing the Nebraska Crusaders and the Nebraska Hotel Men's Association; Charles Gardner of Omaha, also representing hotel men; Representative Rudolph Tesar of Omaha, one of the introducers of the house measure, and Ed. S. Miller of Omaha.

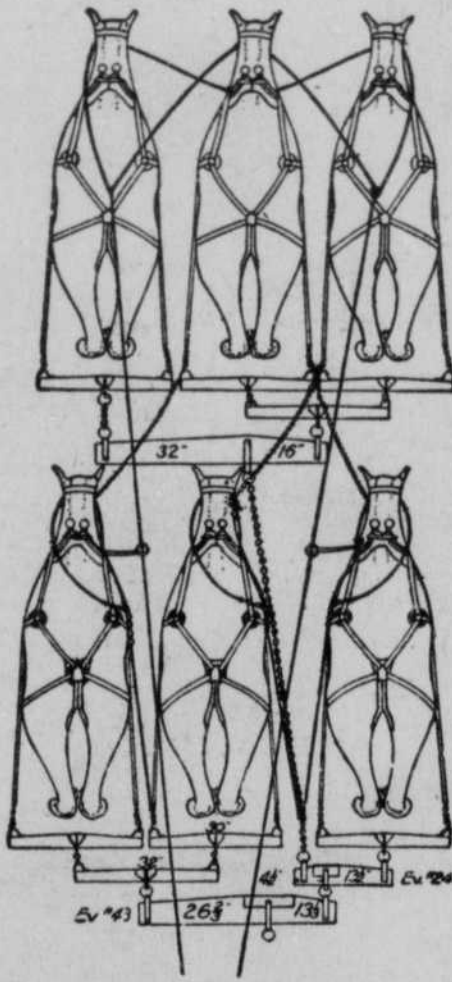

In presenting her argument that "Nebraska wants bread, not booze," Mrs. Himes was assisted by representatives E. E. Binfield, Prosser, and E. P. Cromer, Gering, both avowed prohibitionists, and James Robinson of Lincoln.

Hanley, as chief spokesman for the advocates of beer, explained the bills in full, declaring they do nothing other than define the statutory limitation on alcoholic beverage and provide for adequate means of distributing the beverage.

Both he and Tesar emphasized that the bills guard against the return of the saloon.

He said, "Surrounding states will legalize beer under provisions approved by President Roosevelt, particularly Iowa, Colorado, Wyoming and Missouri. The latter state, enacted a beer bill last week."

SIX HORSE BIG TEAM HITCH

The Big Team Hitch meeting is to be held at the J. K. Ernst farm on Friday, March 31st. Mr. Ernst's farm is three and one-half miles west and one and one-half miles north of O'Neill on Highway No. 20.

A set of eveners and attachments will be made beginning at 10 A. M. If you are interested in seeing these made, plan to attend.

Several different hitches on farm implements will be demonstrated beginning at 1:30 P. M. See these hitches in actual operation.

Big Team Hitches will do 'four things for the farmer who is working horses for farm power. First, the big hitches will cut down the cost of production. Second, they will speed up farm work. Third, they will get more work out of the horses available. Fourth, they will add to the pleasure of working horses.

The six horse big team hitch illustrated above will probably be one of the most common ones used in Nebraska this year. It features the hitching of three horses abreast, the driving of six horses with two lines, and the use of buck straps and tie chains on the other horses.

Very few phases of farming have staged the comeback that old Dobbin has during the past four years. The use of horses on Nebraska farms will be almost universal this year and big team hitches promise to be popular all over the state. Holt county is particularly fortunate in getting this demonstration at this time since practically every county agent in the state asked for the demonstration and only a limited number could be given in the few weeks between the time the frost went out of the ground and the rush of spring work.

FOUND BY WANT-AD. Rhymed want-ads in newspaper "agony" columns this week located America's first woman ad-writer, Mrs. M. M. H. Ayers, shown at left with her famous creation "Sunny Jim." After thirty years of retirement it was decided to revive Sunny Jim and his cheerful jingles, but his creator could not be found. Jingle ad was used as a last resort. Now she will once again write Sunny Jim jingles.
