The Senior Normal Training students of St. Mary's Academy are doing their practice teaching in the rural schools this week.

We have received a report from District No. 194 that a very interesting Patrons' Day Meeting was held in their school Friday afternoon, March 24th. Miss Grace Quilty is the teacher.

Miss Edna Robertson, teacher in District No. 18, reports a fine Patrons' Day Meeting in her school on Friday, March 17th.

I note that no appropriation, whatever, is recommended for High School Normal Training. Although there is no proposed law eliminating the Normal Training, without such an appropriation it would necessarily soon have to be done away with since this branch could not be supported wholly by local taxation in addition to all the other calls upon local taxation. Perhaps this does not look serious to counties in near connection to the State Colleges or Universities, but it would be a tragedy to the counties in the middle west.

At present this is the only professional course open to girls of high school age. If Normal Training is killed our boys and girls would be left without any chances of making their own living, since most people are not able to take advantage of the opportunity to send their children to college unless the girls have helped to earn the funds. This would mean that we would have a large number of boys and girls who would need to go back to their homes after their high school education with no ability to get a job of any kind and no means by which to earn a college education.

In other words, it would mean, virtually, the end of all progress for them. Beside this, it would only be a short time until our counties would be supporting outside girls and boys who were fortunate enough to live near colleges while our own boys and girls have been deprived of any chance of equal opportunities. This is not fair. We believe in reduction but not in ruin. Why take away from our young people in most cases, the only means they have to become qualified to earn a livelihood? Would not such a movement tend to plunge us deeper into the mire than to help us out of the present depression?

Knighthood of Youth

There is an understanding in all Knighthood Clubs that no name may be mentioned unless something good can be said about the person. A number of the clubs keep what they call a Good Deeds Box. Whenever a club member sees a fellow pupil do something helpful for which he would like to thank him, or for which he thinks the club ought to thank him, he writes his little "Thank you" note and drops it into the Good Deed Box. No pupil may put one in about himself. This is because as Modern Knights we are trying to forget ourselves and make others happy.

At each club meeting the Good Deeds are read and the secretary or Recording Committee make note of the number of "thank you" notes received by each pupil. Each club votes upon the number of recognized good deeds to be required for a recording on the individual castle. This number varies in the state from three to twenty-five with the majority requiring ten. Thus a recording would read, "Ten Good Deeds, March 28, 1933." These good deeds may be listed separately on the back of the castle or on separate pages in the caste booklet.

We are hoping that each club will take time to discuss the spare time interests of the club members. Every club member can have two spare time interests—one reading books and one a hobby. Every member ought to have some book he is reading other than his school books. Besides this he ought to be interested in some special thing such as: carpenter work, soap carving, sewing, cooking, athletics, music, birds, flowers, animals, drawing, cartooning, writing stories, making collections, etc. You will enjoy making a scrapbook all about your special interests.

Individual recordings are made for books read and reported upon. Each club decides the number of books to be read for each recording. This varies in the state from one to ten. A recording is made also for each completed spare time project, such as a scrapbook, bird houses, model aeroplanes, etc. The club votes upon such recognitions.

Next week we will have more help in making recordings on individual castles. In the meantime, study the Club Guide, pages 25 to 34 and pages 47 to 59 and the Club Activities pages 7 to 10.

HOLT COUNTY FARM BUREAU NOTES

Office—County Court House
Office Days—Wednesday and Saturday Afternoons

April 15th Deadline for Trees

April 15th is the final date when applications will be accepted for seedling trees, according to an announcement by Clayton Watkins, Extension Forester.

The supply of Jack Pine and Russian Olive trees is exhausted. Mr. Watkins said other varieties are still available. Application blanks may be secured from the Farm Bureau Office.

Early Seeded Oats Yield Highest

Early seeding of oats at the Nebraska Experiment Station Farm in Lincoln has resulted in higher yields than late seeding over a 14 year period. Kherson planted March 30th yielded an average of 53 bushels per acre while the same kind of oats planted April 10th yielded 46 bushels per acre. In every year but two the earlier seeded oats outyielded those sown April 10. An extra early seeding of Kherson oats gave varying results. In eight of the 14 years oats were seeded on March 19 and in five of the eight years the extra early oats outyielded later sowings.

In a seven year test, seeding Comfort barley between March 31st and April 10th gave the highest average yields. The barley made 24 bushels per acre when seeded March 19th, almost 27 bushels when seeded March 31st, over 27 bushels when seeded April 10th, and 25 bushels when seeded April 21st. The earlier the barley was seeded the heavier the crop weighed per bushel.

The later seeded oats and barley tended to catch up with the earlier plantings during the season. A difference of 32 or 33 days in planting times made a difference of eight or nine days in ripening time. The oats ripened from the 1st to the 9th of July while the barley ripened from June 30th to July 8th.

EARLY DIAGNOSIS OF TUBERCULOSIS CAMPAIGN

Having crowned a quarter of a century of effort with the announcement in 1932 that a two thirds reduction of the tuberculosis death rate in the United States had been achieved the 2,084 affiliated tuberculosis associations throughout the country will launch a concrete offensive against the sixth annual early diagnosis of tuberculosis campaign will begin from coast to coast under the leadership of the National Tuberculosis Association.

According to Miss Alice Nebraska executive secretary of the Nebraska Tuberculosis Association, this organization will strive during this period to impress upon the public the importance of examining every member of the family if a case of tuberculosis is discovered in order to make certain that none of the others have contracted the disease. The further spread of this disease will thus be prevented.

"Special emphasis will be laid upon the advantages of examination of all children of school age by both the tuberculin test and the X-ray," Miss

Marshall says, "and through this campaign people will be helped to find out if they have tuberculosis, to secure proper treatment if they have, and learn how to protect themselves and others."

Beginning April 1st, the Nebraska Tuberculosis Association will send thru the state over 20,000 pieces of literature to doctors, nurses and the local tuberculosis association's committees. Thru these this literature will be distributed thru the field where the most good can result.

The state general chairman for this campaign is Dr. John F. Allen, of Omaha. Dr. Allen is a specialist in the treatment of tuberculosis and national director for Nebraska of the National Tuberculosis Association. Other members of the committee are: Dr. Joseph A. Weinberg of Omaha and Dr. E. R. Hays of Falls City.

Dr. Allen states: "This great educational and case finding effort will, we hope mark the beginning of a successful attack on the last third problem. During the campaign we shall endeavor to get our message to every person in Nebraska, thru every available medium—magazines, newspapers, radio and this extensive distribution of literature. The campaign is one of the activities financed by funds obtained from the Christmas Seal sale of last December."

A nice rain fell in this city and vicinity about 7 o'clock last evening. Forty-four hundredths of an inch of moisture fell and it was of immense benefit to the soil. Farmers say that the soil is in better condition, at the present time for farming, than it has been at this time of the year for several years as there is sufficient moisture in the ground to start grass and crops as soon as they are planted.

Some people would rather live improperly beyond their income than properly within it.
