MARGUERITE WELCH

Bowen and daughter, Mary Elaine, returned Saturday evening from a trip into Iowa and Missouri.

Miss Constance Campbell came up from Omaha last Monday afternoon for a couple of weeks visit at the home of her aunts, Mr. R. R. Dickson and Mrs. J. F. O'Donnell.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Honeycutt left last Friday afternoon for North Loup, Nebr., to attend the funeral of Mrs. Honeycutt's mother. They returned home Sunday afternoon.

S. J. Weekes returned last evening from Omaha, where he had been the past three days sitting as a member of the loan committee of the Agricultural Credit Corporation.

Mrs. E. J. Lynam and daughter, Rose, came up from Omaha last Monday and will visit for a time at the home of Mrs. Lynam's mother, Mrs. Ellen O'Donnell and with other relatives here.

According to word reaching this city, Red Bird creek near the Red Bird store, has gone dry. The Weatherwax family have lived near that creek for 48 years and this is the first time in that length of time that the creek has gone dry, which tells of the excessively long period of drouth in this section.

Word comes from Omaha that W. J. Dobbs, for many years a resident of this city, was called to Portland Ore., last week to attend the funeral of his son, Nye Fred Dobbs. The latter had been a resident of Portland for many years, where he held a very important position with one of the public service companies.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Heitman left last Saturday evening for Grand Forks, N. D., where they will visit for a time and then go to Bermedji, Minn., where they will visit friends, and Jack will try his hand at attempting to catch some of the big ones in the lakes near that city. He is enjoying his annual two weeks vacation.

Ermand Keyes, of Inman, 25, suffered a broken leg last Wednesday afternoon when a stacker fork fell on him, while making some repairs to the stacker rope. He was just ready to start haying when the accident occurred. The break was between the knee and the ankle and will lay him up for several weeks.

Frank J. Klopping, of Wayne, one of the democratic candidates for the gubernatorial nomination, has sent a message to Governor Bryan asking him to declare an embargo on the shipment of livestock feed out of the state. Klopping said that heavy crop losses created a danger of a severe feed shortage and that if feed is permitted to go out of the state now, farmers will have to pay freight on imported feed next winter.

Vincent C. Haskell, of Omaha, was elected president of the International Association of Lions Clubs at the annual meeting in Grand Rapids, Michigan last week. Mr. Haskell is a practicing attorney in Omaha and has made several trips here on legal matters, being here on legal business only a few weeks ago, and is well known to many O'Neill people. He expects to put in the next year traveling, visiting the different Lions Clubs over the country.

Two deaths were reported from Spencer Saturday, due to the excessive heat. One of them was Eugene D. Bradstreet, 62, formerly a resident of this county, who died while reading a newspaper on the front porch of his home in Spencer. Chris Fuhrer, a farmer near Spencer, was found dead under a wagon in which he had started to town from his home. He had hitched his team to a fence near the road and apparently sought the shade of the wagon when he became ill.

O. H. Stuckey, of Fremont, was in the city Wednesday circulating campaign literature for John Rohn, of Fremont, a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor of Nebraska. Mr. Stuckey was for many years a resident of Norfolk and was formerly a mail clerk on the north-western road between Omaha and Long Pine. Later he was in the revenue service. He said that the people of Fremont think very highly of Mr. Rohn and hope that he will be able to secure the democratic nomination.

TAXATION INCREASES

Sioux City Journal: According to United States treasury figures, the federal tax burden increased 65 per cent in the fiscal year which ended June 30 last. The taxpayers turned over to Uncle Sam in that year $2,672,000,000 in internal revenue, compared to $1,620,000,000 the preceding year. In money the increase was $1,052,000,000.

The treasury explained that $900,000,000 of the increased revenue came from new levies and from higher rates under old levies. At any rate the increase in this amount resulted from the action taken by the Seventy-third congress in its special and regular sessions, both held under the Roosevelt administration. Another part of the increase, $152,000,000 came from increased yields under old tax rates.

It is interesting to note the classified collections. Cigarettes and tobacco together yielded the largest item of revenue. The classification is: Private incomes, $420,000,000; corporate incomes, $397,000,000; beer, $163,000,000; liquor and wines, $96,000,000; cigarettes and tobacco, $425,000,000; gasoline, $203,000,000. Farm processing taxes yielded a total of $371,000,000.

It was explained by the treasury officials that the administration was greatly disappointed in the small revenue from the liquor taxes. Democratic leaders who insisted on repeal of prohibition were confident that the liquor taxes would bring in vast amounts of revenue and provide a good deal of the money with which the new deal was to be handled. It had been estimated that hard liquor would yield $175,000,000 the first six months; it brought $96,000,000. The treasury complained that bootlegging had cut down the federal liquor revenue. Beer did better as a revenue producer, the yield being $163,000,000.

With these figures before them, American taxpayers probably will wonder what the increases will be in the future. A 65 per cent increase the first fiscal year of the new administration may be duplicated or closely approached in the second fiscal year. By the time the administration is ending, taxes paid to Uncle Sam easily may be double what they were when it began.

Thoughtful observers are now of the opinion that the recovery program will require at least three or four years to complete if, indeed, it can be done in that time. If Uncle Sam finds it obligatory to increase revenue to meet the cost of relief and of government, the annual tax bill may jump to more than $4,000,000,000 by 1936 or 1937.

The King Can Do No Wrong

"Government costs are higher than private business costs and government in business leads to bureaucracy, according to Representative Joseph B. Shannon, of Missouri.

"Perfection in bureaucracy is reached:

"First, when a dignified salary is paid the bureau head.

"Second, when special fiscal prerogatives in the purchase of living supplies are accorded and so forth; and

"Third, by a revival of the assumption of the ancient doctrine of the presumption of correct motive on the part of the bureau head, and this not to be questioned, or doubted by an unenlightened public.

"Well can it be said, 'once a bureau always a bureau.' None ever dies voluntarily and very few legislatively.

The birth rate is vastly in excess of the death rate. A bureau to keep a record of all contracts growing out of the Civil War was still functioning in 1928, sixty-three years after that war."

EXCAVATION SHOWS HOLT COUNTY WAS ONCE THE HOME OF MANY INDIANS

recorded history to show the two nations caused each plenty of trouble.

Some of the ex-soldiers who saw service against the Sioux after 1870, and fought under such leaders as General George A. Custer and Captains Bernteen and Reno, have said the Sioux abandoned their reservations in huge numbers and formed union with a band of Sioux in the Black Hills country, Sioux who were determined to down the whites or bust in the attempt.

As everyone knows, the government made a treaty with the Sioux which gave them the privilege of hunting in their beloved Black Hills. Out in the field, General Phil Sheridan could not have known of this part of the treaty as he prepared, in the summer of 1876, to strike a knockout blow at the brown people or make them come back and remain on their reservations. He had things fixed so General Crook should creep up from the vicinity of Wyoming, traveling northeast, and another general, Terry, was ordered to approach from the south and General Gibbon was directed to travel from the east. After the big push was under way, it was planned, the idea was to continue harrassing the reds until they slipped back to their several reservations. The plan appeared sound, writers say, and at the time there was nothing in sight to prevent it working as it appeared on paper. It was believed the Indians would fight, but eventually hot foot it for their old homes.

The armies of the whites were to get together after the enemy got on the run, and then hammer the life out of them or put them on the land they left. It was thought the drive was all over but the shouting and the boys went at their task as if it were some sort of game.

As often happens in such cases, the Indians were not exactly idle in the meantime. Their scouts brought in hard earned but valuable nuggets of information and the Cheyenne and Sioux who were fighting under direction of a chief called Crazy Horse, were ordered to attack the force under General Crook. The chase became the chasers.
