YES---
ADULTERATED FABRICS
FREQUENTLY ARE REPRESENTED AS ALL WOOL

WATCH OUT! Wolves are masquerading in sheep's clothing these days! Men's clothes represented as "all wool" but containing sometimes as much as 80% cheap substitutes, are being sold widely. They look all right at first, but fade, shrink and pucker. To be sure of pure all-wool, look for the Trumpeter label.

Code Authority challenged Hart Schaffner & Marx to prove it... they did---

THE above statement appeared in one of the advertisements over the signature of the store which distributes Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes in B....., a large eastern city. The local Retail Code Authority promptly ordered the store to submit proof that clothes made of adulterated fabrics were being sold as all wool, or print a retraction.

Hart Schaffner & Marx sent an expert to get the proof. He took a witness along to verify his statements, and bought suits in six stores in the city of B.....

here's what he found:

STORE "A" Suits in window tagged as 100% wool. Represented by salesman as all wool. Tested 21% cotton by weight.

STORE "B" Suit in window tagged as all wool. Salesman represented it as all wool and warned against cheap substitutes. Tested 25% cotton by weight.

STORE "C" Suit represented by salesman to be all wool. Tested 26% cotton by weight.

STORE "D" Suit represented by salesman to be all wool. Tested 44% cotton by weight.

STORE "E" Suit represented by proprietor as all wool worsted. Tested 51% cotton by weight.

STORE "F" Suit represented by proprietor as all wool worsted. Tested 81% cotton by weight.

we repeat---

The markets ARE full of clothes made of adulterated fabrics. Clothes made of adulterated fabrics frequently ARE represented as all wool. No adulterated fabrics are used in Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes.

One way to be sure you are getting all-wool fabrics is to come to this store, which sells Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes, and look for the Trumpeter label.
