CONGRESS
As Seen by a Nebraskan

Keg vs. Bottle—The house passed H. R. 8870 today with about 100 voting against it. This is a bill known as the "Federal Alcohol Control Act." It opens a new bureau with the new administrator getting ten thousand dollars a year and expenses when he is traveling. It also provides for appointment of a lot of new government office holders. Those opposing it did so on grounds that the new appointees should be selected on the basis of civil service, that they should not be selected because they have been political party workers. The congressmen also voted against the bill because it discriminates against the corn farmer by allowing black strap molasses to come in to compete with farm grains and that it allows the importation of foreign liquors. Anyway, the bill carried and goes to senate now for futher fighting. It will be back in the house when the senate gets its turn at the bat. It was really a fight between congressmen who represent districts where bottles are made and congressmen who live in districts where barrels are made. The bill allows sale by the barrel or keg and the barrel men didn't want to allow the distilleries to use the barrels for whiskey again and the bottle congressmen didn't want the cooperage men to get any advantage. One congressmen said on the floor of the house he was going to vote with the bottle congressmen because he had read in the good book that it was not right to put new wine in old bottles and so he favored a law against using old bottles after they had been once emptied of liquor. Much was said how the bill might help the bootlegger because it allows dealing out of kegs in "bonafide hotels or clubs." Many congressmen feel most any bootlegger can organize a club. The administrator and his politically appointed helpers will decide what is to be a bonafide hotel or club. Restaurants, cafes and taverns are left out of the bill so far as sales out of barrels are concerned.

Bonus Army Again—Another bouns army is in Washington. A thousand men with a leader who has a broken spine and a flag bearer who carries a fish pole with the Stars and Stripes tied to the top of the pole. They want their bonus paid now out of the five billion dollar works relief funds. They tell Nebraska men that they don't want to be on charity any more. They feel they have the money coming; that Uncle Sam should pay it out of the big fund because he will pay them some of it anyway and that much of it will be wasted. They ask the Nebraska men why Uncle Sam can't save money by paying it to them now out of his big fund? They believe 100 per cent of it would go to the soldiers who have it coming; that Uncle Sam would not have to pay any overhead expenses to high salaried politicians with the money; that the soldiers could pay their debts; buy a little farm or something and the government would be done with them forever. They are told they can't stay around the capitol grounds and the police send them away and now they are camped around the city. Most of these men are from eastern states. Congress talking to them told them to be orderly and to obey the commands of the police to get off the capitol grounds but the congressmen also told them that under the constitution they still have the right of free assemblage and free speech and the right to petition.

Fishermen—Leigh Reynolds writes from Norfolk that three Nebraska men caught fifty-one pounds of catfish; that he and a party went to Conger's at Lake Ericson and got their limit of crappies and a few bass; and that Bo Schmid and the sportsmen at Schuyler are finding it nice and cool on an island on the river. Nebraskans catching hardheads in the Potomac river here say the hardheads are too oily and greasy. These hardheads need no butter or lard for frying. They fry in their own grease. They do not taste as good as a mess of crappies out of a nice cool Nebraska lake.

Tobacco Grading—The tobacco growing farmers believe they are being robbed by speculators and tobacco experts and as a result H. R. 8026 to establish an official tobacco inspection service is now being debated in the house. The sponsors of the bill say that there are about 100 different grades of tobacco; that the tobacco farmers do not know personally more than four or five different grades; that the tobacco is brought to ware houses and sold at the rate of one basket every ten seconds; that the "expert speculators" who know the grades of tobacco make the bids so quick that the farmers have to accept the bid; as a result they lose from $10 to $20 per sale. The bill provides that Uncle Sam should hire expert graders who would stamp the grade of each farmer's tobacco and furnish the farmer with a bulletin showing just what that particular grade of tobacco was selling for at other warehouses in other states. But the opponents of the bill say that it is setting up another bureau for the appointment of more politicians and that the bill carries an appropriation of $750,000 per year of the taxpayers money.

Slow Moving—The house of representatives took all day Thursday to work on the gold clause bill and after passing it by a large vote they adjourned until next Monday because they didn't have anything else to do. The members are told that these three to four days recess will be regular because the house must wait on the senate and also on the committees which are holding hearings on various bills which are in the process of legislative machinery. The real cause of delay is now the new tax bill proposed by the president and the committee has already begun hearings on that bill altho the bill has not yet been written.

Berry Pickers—A congressman stated yesterday that the farmers of New Jersey have lost about $250,000 of their raspberry crop, because they couldn't find people to harvest the berries. He states that when these New Jersey farmers went out to hire people to pick the crop, telling them they could make about $2.00 a day, the workers said they would rather stay on relief because if they took these jobs as berry pickers they might lose their status of obtaining help from the relief organization.
