SOUTHWEST BREEZES

By Romaine Saunders

Mrs. H. L. James visited with Mrs. D. L. Withers Sunday.

Old fashioned winters and new style summers are getting to be somewhat of a pain in the neck.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Widman missed the latest Arctic visitation by being on a trip to southern Texas.

D. L. Withers got home Saturday after a week's absence and departed Sunday for a truck load trip to Sioux City.

Influenza has a few on their backs down this way. Little use calling an M. D. as he probably could not reach the home of the patient.

Sheriff Duffy, accompanied by a special agent of the Northwestern railroad, had business down at the old Charles Thompson ranch a day last week.

The Stork gets about in spite of blockades. A new citizen has come to Swan in the person of a baby girl at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cap Addison.

A lone prairie chicken investigated the chances for feed as the evening sun hung low. He must have been successful. Two of them were back the next morning.

Two women recently died in the state, both having attained the age of 101, which does not indicate that Nebraska's vigorous climate is a strain on the vital forces. A long time to live on winter blown and summer scorched prairies.

What three of our customers told us about Long Distance Telephone Service

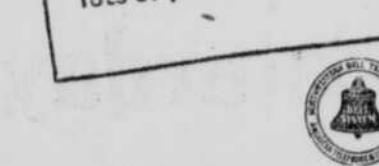

"On birthdays of my family I use long distance service and get lots of pleasure at little cost because your lower rates make it very inexpensive."

"Your long distance service is wonderful, too, and I was surprised at how low in cost it is. Charges are very small in proportion to value received."

"I enjoy using long distance service as I did just a few nights ago when I talked to my sister in Philadelphia. I had not seen her for 4 years and it brought me lots of pleasure."

Lowest long distance rates are in effect EVERY NIGHT after 7 o'clock and ALL DAY SUNDAY.

John Bower, aboard his preferred saddle nag, passed this way Monday, the first to venture over the east and west section line road since the snow fell New Year's Day.

Hay stacks, bushes and other hangouts for birds are so drifted in that pheasants are having a hard go of it. Our son Ned says he run across five dead one last week in going about his work.

Douglas county's credit seems to be at a lower ebb than Holt ever experienced. A dealer would not let the county have a few bales of hay without adding to the regular price $3.50 as a "carrying charge."

Berry's hounds were down this way Monday looking for something to give chase—and they found it. Blacktailed jacks are abundant and have the advantage of a dog on the snow. A leaping hound sinks in to his belly while the rabbit flees on at a safe distance.

For a brief minute '88 was upon us Sunday evening. And for that brief minute there was genuine alarm. But the onrushing cloud of snow vanished as quickly as it had enveloped us. The New Year's gift of snow is still untouched by a warm day; hay stacks are deminishing as there is no chance for winter grazing.

It looks like the OARP is getting ready for a come-back. On a basis of a gross business of 935 billions Doc Townsend still thinks his plan of a two per cent tax would give the old codgers each two hundred a month. While it does not appear a need of the near future to wear goggles on the rear of our trousers, as the late Doc Mathews would say, I trust payment begins soon.

"Time writes no wrinkle on thy azure brow; such as creation's dawn beheld thou rollest now," may be said of the "dark unfathomed ocean," but Father Time mellow the animosities and passions of men. Who remembers when the only hand shake among Holt county editors was with a clenched fist? An evening last week the publishers of the county gathered around a banquet table as guests of Editor Cronin of The Frontier and then joined in a business and fraternal gathering for their mutual interests that also effects the tax payers of Holt county. Not many were aware of it, but the county for fifty years has been bled white by city printers and supply institutions. The publishers have organized a movement that puts an end to this. By drawing themselves into a close fraternal friendliness unknown a generation ago they are also doing the public a distinct service.

MEEK AND VICINITY

Word was received by relatives the first of the week of the death of Charles Hansen at their home at Ponomo, California; he had been suffering with a severe case of pneumonia. Charlie was born and grew to manhood in this community and went to California about thirteen years ago and had only been back once, about a year and a half ago, when he and his father came back after his mother's death to bring her body back here for burial. The family have the sincere sympathy of the neighbors and friends in this community.

Mr. Pritchett passed away Thursday evening, after an illness of long duration. He was laid to rest in O'Neill on Saturday. The family live on what is known as the Be-ford place. The roads were impassable at the time of his death and a road had to be shoveled to the highway, where the snow plow opened up the road Friday. It made it hard for the family as neighbors could hardly get to the home.

Little Harry Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fox, fell and struck his hand and arm against a hot stove burning it quite badly and making it very painful for the little fellow.

Plans for 1397 Shelterbelt

Word has been received at the agricultural agent's office that several shelterbelt strips will be planted in Holt county next spring. Definite information has not been received specifying just what areas will be planted or how many belts will be put in but interested farmers should get in touch with this office as soon as possible.

Preliminary information is that the farmer will furnish the ground and get it ready to plant. The shelterbelt will furnish the trees, plant and care for them until July 1, 1937. The strips are to be from five to seven rods wide with seven or ten rows of trees. The farmer is to furnish material for at least a two-wire fence and the shelterbelt will build it. No payment for the land will be made although this acreage may be used as part of the 1937 soil conservation acreage, where it is crop land, for payment under that program.

Applications will be on hand at the agricultural agent's office this week so interested land owners or operators should get one as soon as possible.

Mr. Cuse, who got the permit to ship a shipload of airplanes to the fighting Spaniards, says that his activities will provide more jobs for American workers. So will there be more things for American workers to do is we have to send a million or so of them over to Europe to fight about something which isn't any of our business.

Did you ever notice that the fellow who wants to reform the country by dividing up the jobs and the property always picks something nice and soft for himself?
