School Notes

Safety education has found its place in the Nebraska schools. Due to the fact that so many children have to traverse the highway going to and from school, it has become necessary to recognize the teaching of safety education in schools.

While highway safety is perhaps the most important feature of the study, we must not forget fire prevention, safety at home and at play.

A Junior Safety League is being organized in this county and will have a membership of about 800 this year.

Another feature is the club pledge which must be memorized. Membership may be revoked if the pledge is openly violated.

Safety education is closely allied with the study of health. The pupil should know what to do in case of serious accident.

idents are the result of carelessness. During the year 1936 over 27,000 people met death in the United States thru automobile accidents, somewhat more than in 1935, and within 10,000 of the number of American killed in the World War.

It is said that 67 per cent of all car accidents are the result of carelessness. If these facts be true, safety education should accomplish a lot in helping to minimize accidents.

Our boys and girls of today will be the drivers of tomorrow. There is no need for this senseless mortality rate to continue.

Message on Court A Surprise

The President's message to enlarge the Supreme Court and retire members after they, become 70 years of age and to add many new judges in most of the federal courts of the land, came to Congress as a surprise.

No News Leaks From Court

Many questions have been asked in letters whether or not members of the Supreme Court can be interviewed by newspaper men and the answer to that is "NO."

Another interesting answer to some of the questions is that you can't expect your Washington correspondent to bet a "beat" on a Supreme Court decision.

This is the only arm of the government which does not patronize the government printing office.

This is the only arm of the government which does not patronize the government printing office. For more than three score and ten years now, it has entrusted the printing of all of its decisions to a private printing shop in Washington—and a "leak" has never been known.

linotype operator can digest the whole.

Talking of the G. P. O.—our government printing office, the government printer has just issued his annual report for 1936. This report shows that during the fiscal year ending June, 1936, the printing for the various governmental bureaus and agencies amounted to $18,756,268.94; the Congressional Record alone which costs about $35 a page cost the taxpayers $870,000.

Seek Means to Eliminate Bindweed

The usual number of requests as to what the government is going to do about bindweed eradication are commencing to come to the third congressional office. The matter is again being taken up by the Prairie States Group, which worked for two years on this problem in an effort to get money appropriated for the purpose of eradicating bindweed.

Lobbyists Supply Arguments

Congressmen's desks are now piled high with literature from lobbyists who represent arguments for and against nearly everything a human being "eats—drinks—wears—hears and feels."
