SOUTHWEST BREEZES
By Romaine Saunders

How have the mighty fallen. A daughter of the late and great T. R. has her picture in a cigarette ad.

Mrs. Plank, after dismissing school Friday, drove to her home at Elgin to spend Saturday and Sunday.

John Baker and son Alva and wife came down from the north Tuesday for a few days' stay at Hazelbakers.

If it comes to a show down, will we demand government by law or submit to the arbitrary edicts of personal will?

John Bower is on a visit to relatives in the east and expects to spend some time also in the south before returning.

Cap Addison got across from central Swan to Amelia Friday, one of the first from that far disconnection with a highway to drive thru this way.

Mr. and Mrs. Snelson were among those to get out of several weeks' hibernation and pull into Amelia Sunday from their home northwest of the lake.

The president's bill to increase the number of justices of the court of last resort is a little suspicious, to say the least. The cartoonists are having some fun with it.

The old time lodge organizer has disappeared under the dust and ruin, along with other picturesque but forgotten functionaries of a glamorous and romantic past.

The moratorium assumes there are no rights only those of the fellow in debt. It must not be expected law makers would escape in a world gone non compos mentis.

The supreme court being thus singled out, the inference is the president is not concerned on grounds of senility only in that particular branch of government.

Raymond Bly spent an hour talking over the vicissitudes of a hard winter with the writer of the Breezes Friday as he stopped for a visit on the return trip home from the school house.

Mrs. D. L. Withers and family enjoyed a visit Sunday from her father, M. McCarthy, and sister, Miss Margaret McCarthy, of Inez, who came over this way after attending church at Amelia.

The producer gets from $5 to $10 per 1000 for coconuts; the retailer gets $100 if he sells a thousand. Beef producers are getting about a nickel in the sale ring and pays 20 cents up town for a pound of steak.

Forty-three persons have perished the past two months in an epidemic of airplane crashes in the far west. Life is less secure than in the hectic days when booted citizens had a pair of sixes strapped on them.

There was to have been a Valentine party Monday—main feature shoveling snow—on the township line south of the Berry school house, but another slump in temperature wafted from the Arctic kept the host and guests at home.

Rev. Marion Holbert of Emmet, expected to meet her congregation in Amelia Sunday but the congregation did not arrive. Meetings have not been regular owing to impassible roads and but few learned that there was to be a meeting in time to make preparations to attend.

George Cutler was the first to go thru with a car going east to Amelia when the "tunnels" were shoveled out Friday and he got stalled at one point by sliding off the grade and a team had to be brought into service to pull the car out. Mr. Cutler, accompanied by Maurice Kennedy, then proceeded to Amelia, returning with his daughter who attends school there.

A crew of men Friday shoveled out the mail road east of this corner and north to the bridge, completing the work begun the previous day to open this road to highway 11. The heavy labor was lightened and a touch of social pleasure added in midafternoon by a thoughtful act a little earlier in the kitchen at the Riley ranch. Mrs. Riley and her daughter, Mrs. Tom Baker, prepared a kettle of hot coffee and a heaping pan of life-sized doughnuts which Mrs. Baker brought out in her car to the men. After being thus regaled a perceptible increase in flying lumps of snow was noticed down thru the ever lengthening tunnel as the men bent their backs to the shovels. There is much to be done—by shovels or sunshine—on the north road before the Atkinson mail carrier can get thru. The revered statutes of Nebraska make it mandatory that the road bosses and county supervisors keep mail roads open. Most of the blockades on mail roads down here could be avoided by installing a few hundred rods of snow fence each fall.

SPIRITED SIX CLUB

Roll call was answered by naming our favorite season and why we liked it. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. We got one stone in our castle for not crying when we are hurt and another for being when we lose as well as when we win. Our roll call next time will be current events. Melvin Gelster won in the English contest. He has won for the last two times and will stand the whole school again. The boys won in the orderliness contest and the girls won the cleanliness contest. Each side made out the punishment for the other side. Our new officers are Lloyd Henifin, president; Bernadine Langan, vice president; Melvin Gelster, secretary; Donald Bursell, news reporter.

Accident Record

For the week ending February 6, 1937, there were 313 accidents in Nebraska, in which 215 people were injured and 14 deaths. There were 100 motor vehicle accidents in the state, in which 103 people were injured and seven deaths. Other public accidents were listed as 119 in which 54 people were injured and four deaths. In agriculture employment there were 33 accidents in which 14 were injured.

In industry employment there were nine accidents in which ten were injured. There were 52 home accidents in which 34 people were injured and three deaths. This information is compiled each week by the Nebraska State Press Association and the state superintendent of public instruction.

One of our cynical bachelor friends says he hopes to live long enough to be able to go to the movies after Shirley Temple has grown up.

One of our romantic girl friends says she would get the biggest thrill of her life if she could get to go to the movies and see "A House With Seven Gables."

It Stands for the Highest Class of Livestock Commission Service

PERSONALITY—The best men for the work.

PERFORMANCE—The best work for the money.

PUBLICITY—The best quality of newspaper and radio reports.

Since launching The Atkinson Livestock Market, we have persistently advertised in this and other nearby local newspapers. Each week we mail out over 1,000 market cards to prospective buyers; announce our auction every Monday over WJAG or WNAX; have and maintain one of the most complete mailing lists of any auction in Nebraska; have over $1,200 invested in road signs and permanent advertising; send an average of 10 telegrams a week to interested buyers living in other states; call over long distance telephone an average of 10 customers for every sale; and in the season of heavy runs frequently use as many as 10 radio stations; advertise in the leading livestock publications of Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois and Indiana, as well as scores of country newspapers located in the Corn Belt.

WE ARE PERSISTENT because we believe persistency wins. "The constant drop of water wears away the hardest stone. The constant gnaw of Towser masticates the toughest bone. The constant wooing lover carries off the blushing maid. And the constant advertiser is the one who gets the trade."
