

Uncle Sam Was Out Traded

A Nebraska man who has been in the navy a long time, was in the congressional office the other day to talk about the naval appropriation bill. He says that the two capital battleships which Uncle Sam is building are absolutely necessary for national defense even if they do cost sixty million dollars each to build. This Nebraska man who loves the navy admits that if Uncle Sam had been a good yankee trader at the time we agreed to cut down the size of our navy we wouldn't have to be building any of these expensive ships now. The reason we have to do it now is that we actually destroyed and blew up capital battleships which were just completed while some of the foreigners, including Great Britain, merely destroyed the blue prints.

One of the new ships we blew up and destroyed was the Washington—a brand new ship which was just finished and cost the taxpayers over thirty million dollars. But the Washington was only one of many ships we destroyed and which we are now replacing with millions of new money. Foreign diplomats who knew they were merely going to destroy blue prints must feel greatly satisfied with their end of the bargain according to some American naval men who are still chaffing over destroying what is now being replaced.

Foreign Rice For Beer

One of the biggest breweries in the country, the Heurich Brewery, is located near the statue of William Jennings Bryan in Potomac park. A visit to the brewery and an interview with the brew master shows that this brewery, like many others in our country, is now using rice instead of corn for the manufacture of beer. This brew master says that rice is cheaper than corn and that the rice used here comes from the seaboard and that origin of that rice is the orient or some foreign country.

Government Employees Organize
In answer to questions regarding organization of government employees, it can be stated that practically all of the employees of the government departments are now in what is known here as the "AFGE." This means "American Federation of Government Employees." There are so many thousands of government employees now that this organization is broken down into "lodges" or branches with each branch or lodge having its own presidents and other officers and representation in the big or National organization.

Members usually pay 40 to 50 cents a month for membership and because of large numbers this membership runs into big sums when the final total is taken into consideration. In reply to "what good employees get out of such organizations" it can be said that much of the good is social contact at dances, teas, parties and outings. They help the young men and women to get better acquainted and many times some of their grievances are taken care of by their organization.

Government Spends Thousands For Tolls

A war in Spain or China or any place on this globe costs the American taxpayer money. That fact became known in the discussion on the new appropriation bill for the state department. Very few people know it but trouble in Ethiopia or Russia may cost them thousands of dollars in telegraph tolls alone. Its going to cost the American taxpayers about $252,000 for telegrams in 1938 alone; maybe more, depending upon how restless or tranquil the governments of the world will be during the year.

The department spent $52,290 for messages to and from Spain. That big amount for the Spanish trouble exclusively. Because of difficulties in Jerusalem recently, Uncle Sam spent $12,000 for the first six months on cables to and from there. It cost over $8,000 to telegraph to Geneva for the first six months and messages going to and from Rome, Paris, London and Berlin run from four to eight thousand dollars each, for the half year. The telegrams for Tokio, Japan cost about four thousand dollars and those for Nanking, China, run around $6,000. Abnormal conditions in the foreign countries cost the American taxpayers big sums of money.

Broadcast News To Our Representatives Abroad

Uncle Sam uses the naval radio for China almost entirely and so the government doesn't pay anything for a large portion of Chinese telegrams. The Navy came to the taxpayers rescue during the Ethiopian trouble. Uncle Sam had to reach Ethiopia thru the French, Italian or British cables. The cost was tremendous and also there was danger of interruption. Then the navy radio operators solved the problem. They set up an American radio station at Addis Ababa and Uncle Sam carried on his own communication thru our navy wireless station in Ethiopia.

Uncle Sam sends out reports over the naval radio station nightly and the receiving sets pick these communications up in most foreign countries where Uncle Sam has representatives. The foreign countries receive allow Uncle Sam to have these receiving sets to pick up these messages from home but they will not give Uncle Sam permission to install broadcasting stations in the American foreign embassies. The matter now broadcast by Uncle Sam over the world from the naval station is in the form of a news letter so that American representatives can be kept abreast of what is going on at home.

The State Department has only one direct cable service and that is to the American Embassy at London. For the information of radio students who have inquired; the government does send some instructions to China via navy wireless but so far as code messages and important messages are concerned, these are sent either by cable or commercial radio except where direct communication by naval radio is available.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Killinger and has been employed in Fort Collins the past eight months. The groom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Parker, and has been specializing in Forestry at the Ft. Collins agricultural college. The happy couple at the Ladies' Aid parlors of the M. E. church Friday evening. As each guest arrived they were presented with a colorful baby bonnet which they wore thruout the evening. After an evening of games, lunch was served by the members. Everybody present agreed that it was a real "big time party."

The members of the Inman Workers club entertained their husbands and friends at a "Big Time" party
