Across The Kitchen Table

Howdy folks! According to the associated press New York's farmers have found a way to eliminate the elbow grease required for the old hand churn, and at the same time get double duty from the washing machine, it is disclosed.

A dairy farmer's union representative says lots of farmers are using their washing machines for churns. The representative adds that it works swell. Well, it's an idea anyway, tho I don't know as I'd care to try it.

Do you have one of those cook book leasers? This species thumps thru the cook books, reads aloud all sorts of enticing recipes and makes remarks which smell of broad hints. A cook book leaser of the male type is apt to look at magazines and most especially at food advertisements, and they are known to groan as if in the last stages of hunger, and to rub their stomachs, meanwhile looking into space. These sufferers do this only two or three hours after they have eaten a meal which would choke a cow.

There is also a type known as the pantry pirate. This species looks in pantries, eats the half a pie you have saved for lunch, samples a couple of pieces of cake and does away with half a cold chicken.

There are cures and cures. You can give the cook book leaser a dose of his own medicine, lead him to the kitchen and tie an apron around his bay window. The trouble is that this medicine may be just his dish. He may just love twiddling over an egg beater, stirring up this and that and popping it into oven and kettle. He might even be a success which is something you hadn't counted on. So think, before you lead him out of the parlor and into the realm of the frying pan. Take into consideration, also, the little matter of accumulated dishes, dish towels and the kitchen floor. It is a good plan to have a signed agreement as to the washing up afterwards.

Pantry pirates are sometimes curbed, but never cured, if attention is called to their waistline when some old flame is around and about. But such remarks are worth while only for the moment and their effects vanish into thin air, when you bring on the pumpkin pie and whipped cream.

Do those dainty little pink ears of yours burn with embarrassment when the man of the house tugs at a dresser drawer and finding it balky makes some highly colored remarks?

Weep no more my lady, for 'tis opportunity knocking at your door. It is your chance to show what a real home maker you are. There are several treatments which may be given drawers which sulk, stick and won't slide. If you have some floor wax in the house, rub some along the bottom sliding parts of the drawer, and upon the props into which the drawer slides. Paraffin may also be used to aid the situation. If you have neither paraffin or floor wax in the house, you can fall back on the remedy which grandmother used, and that is plain old fashioned laundry soap. It really works.

If your bedroom suite is done in pastel enamel, as many smart bedrooms are, why not enamel the interior of the drawers to harmonize with the bedroom color scheme? If the room is newly papered, you might like to line the bottom of the bureau drawers with left over wall paper. There is also a pastel paper on the market for that very purpose.

Many women like to keep sachet bags in the drawers with their lingerie. It's a dainty idea. If you'd like to give your nice things the scent of your favorite perfume, drop a little of the perfume on a blotter and put the blotter among your silk undies. I have a friend who keeps her lavender scented soap among her sheets, thus imparting a delicate fragrance to the linens.

Line your much used kitchen drawers with oilcloth to match your kitchen color scheme. You'll find it looks so cheery, is easily kept clean, and it sets off the color scheme very nicely.

Public School Notes
During the Christmas vacation the members of the faculty of the high school spent their vacations in various parts of the country and in various ways.

Mr. Carroll, the superintendent, spent Christmas and New Years days with Mrs. Carroll's parents at Spencer, Nebr. During the week he took a short business trip to Lincoln, visiting at the University Teachers' college while there.

Mr. and Mrs. Grill spent several days in Herndon, Kansas, which is Mr. Grill's former home. The balance of their vacation was spent with Mr. Grill's parents at Grain-ton, Nebr.

Mr. Thompson spent his vacation at his home in Dorchester, Nebr., commuting between there and Lincoln where he attended several of the social events of the winter season.

Miss Ruth Kraemer spent her entire holiday season at the home of her parents at Newcastle, Nebr.

Miss Eileen Duffy likewise visited during vacation at her home in Petersburg, and Miss Collins vacationed with her parents at Wayne.

Lyle Durham, the band leader, visited at his home in Elgin, Nebr., for a while. During the remainder of his vacation he enjoyed driving his new car to various parts of the state and to Sioux City, Iowa, where he attended several outstanding attractions of the stage and screen, and purchased materials for his shop and music classes.

Elmer Stolte spent his vacation in Dallas, San Antonio and Galveston, Texas, with friends, stopping on the way to visit friends at Durant Okla. He reports a swim in the Gulf of Mexico, a visit to the historic Alamo in San Antonio, and a visit to the famous Cotton Bowl in Dallas, where he met Byron "Whizzer" White, all-American halfback from Colorado university who recently was elected to a Rhodes scholarship.

Mr. Morton rode with Mr. Stolte as far as Kingfisher, Okla., where he attended the funeral of a sister, and spent the remainder of his vacation there visiting with relatives whom he had not seen for many years.

The student body all reported back with very good percentage of attendance Monday morning. The entire group seems to have utilized the vacation to relax from their school duties and have begun the last half of the year with great zest.

Mr. Grill reports that the first semester will end Jan. 14. Semester examinations will be given Jan. 17 and 18.

Leviathan Junked for Metal
The government confiscated the German ocean liner, since known as the "Leviathan" when our country entered the World War. It did not pay Germany anything for it, but it did spend a few millions taking out its elaborate furniture and fixtures that the vessel might be used as a troop ship to carry our armies over seas.

When the war ended, it spent another ten million to put back the fancy interior which had been removed, and put the vessel in operation across the Atlantic. More millions were thrown away in an endeavor to make it profitable and without effect. Last week, the Leviathan was sold to England, to be broken up for its metal. The price received was less than would have been the cost of shipping an equal weight of new metal across the ocean. England will thus gain thousands of tons of metal for its new war program at a very nominal cost.

Government Employees Study Night Clubs
Thousands of government employees here have never seen Congress in session. Probably not five per cent of them have ever seen the President except perhaps on Inaugural Day. Thousands of them have never been to the top of the Washington monument to get a real view of this beautiful city. In fact thousands of these employees when questioned, admit they know very little about the real historic places around Washington. Many are quick to give information about the location of the town's liveliest night clubs.

Pessimism
The other day at the Press Club here, a group of newspaper men were discussing the present "business recession," to give it the polite name one is supposed to use in Washington. One of the newspaper men took from his pocket a list of quotations, which follow, and asked us to guess who said them, and when. There they are:

- There is scarcely anything around us but ruin and despair.
- I dare not marry, the future is so dark and unsettled.
- Everything is tending toward a convulsion.
- Thank God, I shall be spared from seeing the consumption of ruin that is gathering about us.
- In industry, commerce and agriculture, there is no hope.
- Nothing can save the British empire from shipwreck.

The above were said by the following on these dates: (1) William Pitt, at the end of the 18th century; (2) Wilberforce, in the early 1800's; (3) Lord Gray, 1819; (4) Duke of Wellington, on his deathbed, in 1851; (5) Disraeli, 1849; (6) Lord Shaftesbury, 1868. There is seemingly nothing new under the sun.

Try To Raise Refinance Bill
The Frazier-Lemke farm moratorium expires March 2, 1938. Last year the Senate passed a bill making the moratorium permanent. The House did not complete the action then. A sub-committee of the House Judiciary committee, while not acting during the special session, has agreed to a hearing in January. A glance at the petition on the clerk's desk shows there are only 138 names on the Lemke refinance petition. A determined effort will be made early in the regular session to complete the

Government Agents Push Down, And Pull Up On Same Farmer
There is much inconsistency between two government farm agencies. On one hand a branch of the Farm Credit administration is forcing collections of feed and seed loans from farmers who have not raised a crop while on the other hand the Farm Security administration is endeavoring to aid these same farmers with rehabilitation loans and other work. Governor Meyers of the FCA is going to be asked to get together with the FSA in order that the farmer who is told by one agency that he will be helped and by another agency to "pay up or get out," can know just what it is all about.

East Still Thinks Farmer in Clover
The Prairie States group committee which is endeavoring to secure admission from the powers that be, that in Nebraska and some other drouth states a real emergency exists and special attention should be given to these drouth sections, already has a resolution to that effect ready to be introduced as soon as the regular session of congress opens on Jan. 3. Because of the so-called "recession" in business a lot of the relief money which is needed so badly in the drouth areas is starting to go into the big industrial cities. As a result the drouth areas are being forgotten. Members still tell farm members from these drouth areas that the "farmer is better off than ever before." They can't realize that while good crops have been raised in Illinois, Iowa and some other states, there are many counties in Nebraska where farmers have again suffered a complete crop failure.

BRIEFLY STATED
Walter Warner was up from Ansley for the holidays, spending the holiday season with his family here.

There will be Lutheran services at the Episcopal church in this city at 7:30 p. m., Wednesday, Jan. 12, conducted by Rev. Wm. G. Vahle of Atkinson.

Al Pearson of Neligh drove to this city last Sunday morning and took Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Harnish to Neligh where they spent the day visiting at the Pearson home. Mr. Pearson is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Harnish. They returned to O'Neill Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Morris of Benkleman, Nebr., were in the city last Sunday visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Moore. Mr. Morris is superintendent of the public schools of Benkleman, a position he has filled for many years and which he held when Mr. and Mrs. Moore were residents of that city.

Californians have had nothing on Nebraska residents the past ten days. The weather has been balmy, real Indian summer, although our almanac tells us it should be winter. It clouded up last night and is spitting a little snow this morning, but it is not cold and according to the weather bureau we are not due for a real snow storm.

The various county officials are busy these days trying to compile their budget needs for the year, according to the budget law passed by the last session of the legislature. There seems to be some question in the minds of some of the officials as to the meaning of portions of the law and some of the officials have spent many hours in intent study of the law trying to get impressed in their minds the exact meaning of it.

A party of friends treated Mr. and Mrs. Vic Halva to a surprise party on New Years night. Notwithstanding it was a real surprise the guests were welcomed and made to feel right at home. Cards were enjoyed all evening and shortly after midnight Mrs. Halva served a delicious lunch. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Dave Loy, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Daily, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jensen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cook and Mr. and Mrs. James Oppen.

It is very dry in the southeast corner of the state, in the counties of Cass, Otoe and Johnson. These counties raised an immense wheat crop last year but the prospects for a winter wheat crop the coming summer are not very bright. While in these counties last week we noticed thousands of acres of winter wheat, with only one green field among the hundreds seen. Lack of moisture in the fall is given as the reason for the poor appearance of the crop and farmers are of the opinion that most of the winter wheat will have to be plowed under and the ground planted to corn if they are to get a crop from the land this year.
