Road Program Not To Be Curtailed

The House committee on roads which had planned a big fight against proposals to drastically cut the appropriations for federal aid for highways during 1939 has won its fight without the necessity of floor debate. Word came to the committee members that the leaderships will accede to all the demands of the road boosters and the 1939 program as outlined in the authorization will remain status quo. This assurance came following the president's message on plans to increase relief expenditures.

The House had been debating the 1939 agricultural appropriation bill in which the road money is carried. The bill had cut the roads funds in half as compared to 1938. The road committee members armed themselves with data and statistics and had campaigned among members to put the road money back in the bill. Suddenly came word from leaders that they would accept the committee's amendments to the 1939 bill. So the road boosters at home can feel secure in their hopes that the road work on regular highways including farm-to-market roads will continue.

Unemployment Forces Expedited

The President's message to the Congress and his fireside chat about the unemployment problem are topics which members of the House and Senate are discussing, with unusual interest. With about fifteen billion already spent to solve the problem and the proposed expenditure of about four billion more, the legislative situation threatens to keep the Congress busy for another sixty days. Many leaders admit that their original plan to end this session by May 15 must be changed. Members on both sides admit that the unemployment problem must be solved and because no other real solution, except to spend in order to create more buying power, has been suggested, the new relief legislation may have no serious difficulty in passing. The fight to "earmark" the proposed new relief funds has already started.

May Not Get Wage and Hour Bill

Whether or not a new wages and hours bill is to be offered to the House and Senate is problematical. Most members seem agreeable to a modified bill which would call for a 44 hour maximum week and a 25 cent minimum wage. But there are certain definite signs to indicate that perhaps the wages and hours legislation may be deferred for some time.

Some New Deal critics are unkind enough to say that the five billion dollar spending program is not designed to prime the pump so much as it is to pump the primary.
