THE NEBRASKA SCENE

Lincoln, Nebraska: Nebraska has a bunch of politicians who thought they rated in the presidential class who are both sadder and wiser as a result of the visit of Thomas E. Dewey last week.

Many of these disillusioned gentlemen belong to the cohorts that support Senator Vandenberg. Others have feelings of admiration for Taft and Hoover. Now they feel that some streamlining has been done in this campaign of 1940.

Soon after Mr. Dewey and his staff arrived in Lincoln for Founders' day, a series of conferences began. From the misty outside came delegation after delegation. These visitors arrived on schedule; they represented labor, the farmers, business men and student groups. The personnel of these delegations indicated that considerable political medicine had been brewed.

Numerous requests," said Dewey's informational chieftain, "came to us from people who wanted to meet Mr. Dewey. Of course, you know, it's impossible to have individual introductions. So we arranged to have these groups meet Mr. Dewey."

Champions of Mr. Vandenberg hoped to have their leader address the republican state convention at Columbus, May 2. Then came the demand to have Dewey's name placed on the ballot. Vandenberg's manager had to follow suit. There is no doubt that the youthful Dewey injected life, color, and movement into Nebraska politics.

In 1920, the republican delegation to the national convention disregarded the instructions of the voters at the polls. At the Chicago convention in that year, Hiram Johnson was endorsed. Leonard Wood had the support of most of the delegation until the sudden coup for Harding. In 1936, the instructions for Senator Borah were disregarded.

The following were chosen to head the Founders' Day program for 1941: C. C. Frazier, Aurora, senior chairman; Mrs. C. A. Davis, Lincoln, senior vice-chairman; Don Kelley, McCook, junior chairman; and Mrs. Andrew Mapes, Norfolk, junior vice chairman.

National Committeeman Quigley and more than 200 democrats staged a lively meeting while the republicans were celebrating. The nomination of Charles A. DeFoe for the First district congressional short term was approved by the entire democratic state committee. Omaha was selected as the location for the state convention, to be held May 2. Luther Bonham of Beatrice was chosen treasurer of the state committee to succeed George R. Caley, Springfield, president of Proudfit.

Oren S. Copeland, former mayor of Lincoln, has won the approval of the attorney general to have his name placed on the ballot for candidate for congress in the First district. However, the decision leaves the matter open to further legal proceedings if the protestants wish to go into court. Question as to the validity of the filing arose under a 1933 act which precludes incumbents from one elective office from seeking another elective office. When Copeland made his filing, election-law authorities expressed the opinion that inasmuch as he resigned as mayor before filing on the First district congressional ticket, Copeland was no longer an incumbent and therefore the filing would be legal.

A statewide organization, probably to be called the Tree Planters' Council, its object to co-ordinate tree-planting activities in Nebraska under way, and the Committee of Five which will soon have interesting plans to announce, is as follows: Clayton W. Watkins, Lincoln, extension forester of the college of agriculture of the University of Nebraska, chairman; Tom Leadley, Lincoln, editor of the Nebraska Farmer; Wayland Magee, Bennington, farmer; Mrs. C.

coln, who has been prominent in the Arbor Day programs of the American Legion.

Change Winter-killed oil— and here's why to change to OIL-PLATING

Slush in the gutter is scarcely thinner and dirtier than Winter oil over-staying in your engine. Drain now! Get cylinders, rings, bearings, and other precious parts OIL-PLATED by changing to Conoco Germ Processed oil—patented.

Your Mileage Merchant puts it in at an ordinary price, in the ordinary way. But how extraordinary is the man-made extra substance in the Conoco formula, that sets up a strong "power of attraction"—makes engine parts draw glossy OIL-PLATING all over themselves and keep holding it close... as drain-proof as plating on hub caps.

Not for one instant can OIL-PLATING drain "down home" to the crankcase. Though you're speeding the limit or parking long hours, OIL-PLATING is always faithfully maintained. All in addition to the strong oil-film of Germ Processed oil, this drain-proof OIL-PLATING helps to keep down wear. And that's how to keep your engine nearest to the oil economy of its youth. Your correct Germ Processed oil for Spring, at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station today, gives you an OIL-PLATED engine. Continental Oil Company
