MILDRED LINDBERG, Secretary.

Our cultural relations chiefs say that young men and young women who expects to work in Central and South America countries should learn Spanish. The Spanish speaking American student has the best chance for a job in our Foreign Service now. College students who would like to get an exchange scholarship in South America should learn Spanish. Applications for such scholarship should go to the United States Office of Education in Washington.

Mail addressed to the Philippines will be returned to senders because service has been suspended. Many letters which have been sent from Nebraska to friends in the Philippines are now being returned by the postal authorities with the following words printed in red on the envelope, "return to sender service suspended."

The Director of the Census informs this office that the general distribution of Census publications and other releases as practiced in peace time, has been discontinued. The Bureau had a list of over 100,000 addresses to whom publications have been sent. The suspension will save paper.

Soldiers with live ammunition and fixed bayonets guard the House Office Buildings. After five o'clock in the afternoon, persons can get into these buildings through only main door entrances and the soldiers usually call the corporal of the guard to look over identifications before entrance is permitted. People with bundles or brief cases get closest scrutiny.

Sugar is rationed in Washington stores. Most storekeepers are restricting sugar sales to their regular customers. Mrs. Oren Copeland, wife of the Nebraska Congressman from the First District, tried at five stores before she could get a few pounds of sugar. She was told "regular" customers are served sugar first.

The twelve-and-a-half billion dollar bill making appropriations for national defense—mostly airplanes—required only about an hour discussion in full committee and was passed by the House in a few hours time without a dissenting vote. Most debate centered around the importance of our program to outbuild the world in airplanes of all kinds, especially fighters and bombers. The production program is now getting under way at a speed satisfactory to recent critics of our plane production program.

The Roberts report on the Hawaiian tragedy caused much concern here. The Truman Committee continues its investigation of our national defense program and it is believed that many errors are being corrected. In the House, the Naval Affairs Committee and the Committee on Military Affairs are conducting investigations to disclose weaknesses and mistakes in the war production program. Some good may come out of these inquiries but criticism here is mild rather than severe. Profiteers can expect to be met by a very stern tax collector who will check the report huge war profits of certain individuals and firms.

There was considerable discussion in Washington when it was reported that the Army had ordered 1,000 cuspidor mats. This order, however, has been rescinded because rubber is badly needed for our war effort. The rubber cuspidor mats will not be purchased. Eventually, Uncle Sam will have to make a lot of synthetic rubber. Nebraska corn fields may yet be called upon for this purpose as experts here say we can make a good rubber substitute from our corn at a very low price. Dr. Leo Christensen, the University of Nebraska farm chemistry expert, who has been in Washington, has gone back home after conferring with the Nebraska delegation and government officials regarding a Nebraska synthetic rubber project.

Many delegates have been in town attending the mid-winter meeting of the Women's Club. Many of the speeches to which they listened were delivered by high government officials. The keynote of the meeting was the place of the American women in our war effort. Among the Nebraska women attending were Mrs. J. L. Vanderberg of Scribner, Mrs. W. A. Hevner of Franklin, Mrs. C. R. Caley of Springfield, and Mrs. M. S. McDuffee of Norfolk.

In the meeting with officials who have to do with priorities, it was stated that when a full inventory of tires and tubes has been made in our country, the so-called "little fellow" may get a few tires and tubes but not enough to stay in business. Some of these officials when asked to explain what the "little fellow" is going to do, say that he must go into the repair business. They admit the future is not so bright for little business in America.
