as his special representative in order to correct the impression in those places that U. S. production is not all it should be. Mr. Willkie will carry messages from the President to foreign leaders, including Premier Stalin. Stabilization of Farm Prices
 Secretary of Agriculture Wickard said he would approve a plan of livestock ceiling prices which "must not permit abnormal profits to anyone in the industry at the expense of the producers or consumers." Mr. Wickard also said he now favors repeal of the provision of the Price Control Act "that prohibits ceilings on processed farm products if the ceiling price reflects a farm price of less than 110 percent of parity." He said farm prices "have reached parity on an average." The WPB food requirements Committee asked the Armed Forces, the Lend Lease Administration, and the War Production Board to collaborate in working out a program for allocation of all government meat purchases as equitably as possible among federally inspected packers. The Agricultural Marketing Administration bought $137,900,000 worth of foodstuffs during July for the United Nations and other requirements, including 80,000 pounds of dehydrated beef.

Rationing
 Tire quotas will have to follow a downward trend the rest of this year to keep within the amount of rubber earmarked by the WPA for the purpose, the Office of

U. S. military equipment for forces stationed throughout the World. The Department said checks in payment of allowances to dependents of enlisted men of the army, covering first applications to be approved, will go out shortly after September 1.

The Navy announced recruiting of enlisted personnel of the Women's Naval Reserve will begin September 11, and training will start October 9 at the University of Wisconsin, Indiana University and Oklahoma A. & M. College.

Selective Service
 Selective Service Director Hershey said draft boards will begin calling men with dependents before Christmas. He said single men with "secondary" dependents, such as aged or crippled relatives, will be called first; married men whose wives work, next; then men with dependant wives; and finally men who have wives and children. He said the reservoir of 1-A men throughout the country is "practically exhausted." Selective Service headquarters said Class 1-B (men fit for limited military service only) will be eliminated, and beginning September 1, all registrants who are not totally disqualified will be reclassified in 1-A, while those not suited for any military service will be placed in 4-F. In the case of men reclassified in 1-A, the army will determine after induction whether they will be assigned to full or limited service.

Oil and Gasoline
 WPB Chairman Nelson appointed under Secretary of War Patterson, Petroleum Coordinator Ickes and Price Administration

Price Administration said. The Office asked local rationing boards for the "strictest possible interpretation" of a recent amendment to tire rationing regulations restricting truck eligibility to vehicles essential to the war effort or public health and safety.

tor Henderson as a committee to determine whether fuel oil should be rationed in the east coast area this winter. Because of shortage of fuel oil in the area, Mr. Ickes prohibited the hauling of automotive gasoline by rail in 20 middle western and southwestern states in order to divert enough tank cars to carry 100,000 barrels of fuel oil daily to the rationed area. If the withdrawal of these 5,000 to 7,000 tank cars creates a shortage, rationing should be extended, Mr. Ickes said.

Financing War Production

FROM all sides the cry is "More ships! More planes! More tanks!" But America has learned that the miracle of mass production is not accomplished over night. It requires planning, building, tooling up—and financing. You haven't heard much about the financing end because it has been going smoothly. America's banks have been on the job every minute taking care of the credit needs in their communities, advancing the billions needed to get production rolling. This bank is on the alert for every opportunity to lend.
