MISS AMERICA AND UNCLE SAM SELLS WAR BONDS

Instead of celebrating Halloween in the usual manner three O'Neill little girls conceived a unique method to celebrate. The little ladies were Beverly Jane McCarthy and Dorothy Froelich, who dressed themselves in the well-known Uncle Sam garments and Shiela Taffe of St. Mary's Academy, dressed as Miss America. These young ladies made the rounds Halloween, calling on homes in the city selling war stamps and bonds. They sold $40 worth of stamps and received pledges for $225 worth of bonds. The young ladies said they had a delightful evening and were graciously treated by our citizens and say they could have sold more stamps, but exhausted their supply. The young ladies are to be congratulated on their salesmanship and originality.

His hunch was right as the election returns disclosed during Tuesday night and nearly all day Wednesday. Bet Fred felt even better on Wednesday.

U. S. ARMY DIVISIONAL INSIGNIA

DO YOU RECOGNIZE THESE EMBLEMS?—Patches worn on the left shoulder sleeve of the soldier's service coat or overcoat indicate the Division to which he belongs. Insignia designs are made in a wide variety of colors but are reproduced above in silhouette to facilitate recognition. The absence of certain divisional numbers indicates that such divisions are without personnel or not yet organized.
