

Don't Be Shocked—It's Horsemeat—and So Tender!

Captured by Allied Jungle Fighters

Dejected and sorry-looking are these Japs, pictured after their capture by Australian troops in New Guinea. The remainder of the Papuan army was captured by American and Australian forces when they seized two Japanese positions in the Sanananda area, where the fighting was particularly heavy.

Honor Man

Honor Man D. Alexander Kellogg is congratulated by Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson at the graduation of the West Point class of 1943. The class was graduated 4 1/2 months ahead of regular schedule to make room for the new three-year course which is starting at the academy.

Wins Medal

Lieut. Col. Elliott Roosevelt of the U. S. army air force was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross by Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle, American air chief in Tunisia. The award was in recognition of the efficient work of the President's son in dangerous aerial photography expeditions. Lieutenant Colonel Roosevelt is shown getting ready for a photographic expedition somewhere in North Africa.

Grounded Heinkel Vulture Examined

This bird of prey just didn't get out of its nest quickly enough. United States army officers are shown inspecting an intact Heinkel HM3 plane which was captured when the Allied forces took an African airport.

Battered Malta Still Stands—Stronger Than Ever

Battered Malta, the stout little British stronghold in the Mediterranean, took everything the Axis had to offer, and can still go about its daily business. The enemy paid dearly for its almost daily attacks, however. At left is shown the shattered opera house in Malta. The people in the streets are British and American navy and merchantmen, soldiers and residents of the isle. Shown at right is a recent picture of Malta, the most bombed place in the world.

No Stoppage of Business With Change of Hands

A gangster walked into a bank and made a clean sweep. While he was busy stuffing the money into a bag the cashier set off the burglar alarm. The gangster hurried off in his car and soon the police arrived. "Which way did he go?" panted an officer. The cashier pointed down the avenue, and the police pursued. At that moment a customer entered the bank. "Good morning," he said to the cashier. "I'd like to draw $500 from my account." The cashier pointed out the door. "Yes, sir," he advised. "Just follow those cops!"

An Accident

"Accidents will happen," we often hear, and this picture shows one in the moment of happening. Above, Gordon Throne, aircraft designer, who captains the Flying Horsemen, is struck on the head while he was rehearsing his spirited mount, Prince Roy. The camera caught the accident just a moment before Throne was felled. Picture was taken at Inglewood, Calif.

Making Every Minute Count in Libya

First aid is given to British soldiers of General Montgomery's eighth army as other members of the infantry thrust forward to dislodge a group of Nazis on the road to Tripoli, for which General Rommel's dismembered Afrika Korps was heading. This photo was radioed direct from Cairo to New York.

'Mr. Five by Five'

After a national search, Clay Womack, 50-year-old defense worker, has turned up as Mr. Five by Five. He is five feet tall, and just five feet around the waist. He is pictured with singer-actress Grace McDonald.

Indian Guard Salutes United Nation Leaders

An ornately attired Indian guard snaps to salute as Gen. Archibald P. Wavell, left, of England's army, commander-in-chief in India, walks out of the conference room at New Delhi, India, with Brig. Gen. Clayton Bissell, commander of the air force. The conference was believed to be the beginning of important action in this theater of war.

Cliff Dwellers on Guadalcanal Island

These members of a U. S. marine corps mortar crew are making themselves at home in a sheltered gulch on Guadalcanal, between sessions of making it hot for the Nips. They're called "cliff dwellers" because they built quarters in caves scooped out of the side of the gulch.

Puss Listens In

A little alley cat entered the hearing room where the senate interstate commerce committee was holding hearings on the American Federation of Music's ban on music. Senator Ernest McFarland of Arizona is shown petting it.

Japanese Treasure Chest in Hands of Marines

Sergt. Maj. William B. Richards of Fitchburg, Mass., gloats over treasure chest full of Japanese money which was captured by the marines in the first offensive on the Solomon Islands. Maybe Sergeant Richards will spend some of this dough in Tokyo—with the army of occupation—we hope.

Led Great Invasion

Admiral H. K. Hewitt, USN, who was in charge of naval operations in the United Nations invasion of North Africa, is pictured with his wife on arrival in New York.

Necessary Condition
"We speak of liberty as one thing, and of virtue, wealth, knowledge, invention, national strength and national independence as other things. But of all of these liberty is the source, the mother, the necessary condition." — Henry George.
