They stand, some of them in shirts that have been ripped to shreds. Palm fronds decorate some of the graves that are marked by crude crosses. Soon after the services were over the men returned to their guns.

The gentleman at the left who is "roughing up" a floating mine with an ice pick is Lieut. George Rundle, instructor at a Canadian port. After roughing, the mine is set afire with gasoline-soaked rags and blown up. Right: Lieutenant Rundle, with assistant Harold Simpson, tows a mine towards shore after Rundle had removed the horns that actuate the detonator.

Mrs. Blank had a burglary. When the news got about, a neighbor called on her in great excitement. "I saw one of the burglars!" she declared. "He was standing just inside the gate, evidently keeping a watch for the men inside. He was a little man, shabbily dressed. I couldn't see his face properly. He had an old hat pulled down over it. He kept glancing in a furtive manner at the house." "What time was this?" asked Mrs. Blank. "Just after eleven." Mrs. Blank stiffened. "That was Mr. Blank," she said icily.

Two-Ring Custom

Many persons in Norway still follow the old custom in which both man and wife wear a wedding ring on the third finger of their right hand, says Collier's, and, when one dies, the survivor transfers it to the third finger of the left hand.
