Coast Guard Cutter Blasts an Undersea Killer

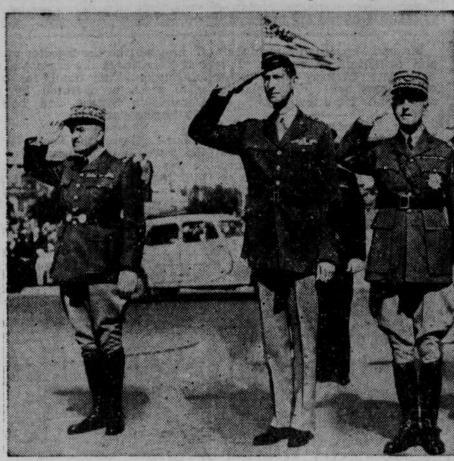

Crewmen aboard the United States coast guard cutter Spencer run to their battle stations (left) as a submarine is sighted attacking a convoy in the North Atlantic. Judging from the broad grins the men seem pleased to get a crack at the sub. Seconds later a depth bomb (right) is flying through the air from one of the Spencer's guns. The terrific concussion caused by the depth charge forces the submarine to the surface where the Spencer's guns are poised to deliver a final barrage which will send the undersea raider to

On the Hard-Won Guadalcanal Battlefront

At the site of some of the bitterest fighting of the war, a senior medical officer of the United States naval construction battalion is shown, at left, giving a blood transfusion to a Seabee in a foxhole on Guadalcanal island in the Solomons. At right, several husky natives line up to receive their pay as stevedores. The Seabees-men of the naval construction battalion-are making a base of this island which was wrested from the Japanese after a long battle in which both sides suffered heavy losses in planes, ships, and men.

As France Armed to Fight Again

At ceremonies in Casablanca, Morocco, marking the presentation to the Fighting French of war material from the United States, these generals reviewed troops at the start of a parade. Left to right: Lieutenant General Lasoroux, French commander in Morocco; Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark, 5th American army commander; and French General Nogues.

Macabre Epitaphs Teach Fliers Care

Two photographers recline in the "cemetery" at the army air forces school of applied tactics at Orlando, Fla. Serving as warnings to students about to engage in real warfare the epitaphs on the crosses read as follows: "He showed a light at night." "His gas mask leaked." "He lit a match on board a convoy ship." This school gives the final polish to army fliers by putting them under actual combat conditions.

All Dolled Up

Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill get together on the work table of Miss Anna Spalla of Brooklyn, N. Y., a nurse, who turns out doll caricatures in her spare time. Her dolls are sold throughout the country.

End of War for Nazi Generals

Monocled Gen. John von Broitch apparently still thinks he is in charge the situation as he crosses the threshold of an Allied headquarters after his capture in North Africa with 200,000 other Nazis. In front of Von Broitch is another captive, General Cramer. Captured generals receive all the courtesy due their rank and Von Broitch looks as though he expects it.

Digging in Gardens Instead of Mines

These coal miners are shown working on their victory gardens after leaving their posts in the mines. For the second time within a month virtually all mines employing UMW members were paralyzed by lack of manpower. A nation-wide dim-out to eliminate all nonessential use of electricity and a 25 per cent curtailment of all train travel were mentioned as possible coal saving devices should they be necessary.

A Different Kind of War

Chessboard warfare is very different from the bitter conflicts these Purple Heart wearers have weathered in the Tunisian campaign. They are, left to right, Corp. Vernon D. Tilford of Los Angeles, Calif., Pfc. Robert G. Ussery of Rockingham, N. C., and Pfc. Raymond Deadman of Boston, Mass. They are recuperating at the Halloran hospital in Staten Island, N. Y., from wounds received in action.

Japs Dug Their Own Traps

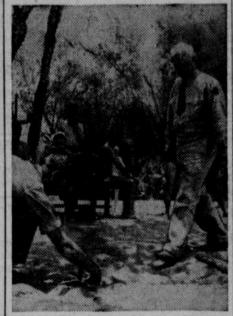

Holes like the one above connected with tunnels were the last posts cupied by the Japanese on Attu island. These United States sailors are examining Japanese medical equipment left by the routed enemy. According to a Japanese radio broadcast the invading Americans annihilated all Japanese forces attempting to hold the island.
