WOMEN AT WAR

Leonora
Leonora straightened the objects on her desk with great care. She had put her desk at the end of her room facing the door so that when her mother came in she would have to cross the whole room under Leonora's stern executive eye to get to her. From movies and pictures in the newspapers Leonora had gotten a good idea of how the desk of a busy woman of affairs should look. With an important scowl, Leonora picked up a sheet of paper. Now she was two people—herself, the busy woman, and her own stenographer. "Miss Simpkins, take a letter to the Secretary of the Treasury, will you?" she murmured under her breath. "Yes, immediately," she murmured back at herself. Leonora cleared her throat and looked at the ceiling for inspiration. Miss Simpkins bent over the sheet of paper hanging on the words about to fall.

"Dear Mr. Morgenthau," — "Got that?" — "Yes, madam."
"I am—ahem—thirteen years old and anxious to be of all possible service to the country at this time, ahem!"
"I earn a weekly income of from $1.37 to $2.12 by helping with the housework and by shovelling snow. I am at present in possession of one War Savings Bond and am buying stamps weekly. I want to become a member of the 10 percent Club. I feel it to be—ahem—not only my duty, but my privilege!" ("How do you spell privilege?" asked Miss Simpkins. "Don't bother me with these details," said Leonora—my privilege as an American to invest at least ten percent of my income in War Bonds.

Yours truly,"
"Get that off at once, Miss Simpkins," said Leonora. "Yes, Ma'am! You certainly are an important woman, ma'am," said Miss Simpkins.
(Letter from an actual communication in the files of the Treasury Department.)

Ensign Harriet Hammond, U. S. N. R., who has been stationed at Louisville, Ky., since her graduation from Officers Training School at Northampton, Mass., has been transferred to Jacksonville, Fla., replacing a male commissioned officer, who has transferred to overseas duty. Miss Hammond is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hammond and was born and grew to womanhood in this city. Her parents are now residents of Los Angeles, Calif.
Melvin Clouse is gratified over the results of the sale of a bull he owned, which had outlived its usefulness on his ranch and which was sold at the local sale ring Monday of last week. The bull weighed 1770 pounds and sold for $223.02. Marvin's only regret is that he did not own a real herd of animals of that weight.
Mrs. Grace Wilcox returned on Monday from Sioux City, where she had spent the last few weeks. Her mother, Mrs. Buckhauser of Orchard, who had been in a hospital for medical treatment, also returned home.

AAA News Notes
The sales price for feed wheat for the month of July is $1.02 per bushel.
Victory gardeners are urged not to harvest their potatoes until fully matured, in view of the current abundance of commercial supplies.
The new food administrator, Marvin Jones, in viewing the present food picture, cited the following needs: 1. A full allotment of materials for new machinery, supplies, repair parts, shelter and storage as well as processing facilities. 2. Advance planning to keep farmers supplied with seed, feed and credits. 3. A fair return to the farmer for his production—related to other prices in fairness to all."

There is talk about food shortages. This has created a fear on the part of some of our people that they and their children may go hungry. We may not throughout the war have all we want and everything we prefer, but we will certainly have enough for a healthful diet.

With the aim of speeding the movement of corn from farms to the nation's vital war industries, AAA has launched a purchase program in Holt county that will protect farmers in the event of corn price advances between now and October 1. Elevators are now making these price-protection purchases for the account of the Commodity Credit Corporation. Here's how the plan works: The farmer who delivers corn to a country elevator acting as agent for the Commodity Credit Corporation immediately receives the applicable ceiling price. Later, if corn prices are increased on or before October 31, he receives a supplementary payment equal to the difference between the price at the time he sold and the highest applicable price between the date of such sale and October 31. This offer doesn't imply any impending change in corn price ceilings.

Harry E. Ressel, Chairman, Holt Co. AAA Committee.
