The "Duck"... America's Newest Invasion Vehicle

U. S. ARMY SIGNAL CORPS PHOTOS FROM ACME

This is the Army's newest, most unique military vehicle... the 2½-ton, six-wheel, seagoing truck. Officially known as model DUKW, it has been aptly nicknamed the "Duck" by all who are familiar with its remarkable amphibian performance. While General Motors Truck and Coach factories have been producing quantities of this vehicle for some time, these photographs from New Caledonia in the South Pacific are the first to arrive from the fighting fronts.

Left—The "Duck" alongside a freighter is loaded with much-needed supplies for American Forces on New Caledonia.

Above—With driving power switched from propeller to wheels, the "Duck" heads for a supply depot inshore.

Below—Unloaded by a crane, the "Duck" is ready for another trip to the freighter standing by offshore. In actual tests, these huge amphibian trucks have carried 35 men on land and even more when in the water.

July 10, at St. Joseph's Hospital at Omaha, where he had been for some two weeks being treated for cancer of the stomach. He was a little over 44 years of age at the time of his death.
