BANKS AND THE WAR The Road to Victory Is Paved With Dollars

WE have no delusions. Money won't win the war. Battles will. But money is very important to the smooth flow of war materials from mine, factory and farm to our fighting men at home and abroad. We have money to lend for war purposes, as well as civilian needs. Describe your problems to us and we'll give you a quick decision.

CONG. MILLER'S LETTER

(Continued from page one) square miles, almost exactly that of the States of Connecticut and Rhode Island combined, but with a population of only 9,637, is the center of a great ranching country. The people are ranchers, farmers, and the kind of people who inhabit the small towns of the mid-west. They are the food producers of the country. They are the ones who have seen their sons and employees drained off into the armed forces and enticed by high wages into the war industries, their need for farm and ranch equipment given little consideration and their products put under ceilings. But in the face of all these things they have shown their patriotism in the best way they know how, by oversubscribing their bond quota. Here is a record worthy the notice of the whole nation.

United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration

This legislation provides for a sort of Community Chest Fund in which 44 nations agree to take part. It is true that the United States will carry more than half of the burden, but after the last World War we carried nearly 100%. One good feature of this measure is that the surplus goods, supplies and equipment left in Europe and elsewhere can be used as credits against our billion three hundred million dollar obligation. There are many things about this bill I do not like, but I supported it because of the great need for assistance and relief that will arise in the liberated countries. This bill is one of those I consider 51% good and 49% bad.

Soldier Vote

I expect to support a bill which will permit 100% voting for our soldiers. A federal voting bill being pushed by the administration allows the soldiers about a one-third vote. Good government begins at home. If it is important to make it possible for the soldiers to vote, and I think it is important, then they should be permitted to vote for state, county and local officials as well. The statement that it is impossible to distribute and collect the ballots of the various states is not borne out by the facts. The Army and Navy have plenty of air transportation to accomplish this. If this were done there would be no danger that the result would be held up by the question of constitutionality. We must remember this: the federal government has only the powers given it by the people as set forth in the Constitution. The power to conduct elections has not been given to the federal government. Therefore, any citizen has the right to challenge the participation of the federal government in the elections, by an appeal to the courts. Such an appeal would delay the determination.

tion of the results and might lead to chaos. I cannot bring myself to be a party to such a thing.

MacArthur-Griswold

Watch the trial balloons for president and vice-president. They will fill the air like the balloon barrage that tried to protect London. The MacArthur-Griswold balloon may reach the highest. Who would make a better commander-in-chief of our armed forces than MacArthur? Who knows more about and has done a better job with domestic and state affairs than has Governor Griswold? Much favorable comment has been heard around Washington on this particular team. While the lines are being drawn, let us not forget that we have a war to win. That is our Number One Job.

Interesting Food Facts

At a recent hearing before the Senate Agriculture Sub-committee Dr. Howard R. Tolley of the Department of Agriculture exhibited a chart which disclosed that during 1941 farm families having incomes under $500 drank 57.2% of milk prescribed by the basic food allotment plan (standard 550 pounds per person), those earning $500 to $1000 consumed 66.9%, and those making $1000 to $1500 averaged 74.9. Figures for non-farm families of the same income levels averaged 32.5%, 54.6% and 65.6% respectively. All groups demonstrated an insufficiency in tomatoes, citrus fruits and dry beans and peas. In general the conclusion was that there are 'real serious deficiencies' in food consumption, especially in low income groups.
