DO THEY REALLY?

The Sunday Driver
Nothing gives you indigestion more quickly than food cooked by someone who doesn't know the rules of cooking! Is anything more exasperating than a would-be bridge player who knows nothing about the game? The greatest danger a pedestrian has to face is the driver ignorant of traffic rules. Certainly nothing is more hopeless than a doctor or a lawyer who does not know his profession. All our troubles come from failure to follow a given set of rules—most of the troubles of the world today are caused by failing to follow the rules of life. Yes, the rules of life—life has rules!

Life can be likened to a game—there must be rules governing it. It is a most important game which we may play once only and forever must bear the shame of defeat or the glory of victory.
Now if life is a game, there must be rules governing it. When we want to learn the rules of a new card game we ask if its inventor has made any. The author of life is God. He has laid down certain rules which govern what we must believe and what we must do. Evil must be avoided and good must be done. The essential rules of life were planted in men's hearts by God—they are the natural law; additional rules and clarification of the natural rules were given to men by direct revelation through the Prophets, and chiefly through God's son, Jesus Christ.

"Very good," you say, "but where can I find these rules? How can I be certain that I will get the right rules? Did you ever see a baseball game without an umpire to interpret the rules? Of course not! So in the game of life, God has appointed a referee or umpire who is to blow the whistle when the rules are broken. For us His referee is the Catholic Church.
Like all rules, the rules of life must be learned by the players—the process is called religious instruction. Thus children educated have these rules explained to them. They are taught to practice them, and so that they may gain a certain victory in the 'game of life.' No father would permit his son to drive his car unless he first learned how; no mother would allow her daughter to prepare a meal without first teaching her the elementary rules of cooking. But there are many parents who start their children off in life without ever telling them that there are such things as rules to govern them. Is it any wonder that juvenile delinquency is such a problem? Where do you stand? Religious instruction can be had, and the rules are worth knowing. Why not learn them? That is the only way to be a winner in the important game—life. If you desire more on this most important subject, write: Catholic Information Society, 7800 Kenrick Road, St. Louis, Mo.

EIGHT VEGETABLES TAKEN OFF FOOD RATION LIST

Tomatoes, corn, beets, asparagus and four other vegetables have been added to the list of processed foods housewives may buy without ration stamps.
May values announced last week by the Office of Price Administration, include a zero point rating for canned spinach, leafy vegetables, blackeye peas and garbanzo beans, a foreign dish ingredient.
The move making eight additional vegetables point free was taken to clear stocks for the new season's pack, now in production.
"The present low values on canned vegetables may be compared to an old fashioned year-end bargain sale," said O. P. A. Administrator Chester Bowles. "When the supply of point bargains has disappeared, higher point prices will have to be restored to spread new supplies evenly through the year."
Fast values of No. 2 can sizes of the more important vegetables made point free are tomatoes, 8 points; corn, 8 (vacuum packed 6); asparagus, 10; beets, 3; leafy greens, 4, and spinach, 6.
In other changes in processed food values, reductions are ordered for all condensed and concentrated soups, the type generally sold. From the current 4-point value on 10 1/2-ounce cans, two points are trimmed for clam chowder and other seafood soups, while all other kinds are cut one point.
A number of varieties of fruit butter as well as grape and tomato preserves and apple, grape, mint and plum jellies in one-pound containers are reduced two points to a new value of two. But raspberry and strawberry jams and preserves, in short supply, are increased to 16 points a pound jar, double the present value.
Also sharply raised is the value on cranberries and cranberry sauce, up eight points to a new total of 15 for a No. 2 can. Freezing point value on all other canned fruits are maintained.
To slow the rapid movement of tomato catsup and chili sauce, the ration cost of these items goes from 23 points to 30 for a 14-ounce bottle, but spaghetti sauce, packaged with cheese, gets a value of three instead of six points for an 8-ounce jar.
Heavy demand raises the point value on a 46-ounce can of tomato juice two points to 18, while the 6-pound size will cost 36 points instead of 30.
Also listed on the May chart are point values for home canned foods that are sold. For containers over 14 ounces and including 1 and 2 ounces, points assigned are fruits, 10; juices, 2; vegetables, 1; spreads, 4; and special products, 12.
The point free rating assigned last month for all frozen foods is continued through May.
