Senator Butler Wins Fight for Feed for Livestock

Senator Hugh Butler's efforts have again "paid off" for the farmers and livestock producers of Nebraska!

When the 30c bonus on wheat and corn threatened to drain all grains into government channels and leave farmers without feed for their stock, Hugh Butler went into action. Through his efforts a law was passed by Congress enabling farmers, producers and feeders to buy and sell grain privately at the same price being paid by the government.

Senator Butler didn't stop here. He has now introduced a bill that will grant a 30c bonus to all farmers who answered the government's appeal for 1945 corn and wheat and sold it before April 19, the date the grain bonus went into effect.

This is real evidence of how Senator Butler operates. And all the more reason why he should be kept in the Senate to look out for Nebraska's interests.

SMALL DOSES - Past & Present:

The Primary a Farce?

By ROMAINE SAUNDERS, Special Correspondent

The beautiful theory of the primary plan of selecting candidates is more-or-less of a practical farce. Few are aware in communities like Lincoln and Omaha that there are some important nominations to be made June 11.

The old timers in Holt county recall with a sigh of regret the great day of a county convention when men's patriotism and party loyalty impelled them to come by horse from 50 miles to see that a winning ticket was nominated and a platform of stirring patriotic appeal was promulgated.

Politics today: What's the matter with it?

Hospitals are probably a necessary haven for the halt, the lame, the blind, diseased and afflicted, but it also becomes like a federal prison if you stay there a week or two. You wonder why the snappy little blond nurse wants your temperature and your pulse twice a day when you have neither fever nor fluttering pulse. But you learn and "con by rote" the rules that are supposed to impart the solace of healing balm to decrepit bodies. The cries of little children, the groans of suffering men, remind you of the melancholy refrain of suffering that haunts the destiny of the race from the cradle to the grave, and then a capable, warm-hearted brunette nurse comes and sits by you, talks and gets your story. When she goes you have learned that starchy professionalism has a human side and the M.D.'s have an interest in you beside financial.

Selfishness, individual self-interest, a great mountain of greed, a greed that would roll 'en o'er the embers of a human soul, as the late Pope Leo once wrote. A GI, who had won his spurs by distinguished service, has held up a 10 million dollar Federal project that would benefit a whole Ohio community because a few acres of land he owns would be flooded. Thus the material welfare of many in a large community becomes subordinated to the small interests of a single individual.

Organized labor is at once our best friend and our worst enemy. The able, industrious craftsmen of the unions are an indispensable element of American life and all who desire employment should have that opportunity at what they are worth, and no more. The agitators and a few leaders of pride-swollen ambition form an element of trouble-makers that can be the means of wrecking the unions themselves. Because of this element, organized labor has in-currered widespread condemnation.

Eugene Owen of the Shady Lane Ranch up by the Niobrara was in Lincoln early in the week to attend the graduation of Mrs. Owen, who leaves the classic college halls with BA degree and special distinction. They left Sunday for a motor trip East, Washington, D. C., being on the schedule.

Beginning with 338 B.C., the mists of coming centuries were to spread a curtain over old Babylon and the cradle of the race faded into the gloom of antiquity. After more than two thousand years, the country drained by the Euphrates again looms large in the world picture. The long sweep of history since Alexander took over the Persian empire has made its record. The highlights of the record—the sermon on the mount, the agony of Golgotha, at Bethany, the flight from time to eternity, the tramp of the human procession encompassing the earth; and now science predicts the end of the trail. Then what?

Out of the murk of forebodings, courageous souls see the Garden of God again blooming above the ashes of dead Caldea.

Is America a land of freedom—freedom from what? The student is a slave to his books, the professional men and women to their profession, business people to their business, wage earners to their jobs, homemakers to the broom and dish cloth, and all are slaves to custom. I hope soon to be out where birds sing, where wild flowers bloom, where nature unrolls her scrolls in crimson glory and men are free.

"LEST WE FORGET"

THIS day we commemorate to those who fought for freedom at Valley Forge, Chateau Thierry, Salerno, and Iwo Jima, as they carried down through the years the "Spirit of '76" to make the institutions Americans hold most dear. Let us assure in 1946 our freedom—freedom which all the world regards as the greatest on earth.

On this, the first postwar Memorial Day in years, let us pause to pay tribute to the nation's heroes who have given unstintingly to preserve the institutions Americans hold most dear. Let us hope that never again will mankind be forced to defend them upon the battlefield.
