Estimate 2,000 Workers Needed in Panhandle for Potato Harvest

Potatoes, one of the major crops of western Nebraska, goes into harvest about September 20, and several thousand outside workers are going to be needed to get the crop out of the ground.

L. F. Snipes, Nebraska extension farm supervisor at the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture, told County Agent A. Neill Dawes this week that there would be opportunities for a number of Holt county farmers and workers to earn from $8 to $12 a day harvesting potatoes in Scotts Bluff, Cheyenne, Kimball, Box Butte, Banner and Morrill county potato growing areas.

Snipes said that potato growers are being asked to make arrangements for sleeping quarters and eating facilities for those working in the harvest.

More than 2,000 outside workers will be needed in the six panhandle counties, according to the latest estimates. The employment will be of approximately three weeks duration, and some of the workers may be absorbed by best harvest immediately following the conclusion of potato gathering.

Snipes cautioned workers against going to the panhandle area without clearance from the office of their county agricultural agents, because the extension office will be a service point at which inquiries may be made and orders will be issued sending laborers to specific jobs in the six western counties.

Persons desiring to work in the potato harvest are asked to register with County Agent Dawes at once. Persons who are registered at the county extension office will be notified when orders come in for workers.

ANOTHER IN A SERIES OF MESSAGES ON THE ABC'S OF ELECTRICITY! C STANDS FOR COSTS THAT ARE LOWER and LOWER Says "Alec Tricity" WHEN you talk with a new resident in Nebraska, one thing he is almost certain to comment upon is Nebraska's low electric rates. For during the years in which Nebraska's own state-wide electric system has been operating, rate reductions have been consistently made until today, Nebraska's electric rates on the average are the lowest of any state in the middle west. Electric users are actually saving more than a million dollars each year through lower rates. And Consumers has achieved this favorable reputation for the state at no sacrifice in good service. Literally, Consumers SAVES as it SERVES. THE ABC'S OF ELECTRICITY A STANDS FOR ADEQUATE SUPPLY B STANDS FOR BETTER SERVICE C STANDS FOR COSTS—LESS & LESS Time To Think About Better Light for Better Sight With the approach of autumn, it is time to think about Better Light for Better Sight—what with the children starting to school, longer evenings in which to read and do other sight-requiring activities. And electricity is so inexpensive that everyone can afford adequate, sight-saving light. YOUR CONSUMERS NEBRASKA'S OWN PUBLICLY OWNED—TAX-PAYING SELF-SUPPORTING UTILITY
