Taverns Do Autumn House-Cleaning, Too

Many Nebraska taverns are doing a commendable job of Paint-Up and Clean-Up this autumn. Now that building materials and repair supplies are more plentiful, many taverns are being improved and renovated.

Most Nebraska taverns take pride in operating in an orderly manner, avoiding practices, conduct or conditions that arenot pleasing to the general public.

Where taverns are found to be unattractive and where violations of the law or the rules of good conduct are noted, the Nebraska Committee - now in its 10th year of effective operation - is quick to make suggestions for improvement.

The Committee welcomes suggestions from citizens with a view to assisting state or local governing bodies in connection with the sale of beer.

PRAIRIELAND

ROMAINE SAUNDERS

It was during the Chicago fair in the gayest period of the gay '90's that the greatest horse race in history was The starting point was in western Nebraska and the goal was Buffalo Bill's headquarters on the Chicago fairgrounds. O'Neill was in on most big things and lay on the route of the race.

Among the riders was the well-known character here, Doc Middleton. Doc was something of a pride-swollen boaster, but it took a local Irish lad to put him in his place during the stop of some of the riders in O'-Neill. John Weeks, Den Hunt, Tom Gallagher (or was it Mike?) Mike?) and a few other young fellows were at the Checkered livery barn where Doc was with his

"How would you get out?"

one of the boys asked. Doc replied that he merely tipped the barrel over. An empty barrel sat there and was rolled out. Gallagher challenging him to show them. "I could not do it now," hedged Doc.

"Oh," said Gallagher, "you are one of those has-beens!" Whereupon he leaped into the barrel and out again.

The notables amongst Nebraska democrats are fluttering about on wings of the air pumping up a somewhat deflated party sentiment and uster a rousing turnout at he coming Grand Island convention. The wings will flutter, circle and light at the O'Neill airport if the program of visitations functions as scheduled. I trust that Judge Harrington, John Sullivan and Billy Biglin will see that the iciting Jacksonian brethren are properly fellowshipped upon their arrival.

From the department of agriculture down at Washington comes the word that there is rough discarded stuff from American tables in garbage cans to feed Europe. So that is what the agricultural exerre are doing. Europe, the mother of modern civilization. the treasure house of art and literature, feeding out of American garbage cans. . . .

Don't thrust your literary wit in the direction of an O'-Sullivan. It is amusing to us out here on prairieland how one of the tribe has made a monkey of an erudite gent of the venerable Boston Herald. Well, Mike. as one of the coatless mavericks who strayed from his bunch-grass range, I ran into the social grandeur the wise men of the East are enveloped in and was denied admittance to a swank dining room when I was caught without a coat at 110 in the shade.

The cultural standards of decrepit old Boston require that a gent wear a "jacket of some sort" when they hook into the grubstake in the presence of ladies, who oddly enough are required under this same cultural standard to come to table nearly nude, and under the spell of darkeyed witchcraft enthrall with hypnotic charm the befuddled guys buttoned to their chins in Bostonian culture.

The rumble, grumble and roar over high prices is no new thing. It was the same with bread at a nickel a loaf, beans a nickel a pound, flour under a dollar and beef a dime. It acts as a sort of safety valve whereby to let off some of our grouch against life.

Artists and poets, tourists and thrill - chasers take the trail to the gloomy forests, cold mountain peaks, lonely dark canyons, grotesque piles of stone, rock-strewn abodes of rattlers, rainless desert land and call it scenery. The wild, savage solitude in the heart of the Rockies; the fatal brink of a precipice on the trail in the Sierra wilderness holding the threat of hideous death. Scenery, yes—rugged, majestic, terrifying.

For quiet charm or bound-less energy of sweeping winds, for the flash of color of the nodding goldenrod, for the fragrance and pink beauty of the rose, for the dainty tints of the meadowbells, for the song of birds and the sweep of open lands and open sky come to prairieland.
