

Arm Gone; No Tears

When The Frontier learned that James F. Lewis, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Lewis, of Spence, had submitted to an amputation of his right arm following a recent power saw accident, the parents and Sacred Heart hospital attendants at Lynch were contacted. The Frontier thought its readers would like to know more about the little fellow who lost his arm while delivering a message to his father.

The child's mother said:

"This little boy is loved by everyone that meets him. He is referred to as the smiling boy that never walks but runs. The Sisters (Missionary Benevolent Sisters at Sacred Heart hospital) say he's intelligent enough for a 10-year-old.

"He's never gone to school because of a silly state ruling that states that country children had to be 6-years-old. You can't judge a child by years. Intelligence of some at 5 is above other children at 7 or 8. (Please print this part.) If he'd been in school the accident wouldn't have happened.

"His room at the hospital is packed with presents. He had a Christmas tree and Santa came in person to his bed. He is the idol of the hospital and they say he's a wonderful patient, so brave, and there have been no tears. When they told him they had amputated his right arm he waved his left and said: 'I have this good one... and I'll do the best I can.'"

Mr. Lewis was unaware that his son was in the vicinity when the accident occurred. Attendants at the hospital held hopes that the arm could be saved, but surgeons were forced to amputate below the elbow on December 29.

Little Jim's hospitalization is not yet over, although hospital attendants Tuesday told The Frontier that his condition was greatly improved and that he probably would be dismissed in about a week.

Right now Little Jim is concerned more about his sixth birthday anniversary coming up January 25 than about the lost arm.

"When a fellow is 6 he can go to school," he said.

Everlasting Road Topic Again Tops Discussion

The everlasting topic of roads and highways dominated the discussion at the January meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held Tuesday at the Golden hotel.

Red Cloud civic leaders have asked the O'Neill Chamber to lend its support to a movement toward the improvement, and hard surfacing of state highway 281. It was decided to hold a meeting here next month to which civic leaders from north- and central-Nebraska towns on the 281 route would be invited.

The highway is destined to be rerouted and ultimately cross the Missouri river at the site of the Ft. Randall, S. D. dam, which is north of O'Neill.

The matter of proposing city mail delivery was also discussed, but was temporarily tabled.

FARM PROPERTY WORTH 22 MILLION

Rural Homes in Holt and Nebraska in Best Condition Ever

Farm property in Holt county is now worth more than 22 million dollars, and rural homes here and throughout the state are in the best condition in history, according to a report just released by the Tile Council of America.

More than 86 percent of farm dwellings in Nebraska and the north-central states are in "excellent condition" or need only such minor repairs as painting or general maintenance, the report revealed. Only 69.9 percent were in good repair in 1940. The report was based on bureau of the census surveys.

"The rise in farm incomes and property values since 1940 has been accompanied by a great increase in the number of rural homes equipped with such modern conveniences as electric lights, tiled baths and showers and running water," said F. B. Orman, chairman of the Council's residential construction committee.

Neighbors Gather Corn. Saw Wood for III Farmer at Inman

INMAN—Vernon J. Davis, an Inman farmer who has been in poor health, has good neighbors.

On Friday they ganged up in his front yard and went to work. The men finished gathering Mr. Davis's corn crop, making short work of a hard, tedious job for Mr. Davis. At noon they knocked-off and ate a big dinner served by the ladies of the neighborhood.

In the afternoon the husking bee was transformed into a sawing bee and a sizeable amount of wood was neatly piled in the yard by nightfall.

Mr. Davis has been under the care of a doctor for some time.

Benny Rockford Needs Blood

Benny Rockford, 22-year-old O'Neill youth, lies dangerously ill in the University hospital at Omaha. His illness is a combination of diabetes and a ruptured appendix.

Benny became diabetic in 1933, according to his father, W. M. Rockford, who is employed at the Tri-State Produce plant. He is a fragile boy and barely remembers his better days. On Thanksgiving day he was stricken with an attack of appendicitis, and he was later removed to the hospital at Omaha.

Because of Benny's weakened diabetic condition, the doctors have been unable to operate. They say he must be built up with type "O" blood before the patient can withstand the surgical ordeal.

Benny needs blood—and lots of it—from healthy donors. Hospital attendants say he requires a pint every 24 hours for the "building up" process, otherwise he will fail and the infected appendix might prove fatal.

Benny Rockford... the forces wouldn't have him... now needs blood—and lots of it.

Benny's O'Neill friends and relatives have already provided 35 pints of blood, and on Sunday alone there were 18 pints credited to his account in the blood bank at Omaha.

Mrs. Rockford, who is near her son at the hospital, has sent word that by this weekend Benny's account will be running low.

Not in the Service

Benny was born at Battle Creek. He attended school at Stuart where he finished the sophomore year in high school. Since coming to O'Neill he has had a tough time keeping a steady job because he lacked stamina. During World War II the forces wouldn't have him. The doctors said he "couldn't take it."

If sufficient new blood can be injected into Benny's veins, physicians have hopes of pulling him through the appendectomy.

Despite the grim outlook, Benny is cheerful—and hopeful. He's hopeful that more of his Holt county friends will recognize his plight and come in person to his aid with blood—red blood.

CITY MORTGAGE DEBT ON INCREASE

Town Dwellers Contract 3 Times Debt of Farm Cousins

Holt county's city and town dwellers increased their mortgage indebtedness during 1947 to the tune of 150 thousand dollars, approximately three times the increase of their country cousins.

Holt Register of Deeds Esther Cole Harris offered no explanation of the comparison other than the fact that most real estate transfers among rural people involved cash.

Twins Known at Inman Crash Cover on Collier's Magazine

INMAN—The Collier's magazine cover on the January 17 issue holds special interest for Mrs. T. D. Hutton, Mrs. E. E. Clark and their relatives here.

The color cover shows twin little girls having fun on a sled in Sun Valley, Ida. The snow p-nincesses are Eleanor and Earlene Ferguson, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ferguson, of Sun Valley. Mr. Ferguson is a nephew of Mrs. Hutton and Mrs. Clark.

Their daddy worked on the Baldy Mountain chair lift for the glamour ski resort.

The cover photograph was made by Joern and Louise Gedts (husband and wife). Fanatic skiers themselves, they snapped hundreds of celebrities on the ski trail, but they stumbled onto Ellie and Eunie, the snowsuit-clad twins riding piggy-back on a sled, to cash in on their first big photo money.

CAR SOUGHT FOR FRIENDSHIP TRAIN

Foodstuffs from Holt Solicited for Starving Europeans

Holt county has been asked to provide one carload of food for Nebraska's own Friendship Train which is scheduled to leave Lincoln on February 12. Abraham Lincoln's birthday anniversary.

Plans for formulating an organization to handle arrangements for Holt county's contribution were underway Wednesday, and a meeting is tentatively set for Tuesday, January 20, at 2 p. m. in the Holt county courthouse assembly room.

All persons interested and willing to assist in the movement are urged to be present, County Agent A. Neil Dawes said.

Plan Began in Lincoln

The statewide Abraham Lincoln Friendship Train evolved from the city of Lincoln where Chancellor R. G. Gustavson, of the University of Nebraska, was named to head the state organization. An appeal was sent out this week to all clergy, newspapers, city and town service organizations, extension clubs, scout groups, and many individuals to enlist interest in the movement.

Extension leaders were asked to draw representative leaders together for the initial meeting.

At the Tuesday evening meeting of the Chamber of Commerce the group voted to participate actively in the movement and send representatives to the organizational meeting.

The Friendship Train, laden with foodstuffs for the unfortunate European people, will assemble in Lincoln February 11, go to Omaha and accumulate more rail cars there. The route from Illinois eastward will follow that which Abraham Lincoln took on his way to Washington, D. C., to assume the presidency.

The Friendship Train will be moved under the auspices of the Christian Rural Overseas Program, and will reach the people for whom it is intended in much the same fashion as the original Friendship Train, which crossed the nation two months ago.

The Abraham Lincoln Friendship Train movement has adopted a motto: "A carload of food from every county." There are 93 counties in Nebraska.

Clarence Ernest is chairman of the extension service, and Carl Lambert is chairman of the soil conservation district. The public has been invited.

DANNY O'BANNON ADVENTURE ENDS

FBI Regain Face in Holt While Local Press Blushes

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has regained face in Holt county. But at the same time the Holt county press is blushing.

Elvyn Newman Bovell, 43, alias Danny O'Bannon, is now in custody of authorities, but the "scoop" on his fantastic saga befell the Omaha World-Herald in a front page story Friday.

Said the World-Herald:

"The Federal Bureau of Investigation has regained face in Holt county. But it also lost the unwanted services of a would-be propagandist who had enlightened O'Neill residents with tales of fantastic adventures in the life of an FBI agent.

"J. L. Dalton, agent in charge of the Omaha FBI office, Thursday reported that a former Omaha, Elvyn Newman Bovell, 43, alias Danny O'Bannon, is being returned to Omaha from Norfolk to face charges of impersonating an FBI agent.

"It is alleged that Bovell last spring impersonated an agent, demanded and received $320 from Homer and Sarah Lowry, of O'Neill.

Has Long Record

"FBI records show that Bovell is the adopted son of the late E. N. Bovell, former Omaha.

"Mr. Dalton said Bovell has a criminal record dating back to his arrest for a series of robberies in Omaha in 1924. He has faced charges of statutory rape, holdup, bigamy and for numerous burglaries. He also impersonated a G-man in Montana in 1943.

But it was Bovell's colorful stories of his daring exploits as an FBI agent that caused the department the most embarrassment. Records show that the former Omaha built up quite a reputation among his friends at O'Neill as a brave G-man.

"Last year he was missing for two weeks. Friends received notice that he had died bravely in a blaze of gun fire on FBI business in Cuba. But Bovell returned from the dead full of additional tales of his exploits.

"Using fake credentials, the would-be G-man made investigations and searched homes in the area.

"A girl admirer proved his downfall. He left O'Neill with a prearranged plan to meet the girl at one of several railroad stations.

Girl Proves Downfall

The girl, believing him a real FBI agent, complied. Real agents followed her and nabbed Bovell near the Norfolk railroad station January 6.

"He was held by Norfolk police to await return to Omaha."

The illustrious O'Bannon's name found its way into the columns of The Frontier on various occasions down through the months. Duly chronicled in a routine way were his promotion from "captain" to "major" in the forces, his "death" and "interment" in a family vault in Ireland, and his subsequent return here from the dead for social purposes and fishing excursions.

Gov. Val Peterson Files for Relection

Gov. Val Peterson filed Wednesday as candidate for reelection. He will seek the Republican nomination in the April 13 primary.

In a statement to the press, the governor said that from a survey of his first 12 months of service, he was "encouraged by the progress made" on the programs he had sponsored.

Among these he listed state highway system improvements contracted for during 1947 to the amount of nine million dollars and about 11 million dollars in new highway construction completed during the same year.

He stated he considered the creation of the governor's state-wide advisory road committee "a positive step toward solution" of the Nebraska road-improvement problem. He also said that he felt quite gratified in obtaining, after a special trip to Washington, and with the cooperation of our congressional delegation, two million dollars in federal funds to be used in replacing bridges and approaches destroyed by the June floods.
