When You and I Were Young —

Flash! Illinois Central to Build Westward

60 YEARS AGO MAY 17, 1888

That another railroad will be built into O'Neill this summer seems very probable from indications. We have long expected this and now we are sure of it. We feel like jumping and kicking the ceiling 3 times in succession with our number 12. Enough has developed to point to the fact that the Illinois Central company is in the field, preparing to enter upon a vigorous campaign in the extension of a line west from Sioux City.

Little Joe Henerickson fell from a fence back of Gatz's meat market and dislocated his collar bone. He is not seriously injured.

Messrs. Hazelet and Bostwick have decorated the interior of the clerk's office with a lot of fine flowers which they purchased when in Council Bluffs recently.

A team and wagon going south Monday on the outskirts of our city was observed to stop, and the driver was using every means to get them to pull the load. On asking what was the matter the driver informed us that he had purchased a dollar's worth of sugar at the St. Louis grocery store always bring a double team.

The demand seems to be somewhat universal that O'Neill should fly the eagle on the glorious Fourth, and to that The Frontier says "amen." It is getting about that time of year and we should begin to make some preparations.

50 YEARS AGO May 19, 1898

Charley Cornell, of Valentine, was an east bound passenger yesterday morning. He says that the reports sent out from Ft. Niobrara that the settlers there are afraid of an Indian uprising are false, and do that section of the state an injustice; that the Indians are peacefully disposed toward the whites; that the only fighting they long for is an opportunity to take Spanish scalps.
