Kelly Saindon and Fritz Kelly Were Great Guys; May God Bless Them

By MARY DEVINE BRENNAN

Hello Teenagers. Teenagers of every time and of every town have their own special heroes or idols. You have an idol although you may not even realize it. You look up to him and unconsciously or not you try to model your life after his.

Mary Devine Brennan

Sometimes this hero may be a historical figure, a Washington or a Lincoln; sometimes he is a national hero, a Knute Rockne or a Father Flanagan; but more often a teenager picks for his ideal someone closer to him, a teacher, a Boy Scout leader, a football coach. This "someone" needs only to have that rare gift of youth leadership which gives him the admiration and respect of the teenagers he contacts as well as the ability to understand them. Few men can do all this.

The right kind of hero is able to show his teenage friends by his own good examples of straight thinking and clean living, the way to greatness.

Such a man was Kelly Saindon.

On behalf of the O'Neill teenagers and all the others who knew and loved Kelly Saindon, I wish to express our deepest sympathy to the Saindon family.

Both Kelly Saindon and his friend, Fritz Kelly, were truly "great guys" and may God bless them for it.

Remember a few weeks ago when this column gave you a little "get educated" advice? Radios, newspapers, and books were all suggested as possible sources of enlightenment. Well, one teenager-to-be, aged 5, evidently took the advice to heart and set out to learn important things. She came in to the library the other day and startled the librarian with a request for "a book that will tell me how to ride elephants." It seems the little girl wants to be a circus performer when she grows up and she is planning for her future now. What about you?

The Legion beauty contest resulted, as you know, in the choice of LeQuita Parsons, of Atkinson, as Miss Holt County Legionnaire. Congratulations, LeQuita, and have fun in Grand Island.

Work is progressing on the new skating rink and bowling alleys and from the looks of things the beaux boys and the glamor gals are going to be having a lot of fun there this Fall and Winter.

Those who manage the Legion teenage dances are thinking of having a formal affair some time before school starts. It should be fun, but what do you think of the idea? You might make a few suggestions at the dance tomorrow night.

Just a reminder to all you gay Galahads before closing: Do you or do you not have a date for the Griff Williams dance? If it happens that you don't you'd better get asking. August 3 is not so far away.

The Atkinson Hay Days celebration is something to look forward to, too. So be saving your precious pennies, it is going to be a big week. Have fun! See you there.

They were accompanied by James Pinkerman, Sr., of Los Angeles, Calif., who will remain for a longer stay with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Coventry, and family at their country home south of town.

SPECTACULAR WATERFRONT FIRE . . . Miles of hose line snake along the streets of Baltimore's waterfront and streams of water provide a fountain-like effect as 80 pieces of apparatus and fireboats battle spectacular fire which raged through the 6-story building of the William G. Scarlett company. Loss is estimated at nearly a million dollars.

able, some simply shelf-fillers, mostly adult fiction. August, 1948, will find 3,600 usable books for adults and school age children and about 175 books for very small children.

In the 3 years many, many books have been discarded. We are happy to state they were worn out by constant use. We are adding new books and replacing old standbys daily.

Gene Cantlon, manager of Gambles, kindly offered space in one of his show windows. The display is featuring many of the discarded books along with a selection of the new ones. Going on the assumption that "seeing is believing," this showing will prove, beyond doubt, that the young people of O'Neill thoroughly appreciate their library and the value of good reading material.

The circulation of books for the youngsters ran close to 5,000 this past year.

The display will be of special interest to parents and to teachers who realize that children learn more in the first 18 years of life than in the entire years lived thereafter.

Do stop and inspect these books. Maybe you will have a more clear picture of what your library is doing for you and your children.

Jack Kersenbrock returned to Chicago Saturday after vacationing for two weeks here with friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Kersenbrock, John Kersenbrock and Robert Wallace went to Creighton Sunday.

RUNS FOR FEW CENTS A DAY

Yes, Servel runs on kerosene! For just a few cents a day, it provides constant cold. In its new sub-freezing compartment, it freezes ice cubes, makes ice cream. It's big and roomy, too, with plenty of space for fresh foods, even extra-bulky milk cans, poultry.

And Servel stays silent, lasts longer. The secret? No moving parts in its freezing system. So it can't wear or get noisy. Just a tiny kerosene flame does the work, silently, economically. New Kerosene Servels are now on display.
