Former Neva Atteberry Heads State Federation

ATKINSON—Mrs. Robert Martens attended the conference of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs at Chadron September 27-29. She is district chairman of the literature, arts and library service.

Mrs. Martens reported that the conference was "one of the most instructive" she had ever attended.

The district chairmen of the various departments held an open forum on the subject, "Building Citizenship." Judge E. L. Meyers gave a talk on "Mission for Aid to Greece;" Mrs. J. G. Leonard explained "Why Alaska Wishes to Become a State," and gave reasons why it is believed she should be given statehood.

There was a banquet in the evening at the Elks club. District officers for the coming year are: Mrs. C. H. Adee, of Kearney, president; Mrs. J. H. Vance, of Alliance, first vice-president; Mrs. Louis Remillard, of Chadron, second vice-president; Mrs. Jennie Overstreet, secretary; and Mrs. J. R. Minshall, of Broadwater, treasurer.

The state president is a former Atkinson woman, Mrs. Bilsie Robinson, now of Albion. She is the former Neva Atteberry, a graduate of Atkinson high school in 1924.

Mrs. Ernie Weller also attended the conference and served on the election board.

Bergers Depart on Trip

Mr. and Mrs. John Berger departed early Saturday for a 10 thousand mile trip through Midwestern, Southern and Western states. The Bergers went first to EuClaire, Wis. This is Mr. Berger's first vacation in more than 30 years. They will return about Christmas time.

MORE CURVES THAN A BUCKET OF SNAILS... So they've already picked Miss America of 1948. Who cares? There was only one of her and here are 33 of the other contestants—beauties from all parts of the United States and the North American continent who lined up in identical bathing suits as a prelude to the annual judging of the Miss America contest.

Theoretically, the identical clothing (that's a good one) permitted judges to make their final decision uninfluenced by distracting frills and furbelows. These young ladies had won their way to the Atlantic City final for a brief fling at fame, fortune and the spotlight.

Atkinson Duo, Ardent Contesters, Attend Norfolk Convention

ATKINSON—Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pease and Mrs. William Kretschman drove to Norfolk Saturday, October 2, to attend the Goldhuskers' convention. The Goldhuskers are an organized group of contesters.

Both Mrs. Pease and Mrs. Kretschman are ardent members of the club and have each won many prizes throughout the country.
