Chamber to Circulate Petitions Among Power Users

To Visit Columbus

A petition will be circulated among power users "within the next few days" and, when completed, will be submitted to Consumers Public Power directors at Columbus. It will request CPPD officials to abandon plans for dismantling the O'Neill power plant. The petition will be sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

J. Leo Moore, president of the Chamber, has appointed James M. Corkle as chairman of a temporary committee to investigate the power district's plan to dismantle the O'Neill diesel generating plant and move it to Valentine.

When the job of securing signatures has been completed. Corkle and other members of a committee will go to Columbus to confer with the general manager of the statewide Con-sumers power grid and mem-bers of the board of directors. L. C. Walling, manager of the O'Neill district, will accompany the group to Columbus.

The CPPD 1,000-kw plant which is threatened to be moved was installed new in 1937.

Chamber officials are anxious to have the plant re-tained here for "standby purposes." In an emergency it could serve O'Neill and a number of other towns on a rationed basis.

Service interruptions have been frequent during the past Winter, and in other post-war Winters power conservation had to be practiced because of inadequate power coming from the hydro-electric sources.

At Atkinson and Bassett

there is talk of municipal power generating and distribution.

The O'Neill headquarters will have instantaneous, direct wireless contact with Valentine, Creighton, Neligh, Ainsworth and Hartington when the radio equipment has been installed. In addition, there will be twocommunication maintenance vehicles.

Walling points out that a big obstacle for maintenance crews during past electrical storms and during the late Winter was lack of communications, making it impossible to determine the trouble spot without a reconnaisance of the lines.

deed 40 acres of land, adjoining the Elkhorn river, to the Scouts, provided the property can be accepted by the Scout organization.

The offer has been submitted to state Scout headquart r to determine whether that organization can accept it.
