LINCOLN — Nebuchadnezzar, the king, unto all people, nations and languages, that dwell in all the earth; Peace be multiplied unto you.

So the Lord of the East, for once in a happy mood, reached out beyond the Euphrates with a decree to an astonished world. He, whose nod from high on a throne of ivory and gold in old Babylon, gave leave to live or pronounced doom to die, had seen something.

wonders that the high God has wrought toward me."

A short time before the monarch of the first of the four universal world empires had caused to be erected on the plain of Dura a great image to which the assembled throngs from provinces far and near were commanded to bow down and worship. Three young Hebrews, who did not comply with this command, were tossed bodily into a burning fiery furnace. And then, the king beheld a wonderful sight. Four animated beings were walking about in that blazing Babylonian hell unharmed, and the fourth was "like the Son of God." Wherever the vision of mankind, it has caught the view of that figure, the course of history has been changed and individual lives transformed.

"Now I, Nebuchadnezzar, praise and extol the honor the King of heaven, all whose works are truth, and his ways judgment; and those who walk in pride He is able to abase." Pictured annals of Chaldean thrones, the story of Meads and Persians buried under the drifting sand of the centuries, Greek and Roman overlords, the fate of the Napoleons and the Hitlers of all time tell us not to become high-blown with pride lest we in the end are abased.

And where today is there a Nebuchadnezzar who, from his throne of ivory and gold, can say to all people, nations and creeds, peace be multiplied unto you!

UNNATURALLY CURLY EDGES on oil cloth can be avoided easily. Use a cup or saucer (depending on size needed) to trace a scalloped edge. Cuts the curl... and helps prevent the ripping.

PROMISE NOT TO TAKE HIS FAVORITE "AGGIE"... and Junior might let you have at least one marble for your mending basket. A marble is mighty handy for mending the fingertips of gloves. Easy to use... and saves your fingertips, too.

SHAPELY, E&W, FRUIT OF THE LOOM and DUNHILL sport shirts... names you know, quality you can depend on. He'll be sure to find the fabric he likes in McDonald's big collection. The season's best masculine shades of maroon, green, tan, grey, or blue. Men's sizes small, medium, medium large, and large. He'll want several at these value-giving prices... $2.98 and $3.98 and $4.98.

SCENT SENSE is one way of describing this tip. When your cedar chest seems to be losing its fragrance, rub the sides down (inside that is) with fine sandpaper. A little at a time renews the scent and sends the odor of cedar circulating.

FASHION-FIRST DRESSES... real beauties for fall and winter are at J. M. McDonald Co. Boasting newest details, careful workmanship, top fabrics... and budget prices. Juniors', misses', women's and half sizes for a sure fit. There's a dress for you at just $8.95.

SLIPS DO COUNT when they're MISS ELAINE slips... now at McDonald's. Truly lingerie lovelies, with the features we demand in slips. Multi-filament rayon crepes in tailored or lace-trimmed styles are just $1.98 and $2.98. Nylon acetate crepes are fast-drying, non-shrinking, long-wearing and luxuriously soft. Only $3.98.

A Texas gent invested his life's gatherings of $350 in the platform upon which Truman and Barkley took the oath of office. Why a truck load of planks upon which these notables stood? The old boy from Texas had ideas of his own. He is making souvenirs of slivers from the planks and gathering something of a monetary harvest from the sale of these.

Probably the House of Representatives chaplain got a thrill out of what he read in the Congressional Record. The Record read that his salary was $3,750,000. The typographical artist ran in three extra zeros and maybe the proof-reader went to sleep on the job. But the clergyman has been painfully aware that his annual take from a congressional source is $3,750. Pioneer clergymen in Holt county considered themselves lucky if their annual cash receipts amounted to $375.

The new United States attorney general in Washington, D. C., has instituted suits under the anti-trust laws against a big food concern with stores strung over the country. That is one so-called "trust" that is a benefit to the householders, but the biggest trust of them all—the CIO and AFL—the trustbusters steer clear of, maybe because they have a few million votes in the ranks.

The choice parking spots are marked with signs, "Reserved for the faculty," which is the most important to a college, the professor or the student?

The GOP thinks things are looking up. In a Pennsylvania congressional district, which Mr. Truman carried less than a year ago by over 12 thousand votes, a Republican has been elected to congress over the Democratic candidate—a Gold Star mother who conducted her campaign on an out-and-out endorsement of the president's program which so far has been rejected by congress.

Something of the size of the CIO war chest is hinted in the offer of a $200-thousand-dollar reward posted by that organization for information that will roundup the gent who took a shot at two of the union's bigwigs.

There is undoubtedly a certain satisfaction to be had in having a lawn entirely carpeted with grass, observes The Reporter of Spencer, Ia. And it adds the more pleasant yards are those that show a little bare path worn to the neighbors.

Extension Agent Plans Meetings

Training meetings in Stuart, Atkinson and O'Neill will be held next week by Holt county's home extension agent, Mrs. Beryl Damkroger.

The home extension agent said Tuesday extension clubs in the three-town area should send two delegates to the instructive session and the delegates will in turn demonstrate the information at the regular club meetings.

The Stuart session will be held Monday, October 3, in the parlors of the Cleveland Community church; the Atkinson meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, October 4 at the public schools with the O'Neill session Wednesday, October 5, in the assembly room of the Holt county courthouse.

Monday night, Mrs. Damkroger demonstrated food nutrition at the Atkinson veterans night at Atkinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Streeter, of Omaha, visited Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Streeter and relatives over the weekend.

NSEA CONVENES IN ZONE CONFAB

Approximately 150 teachers from six surrounding counties convened here Wednesday for the annual one-day zone conference of the Nebraska state education association (NSEA).

Round table and panel discussions, a dinner and the zone school address by David Sell, secretary of the national education association for Nebraska, highlighted the day's activities.

The session began at 2 p.m. in the auditorium of the public school with both rural and city school teachers participating in the discussions, according to Supt. Ira George.

Summary of educational laws enacted by the 1949 legislature, discussions on the 1951 legislative program, "The Teacher and Her Profession," "The Improvement of the Education Association structure and Program," and a round table discussion for NSEA convention group leaders were included on the afternoon slate.

The evening program at the American Legion auditorium began with the zone school dinner followed by musical selections by the public school band under the direction of Superintendent George.

Brief summaries of conference discussions were given by panel leaders with the evening program being highlighted by an address, "United We Stand," by Mr. Sell.

Officials of the NSEA who were on hand to take part in and lead discussions were: Doctor Burnham, John Lynch, fieldman for Nebraska education association; Mr. Sell, and Mrs. Cathryn A. Spelts, associate editor of the Nebraska Educational News.

Besides Holt, counties represented at the convention were: Boyd, Knox, Wheeler, Rock and Antelope.

The purpose of the zone district conventions, George said, is to acquaint teachers with problems they will face and suggested methods for overcoming these obstacles.
