

Harley-Bly Wed In Chambers Sunday

AMELIA—A very pretty wedding was solemnized Sunday, August 6, at 2 p. m. at the Lutheran church in Chambers when Miss Arliss Joan Bly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bly, of Amelia, and Richard L. Harley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Harley, of Chambers, were united in marriage. Rev. L. A. Dale officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. John Walter played the traditional wedding marches and accompanied Dean Farrier, who sang "O, Perfect Love," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The church was beautifully decorated with baskets of garden flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of nylon marquisette over satin.

It was fashioned with a fitted bodice with ruffles of chantilly lace outlining the yoke, giving it an off the shoulder effect.

Tiers of chantilly lace extended down the front of the hoop skirt, ending in a chapel train. Satin covered buttons extended from the back of the neck to below the waist and also at the wrist of the long sleeves, which came to a point over the wrist.

The fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a crown of seed pearls.

The bride carried a white prayer book on which was centered a purple orchid with a cascade of satin streamers.

She followed the tradition of "something old, and something new; something borrowed, and something blue."

The maid-of-honor, Miss Armetta Gled, of Chambers, wore a yellow gown with matching head dress.

The bridesmaid, Miss Barbara Curry, of Lincoln, wore a light blue gown with matching head dress. Both girls carried colonial bouquets of pink and white carnations.

Gordon Harley served his brother as best man, and Dwayne Bly was groomsman. Lawrence Dexter and Dwayne Bly were ushers.

The bridegroom wore a light gray suit and his attendants wore dark business suits. All had white carnation boutonnières.

The flower girl, Darlene Harley, of Chambers, wore a yellow taffeta formal and carried a basket of white daisies.

Jerry Dexter, of O'Neill, was ring bearer. He wore a white suit and carried the rings on a white silk pillow.

The bride's mother wore a navy printed crepe dress and the bridegroom's mother a brown sheer. Both wore corsages of pink and white carnations.

Mrs. Dwayne Bly was in charge of the guest book and Miss Ada DeHart of the gifts.

A reception was held in the church basement immediately following the ceremony. The decorations were pink and white streamers and white bells.

A large, 3-tier cake centered the brides' table. It was baked and decorated by Mrs. Art Dexter, of O'Neill.

The bride's going-away outfit was a 2-piece dress of brown and white nylon cord with which she wore brown accessories.

The bride graduated from Chambers high school with the class of 1950.

The bridegroom graduated from Chambers high school with the class of 1948. He is associated with his father in the hardware business.

After a week's trip to the Ozarks, they will be at home in Chambers.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Bright and son, Eddie Rae, and Miss Selena Hovey spent Sunday in Stuart.

Plastic Bowls Simplify Food Storage

BY BETTY LYNN CURTICE, NEA Staff Writer

ONE of the most annoying features of after-meal cleanups, to many homemakers, is the problem of what to do with leftovers.

The right-sized dish has to be decided upon; a cover has to be found that will fit the dish before the exasperating search for refrigerator storage space gets underway. And, often as not, after all that trouble the bowl is overturned before its contents are used.

With these aggravations in mind, a plastic company has designed a set of refrigerator containers which make the storage of leftovers less of a chore. The five-piece assortment contains one large quart size, two pint sizes and two ten-ounce sizes, all rectangular in shape.

The bowls are flexible, to ease removal of food; lids are rigid, to allow for stacking one upon the other. The lids are also transparent to provide visibility.

Sized to fit the small shelf of the average refrigerator, the dishes are nested within a tray containing three compartments.

The tray is also useful, its makers say, for serving relishes at meals, or tidbits at a party. The bowls are designed to double as small vegetable crispers or as molds for aspics or gelatin salads.

Also available are plastic food bags for perishables not ordinarily stored in dishes. Patterned after the brown paper sacks used by grocers, these bags are gusseted to allow for expansion.

They are sized to accommodate anything from half of a cut lemon to a Thanksgiving turkey. Soap and water washings keep the bags clean and fresh for re-use.

Out of Old Nebraska . . . Nebraskans Fond of Primary Tinkering

By SUPT. JAMES C. OLSON
State Historical Society

Nebraska's August 8th primary showed the latest change in our primary system in operation for the first time. Based on our past record, it is reasonably safe to predict that we will change the system again in the relatively near future—over the years we Nebraskans have exhibited a fondness for tinkering with our primary elections laws, and the way in which we nominate political candidates generally.

In this connection, let's take a look at Nemaha county's Republican primary of 1871—the first direct primary ever held in Nebraska.

The idea seems to have originated with Major William Caffrey, editor of the Brownville Advertiser and a close student of politics. He set forth his plan in the columns of the Advertiser in the interests of Harmony in the Republican party of Nemaha county.

Caffrey's plan was simple. The county central committee was to give 2 weeks notice of the proposed primary. The voters were to vote in their own precincts, with the results to be determined in each instance by locally chosen judges and clerks of election.

Major Caffrey argued that no gentleman, having been defeated in the primary, could bolt the party and support a Democratic candidate. Furthermore, he believed it would give more weight to the country vote and thus help put down jealousy between farmers and townspeople within the party.

Under the influence of the major's logic, the Republican county central committee unanimously voted to try the primary plan, the election to be held September 19, 1871, the same day on which the proposed state constitution of 1871 (badly defeated, incidentally) was to be submitted to the voters.

The primary appears to have stirred up considerable interest. A rather large number of candidates announced themselves 8 for county treasurer, 6 for sheriff, for example, and the vote was unusually heavy.

Although a simple plurality was sufficient to nominate, only 3 of the 7 successful candidates received less than 40 per cent of the total vote cast.

At the general election, the Democrats decided to concentrate on these 3, and, much to Republican disgust, defeated all of them.

Even though it might seem reasonable to expect that a man who could not get 40 per cent of the vote of his own party would have a different time in a general election, these 3 defeats of 1871 soured the pioneer Nemaha county Republicans on the direct primary. They tried it once again—in 1885—but failed to adopt it as a general rule in county nominations.

HOT WEATHER BIG NEED AT PRESENT

The big problem in Holt county still is how to get up the hay between rains. The southern part of the county got only light to heavy showers last weekend while the balance of the county was getting fairly heavy rains in most localities.

Consequently, some of the ranchers south and west of Chambers are fairly through with their haying. A few other scattered areas have been able to complete most of the work of getting the crop up.

But, in general, there is still much to be done, particularly in the north half of the county. Many ranchers report that they have the hay cut but haven't had sufficient steady sunshine to get it cured. The nights particularly have been cool and humid.

The corn is also well behind schedule, and, according to information from County Agent A. Neil Dawes, stands in danger of being caught by frost before it is fully matured, unless the county experiences an exceptionally long growing season. An early frost would no doubt catch much of the crop long before it was dried out. Some of the crop is now in the tasselling stage, and in a few scattered areas some silking out is reported. While growing conditions at present are favorable, the corn crop stands in need of hotter weather, particularly at night.

The rye harvest around the county is practically completed, and the harvest of oats is well underway. The continuation of favorable weather will see the small grains cleaned up almost 100 percent within a week.

Livestock conditions in general are exceptionally good. The generally heavy rains have resulted in good pasturage in all sections of the county.

As usual, in wet conditions, there is some foot-rot reported, especially around those regions of the heaviest rainfall where mud and standing water in the fields have been general.

The help situation in the county is favorable. The county offices have been able to meet all requests that have come to them for help. At the same time there is at present no unemployment reported.

Now that the harvest is underway, the farmer is confronted with the storing or disposal of his grain crop. The Production and Marketing Administration, as agent for the Commodity Credit Corporation, again offers loan and purchase agreements on grain produced by farmers of Holt county. The support prices on the various commodities are as follows:

Wheat	$2.04
Rye	1.27
Oats	.66
Barley	1.14

Grain can be sealed anytime moisture is 13.5 percent below. The condition of loans are the same as in the past years. Grain to be put under loan should be stored in dry storage and notes bear 3 per cent interest. Also the CCC is offering farm storage facility loans to farmers for the construction of new bins and cribs on farms. The CCC will loan 85 per-cent of cost of structure with only the storage building as security for the loan. These storage facility loans bear 4 1/2 per-cent interest and run for a period of 5 years.

A farmer in order to obtain a wheat loan is required to have planted within his allotment. However, if his wheat allotment has been overplanted this affects only his eligibility for a loan on his wheat crop. He is still eligible for a loan on any other grain crop.

Tractors Mired Down In Mud

AMELIA—The farmers in this area are experiencing difficulty in the hay fields through having their machinery become stuck in the deep mud. The heavy rains of last Sunday evening are resulting in further delays in field work.
