Establish Tree Plantings Again—

The state game and wildlife commission will again establish tree plantings for wildlife convention in Holt county.

Last year similar plantings were established on the following places: Ryan Estate, L. W. Reimer, and T. F. Matthews, all of O'Neill, and Theo. Baumeister, of Atkinson. These areas have a good survival this year, according to C. R. ("Bob") Hill, of the Holt soil conservation service. Cedar, Russian Olive, and a variety of other fruiting shrubs were planted. The areas range from 1 to 3 acres.

The game commission furnished the fence and trees and will plant and cultivate the trees the first year. The cooperating agencies to maintain the fence and do the necessary cultivation for the next 10 years. These areas are not posted nor are they game reserves. They are merely areas designed to afford protection or cover particularly for pheasants. The individual land owner may or may not allow hunting just as he chooses.

To qualify these areas must be within 1/2 mile of cropland and over 1/2 mile from the woody cover. Any Holt soil conservation district cooperators desiring such an area should contact the U. S. soil conservation at O'Neill before September 1. Only a limited number of areas will be established.

New Electric Range Now in Parsonage

EWING—The WSCS of the Ewing Methodist church met at the church parlors Wednesday afternoon, August 2.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Earl Billings, president, and opened with the reading of a poem, "God Is the Source," followed by the devotionals, led by Miss Anna Van zandt. The theme was "The Pillars of the Earth."

At the business session, the stove committee reported the purchase and installation of an electric range at the parsonage. Reports by the floor and carpeting committees were given, followed by discussion on each.

Plans were made to entertain the WSCS of Page, to carry on the chain visitation for the district. The bazaar committee was appointed and pillow cases were given to members to have completed for the bazaar in November.

Mrs. Henry Fleming, secretary of supplies, read a letter from the district secretary, stating the supply quota for the year. First quarter supplies of $4 was sent to Omaha city mission. Plans were made for a farewell party for Mrs. A. S. Evans and a committee appointed to take charge.

The lesson for the afternoon was presented by Miss Van zandt. The topic was "Christian Education and the Earth."
