ANDREW VILCAN FUNERAL MONDAY

LYNCH — Funeral services for Andrew (A. J. B.) Vilcan, 54, were held in the Catholic church at Lynch Monday, August 21, where prayers for the dead were read and a sermon by Rev. John Wiczorek was given.

Rosary was offered at the mortuary Sunday evening at 7:30.

Burial was made in the Catholic cemetery north of town.

Mr. Vilcan took his own life Friday, August 18, at 10:30. Authorities believe he hung himself.

He was a World War I veteran and was shell-shocked while in service. He was a semi-invalid since that time and bedfast for the past month.

His niece, Mrs. Joe Slechta, who was his neighbor, took care of him, brought him his meals and found him dead, 2 hours after she had taken him his breakfast.

Survivors are his 3 brothers—Frank and Thomas Vilcan, of Monowi, and Louis, of Gregory, S. D.—and their families.

Out-of-town relatives attending the funeral were: Henry Maly, of Spencer; Louis Vilcan, of Gregory, S. D.; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tijral, of Spencer; Mr. and Mrs. Jake Gehlsen, of Gross; Mr. and Mrs. J. Birger, of Lake Andes, S. D.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gartner and family, of Chambers; Paul Vilcan, of West Point; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kocian, of Spencer; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Baines and family, of Omaha; Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Stoual, of Creighton.

MORE POWER TO NEBRASKANS

Photo shows temporary substation and connections to new 115,000 volt Kramer Junction-Beatrice line to supply additional power for a wide area in Southeast Nebraska.

The connection of the new 115,000 volt transmission line to supply additional power and two-way feed for a large area in Southeastern Nebraska recently is symbolic of the extensive program now under way throughout Nebraska to bring more power and greater electrical benefits to Nebraskans.

A true example of Nebraska cooperation, these new electrical improvements are a part of the extensive expansion and improvement program recently undertaken jointly by Consumers Public Power District and other Nebraska power agencies to provide most rapidly and economically, additional power and greater electrical benefits for Nebraskans—on the farm—in the home and in industry.

Extensive Improvements Throughout Nebraska

The map at left shows the main line feeder system which supplies electricity for Consumers Public Power District and Nebraska's rural electrification lines. Broken lines indicate new main feeder extensions now being constructed jointly by Consumers, the Nebraska Public Power System and Rural Electrification Agencies. Dotted lines show new power feeders approved for construction by Consumers alone. In addition Consumers Public Power District has an extensive construction program underway throughout the state-wide system to improve and expand distribution and transmission lines for increased power supply and improved service.
