Improved Elkhorn river bridge built by O'Neill youth... stood test of 20 persons.—The Frontier Photos.

Edward Boyle... seeks national honors.

Pat Boyle... outstanding garden in state.

Edward and Pat Win Recognition for Summer's Work

Edward, 20, and Patrick, 19, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Boyle who live seven miles southeast of O'Neill, are two of 42 Nebraska 4-H winner project champions for 1950. Young Ed Boyle set out in the spring of 1950 to capture the state award for home ground improvement. He succeeded.

Now Boyle is competing for regional honors which, if successful, is accompanied by an all-expense trip to Chicago, Ill., and also for national recognition.

Edward outlined his plans for transforming the Boyle place. He kept accurate account of the costs and the amount of time spent. When he had finished his project in October, he had fenced the yard, seeded the yard, cleaned the yard, painted all the buildings including the house, sprayed the weeds and built a bridge across the Elkhorn river, which flows through the yard.

Today the Boyle farmstead sparkles with trim and order. Even the old courthouse (a log cabin which was Holt county's original capitol) was brought into the beautification program.

A novel part of the project was the erection of a suspension bridge. Edward used fence wire anchored to trees on either side of the stream. He then built a wood slat floor. As many as 20 persons have been on the bridge and it stood the test.

The bridge reduces the hazard in crossing the river and shortens the route to the pasture.

While Brother Edward was occupied with ground improvement Brother Pat was busy in his garden, which was judged by a group of county agents as the outstanding gardening project in the state.

COMPLETES COURSE
Raymond Smith, of O'Neill, was one of 23 who completed a five-week training course at a camp near Ashland for the Nebraska safety patrol. Six of the number have already received active duty and the others are on the standby reserve list.
