Supply Off, Prices Higher at Omaha

With supply sharply curtailed by extreme cold and by a "wait and see" attitude regarding what effect meat price controls might have, livestock sold higher Monday at Omaha.

Bulk of the fat cattle run went up at $32.50 - $35.00, with new crop steers weighing 1460 included at $35.00. Better steers sold at $36.50, odd head $37.00, and quotable top was $40.00 or better.

Cows sold strong to 50c and more above last week's mean close, canners and cutters $19.00-$22.50, mostly $20.00-$22.00, beef to $25.00, odd head $26.00. Bologna bulls sold to $26.50, a few to $27.00, beef to $25.00. Vealers sold to $36.00.

Stocker and feeder trade was strong to 50c higher, the advance mainly on low grades. Plain to medium feeder steers brought $28.00-$31.50, better ones $32.00-$34.00, top a record $34.75. Light stock heifers scored a record-equaling $34.00. Good to choice steer calves brought $40.00 and $41.50, latter a record; their heifer mates $37.00 and $39.00, the latter a record for heifer calves.

A Holt county feeder, Lloyd Glead, had high - selling yearlings at the Omaha market last week, 13 steers and 1 heifer weighing 1139 that sold at $35.50. Otto Hubel, also of Holt, had high - selling feeding heifers at the Omaha market last week, 14 weighing 705 that topped at $31.00, a new all-time high.
